Rev. Charles Haddon Spurgeon was one Rev. Charles Haddon Spurgeon was one of the most widely-known elergymen in the world. He was born at Kelvedon, Eng., June 19, 1834, was educated at Colchester and Cambridge, and alterward became where in a school at Newparket. Some of his relatives proposed that he should enter one of the independent colleges, but as he had adepted Baptist views he joined one of their congregations at Cambridge. It was at Feversham, near Cambridge, that he delivered his first sermon in 1850. He was then 16 years old. Soen afterward he accepted an invitasermon in 1850. He was then 16 years eld. Soen afterward he accepted an invitation to become paster at Waterbeach. He soon became a well-known character. The chapel at Waterbeach was filled and he drew crowds that overflowed it. Invitations to preach were sent young Spurgeon from surrounding places. His fame reached London, and he was offered the pastorate of one of the city churches. He first preached in Southwark, London, in 1853, being then 19 years old. He met with so much success that before two years had passed it was considered necessary to greatly enlarge the chapel. The enlargement, however, proved insufficient, and his hearers multiplied so rapidly that it became expedient to engage the that it became expedient to engage the surrey Music Hall. In 1861 the Metro-politan Tabernacle was good and in this Surrey Music Half. In 1861 the Metropolitan Tabernacle was opened and in this church Mr. Spurgeon preached for 30 years, during which period his fame constantly increased. Mr. Spurgeon published his weekly sermons for 30 years. He also published "The, Treasury of David," an exposition of the Psaims in seven volumes.
In 1856 Mr. Spurgeon founded the Psators' men afterward engaged as Baptist pastors, missionaries and evangelists. The Stockwell Orphanage, founded in 1867 by Mr. Spurgeon, has received more than 1,600 children. The Metropelitan Tabernacle Colportage Association has 80 or 90 agents, occupying districts in different parts of England. Mr. Spurgeon also established years ago a "book fund" which has distributed free of cost over 80,000 volumes to indigent ministers of various denominations. Mr. Spurgeon as very much loved by his people. In 1879 he received a silver wedding testinonial amounting to nearly $50,000, and in nonial amounting to nearly $3 1884—when 50 years old—another sum of $25,000. He devoted all these sums to charity. No English minister of the Gospe of this generation has approached Mr.

Of late years he had been a great sufferer from gout, and recently the disease attacked his hands and head, culminating in his death, as announced to night.

LoxDon, Feb. 1.—At all the services held yesterday in the Metropolitan Tabernscle, of which Mr. Spurgeon was pastor, the auditorium was packed. Rev. Mr. Pierson and others offered earnest prayers at the services and read to the congregations telegram bulletins from Mentone.

Morning papers contain long memoirs on Mr. Spurgeon. The Chronicle appears with a mourning border. It compares the clead pastor to Martin Luther. The Telesgraph characterizes him as a "great, foarless and faithful minister." It addis the "Albeit of homely genius and cloquence, "Albeit of homely genius and cloquence, all agree that he leaves a voil that will be falled with difficulty."

Early Sunday morning it was evident that there was no hope for Mr. Spurgeon. One or twice he just recognized his wife. After 10 a.m. he took no food and gradually sank. His friends had been confident that he would recover, because his last attack was midder than the previous one, but the gout reached his head and congestion of the kidneys returned. TROUBLE IN CHINA.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 31.—Special telegrams of a disquieting nature have been received here from Ichang, on the Yang-tse-Kiang, 950 miles from its mouth, and from Chungking, on the same river, 1,250 miles from its mouth. Both these cities are comparatively near the Province of Hunan, from which Province were the prime organizers in the recent disturbances. Ichang was the scene of a riot and massacre of Christians during the late troubles. The teleans during the late troubles. The telegrams above referred to state that great hostility is being showed toward foreigners, and it is feared that further trouble will follow. The British gunboat Esk, three guns, is stationed at Ichang, and the natives have shown a menacing attitude toward that vessel.

The bye-election for the House of Commons in Cumberland, N. S., resulted in the return of A. W. Dickey, Conservative.

A private letter from East Bruce states that the National Policy has fallen so low there that none are so poor as to do it honor. The Government candidate, Mr. Cargill, a man who frequently voted for the National Policy in Parliament, has swallowed that policy, neck and crop, and is going round among the Patrons of Industry cackling for free trade. The farmers, however, realize that his conversion is too sudden to last beyond polling day, and Mr. Truax's chances of re-election are reported to be excellent.

companions concocted a plan. The three decided that Williams and themselves should go out riding a certain night. Monday, Jan. 18, was the date fixed. Accordingly the intended robbers started out at the appointed time, disguised so that they would not be recognized. On a sideroad north of the saylum they met Williams and Dawson, and while one of them took after the latter the other held up the former and demanded his money, which he promptly got—50 cents. To bring Williams to a standstill a horse pistol loaded with powder only had been discharged, but where the bullet that W. said had grazed his shoulder had come from is unknown. A vivid imagination may account for it. As soon as the would be robber let him go he manfully recovered and rode like the wind for the asylum to give the alarm, as he knew not what might have happened poor Dawson. His heroic anxiety to procure assistance for his comrade was commendable. The other three followed him and endeavored to catch him, but he was too fast.
