A CLOSE VOTE.

Ingram Wins a Hard Fought Battle.

Coyne's Majority in the County 428; Ingram in the City 447.

Naind Eventually Redeems a East Elgin.

The elections of the city yesterday created a great deal of excitement, both parties putting in an enormous amount of work in bringing voters to the polls.

The Reformers, worked with a will, and that the result was so disastrous cannot be laid at their door.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the returns from the various polling sub divisions began to arrive at the JOURNAL office, where a large crowd was in waiting to receive them.

From the very first it was seen that the result was not to be so favorable as had been expected.

Of course none looked for anything, but a large majority for Mr. Ingram in the city, but the majority he did receive was even beyond the calculations of his most sanguine supporters.

Nos. 1 and 2 wards, always largely Conservative, were expected by the Reform canvassers to give a very much reduced majority for Mr. Ingram, but the first returns, which were from those two wards, showed plainly that the men who had been working in Mr. Coyne's interests in those wards had been grossly deceived.

Scores of voters who had pledged themselves to Mr. Coyne or his friends in Nos. 1 and 2 wards met him deliberately one by one on their plied, and voted against him.

In No. 3 ward the result was not far different from what was expected, it giving Mr. Ingram a majority of eight.

The three east wards, always very difficult to canvass, gave extraordinarily large majorities for Mr. Ingram, but this did not excite so much surprise.

When the city returns were all in, and it was found that Mr. Ingram had received the large majority of 447, it was generally felt that the contest was decided, and that Mr. Ingram was elected.

As few imagined that the riding could pull a Reform majority at all approaching those figures.

As the returns came in, however, between 6 and 9 o'clock, the excitement rose to fever heat as the Conservative majority in the city was gradually polled down.

First came three divisions in Southwood, giving Mr. Coyne forty-four of a majority, where formerly the vote was about even.

Following this a tremendous shout went up from those in waiting, as the announcement was made that the grand old banner township of Dunwich rendered the splendid majority of 274 for Mr. Coyne.

This sent Coyne a stock away up, as Aldborough might go 100, and if it did this, and gave Mr. Casey as much as it had given Mr. Casey, the former would be elected.

Southwood was the next township to be heard from, and when the telegraph told that it gave Mr. Ingram the splendid majority of 116, cheer after cheer went up.

This left Mr. Coyne with only 29 to make, and strong were the hopes that Aldborough would meet the emergency.

It failed, but sent in the very creditable majority for Coyne of 38. This left Mr. Coyne in a minority of 19 and it was by that small number of votes that he lost the election.

The following is the result of the polling in the different parts of the riding:—

That they were safe out of the woods, and when the final result was announced that Ingram had been elected by about nineteen, the cheering in the city hall made the old bricks shake.

The cheering news from East Elgin, that began to arrive shortly after 6 o'clock, to some extent counteracted the depressing result in St. Thomas.

The result in East Elgin was, as expected, a splendid victory for Mr. Naind.

A striking proof of Mr. Naind's growing popularity is shown by his largely increased majority in Aylmer, where both he and his opponent, Dr. Marlatt, reside.
