A Boston Boy's Eyesight Saved—Perhaps His Life

By Hood's Sarsaparilla—Blood Poisoned by Canker.

Read the following from a grateful mother: "My little boy had Scarlet Fever when 4 years old, and it left him very weak and with blood poisoned with canker. His eyes became so inflamed that his sufferings were intense, and for seven weeks he

Could Not Open His Eyes.

I took him twice during that time to the Eye and Ear Infirmary on Charles street, but their remedies failed to do him the faintest shadow of good. I commenced giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and it soon cured him. I have never doubted that it saved his sight, even if not his very life. You may use this testimonial in any way you choose. ## FAST TROTTING IN TENNESSEE.

Stamboul Must Share His Honors With Kremlein.

The Osgoode Hall Football Experts Defeat the Hamiltonians.

THE TURF.

KREMLEIN AND ARION BEAT THE WATCH.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 6.—One record was broken and another equaled here yesterday. Stamboul, who has reigned king for a week, will have to share his throne with Kremlein, the great eastern product. Kremlein made the mile in 2:08¼. Then Marvin hitched up Arion, the unapproached 2-year-old of last season. As a 3-year-old he had not shown better than 2:16 in public, but yesterday he reduced Axtell's record, going the route in 2:10¾. He will try for the world's record next week.

TIPS.

The fact was disclosed Saturday that Charles Kingsley, the San Francisco bookmaker, was robbed Friday night of two sacks containing $5,300 in gold, silver and greenbacks. The sacks were abstracted by some unknown person from the safe in the pool room, where they had been carelessly placed.

It is probable that the much talked of race between Col. North's Nunthrope and Lord Rosslin's Buccaneer will come off after all. North has consented to run his horse against Buccaneer for a cup valued at £500 offered by the Potsmouth Park executive. Rosslyn's reply is awaited with interest.

John Jones, the celebrated trainer of jumping horses for the Prince of Wales and other artistocrats, and a noted steeplechaser, died at Epsom Friday.

Sam Clay, the young man who robbed Bookmaker Tom Shannon of $8,200 at the Coleman House, New York, some time ago, has been seen in San Francisco. Clay was married in Oakland on Friday, to the woman who accompanied him and they left town presumably for Salt Lake City.

FOOTBALL.

Upper Canada College defeated Trinity School, Port Hope, at Toronto on Saturday by 14 to 1 in a Rugby match.

The football game at New Haven, Conn., on Saturday afternoon between Yale and Wesleyan resulted in an overwhelming defeat of the latter by a score of 72 to 0.

On Saturday, for the first time in eighteen years, the University of Pennsylvania has defeated Princeton on the football field. Pennsylvania, 6; Princeton, 4.

Notwithstanding the fact there was over six inches of snow and very cold a good crowd of spectators gathered on the M. A. A. A. grounds at Montreal, Saturday, to witness the football match between Ottawa and Montreal, which resulted in favor of Ottawa.

OSGOODE HALL VS. HAMILTON.

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—The long-looked-for Rugby match between the Hamilton club and Osgoode Hall came off at Rosedale Saturday afternoon and was witnessed by about 3,000 spectators. Osgoode Hall won by 30 to 14.

ATHLETICS.

Jack McAuliffe admits having signed articles to fight "Doc" Burgess, the lightweight champion pugilist for $5,000, the contest to take place in New York.

Mitchell and Hall have been heard from. They thank the Coney Island and Crescent City clubs for their liberal offers and have decided to leave the choice of which club the contests will take place in to Corbett and Fitzsimmons. Mitchell and Hall are willing to fight in either place.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO.

Some Call It a Blessing in Disguise.

A Storm Gathering Over Herbert Gardner's Head—A Deputation with "an Axe to Grind."

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—Geo. Johnson, Dominion statistician, says the scheduling of Canadian live cattle in England may prove an unmixed blessing. He thinks greater results would accrue from the shipment of dead meat in which the United States does a large business annually with the mother country. Canada's cattle trade is now worth only $5,000,000.

WINDSOR, Nov. 6.—The result of the British Government shutting out Canadian cattle will be the closing up of the Walkerville barns. These are leased by the Montreal Live Stock Company, and cattle purchased in the western part of Ontario are shipped to Walkerville, fed up and then sent to England.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Live stock exporters here are now regarding the debarring of Canadian cattle from the British open markets more calmly. They realize that the stocker trade, which represents fully a third of the total exports, is completely ruined, but there has long been a strong feeling against the export of stockers, as it was felt that they should be fattened in this country. There will now be an agitation of free corn into Canada. It is expected that United States cattle will now be allowed to enter Canada.

QUEBEC, Nov. 5.—Steamship men think that the new rule will prove a benefit to the country. Dr. McEachran, Government veterinary inspector, repeats his statement that there is no pleuro-pneumona in Canada.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Herbert Gardiner, president of the Board of Agriculture, may expect a storm of protests from Scotch Liberals against his hasty action in prohibiting the free importation of Canadian cattle and ordering that that they be slaughtered. This action will impose a heavy burden on the taxpayers, as the cost of slaughtering will have to be borne by them as will also the expense of compensating the owners. The opinion of Dr. Williams, regarded as one of the first authorities on cattle diseases in the kingdom, coincides with the best American and French authorities that the cornstock disease is not contagious. He has admitted that many of the animals slaughtered were suffering with lung defects, but contended that these were merely due to the strain of a long voyage and exposure. The deputation headed by the Duke of Westminster which waited upon Mr. Gardner yesterday to urge the slaughter are credited with having a motive for their course. It is said the societies represented by the deputation feared that the importation of Canadian stock would have an important effect upon the trade at home in pedigree stock. The incident will quicken the demand for Scotch home rule, which would give Scotland her own board of agriculture.

STOP IT AT ONCE!

That Cough is Dangerous!

On every hand we meet with old and young who are troubled with hacking cough. A serious cold is firmly seated on the chest, which bids fair to promote terrible and fatal results.

Thousands every year are laid away in the silent grave, having died from pulmonary troubles and consumption. These diseases commenced with the ordinary and neglected cough, sore throat and bronchial affections.

Had the proper means been used when the simple cough appeared all trouble could have been easily and quickly banished.

A few doses of the celebrated and world-renowned Harvard Bronchial Syrup would have been sufficient to eradicate every symptom of danger. The curative properties of this wonderful cough remedy are really beyond calculation; and the great cures it has wrought are acknowledged by hundreds in our midst.

This is the season when Harvard Bronchial Syrup should be used. Thousands are suffering from coughs, colds, sore throat and lung troubles, and should not lose a moment in making efforts to get rid of all danger.

Harvard Bronchial Syrup when used for a short time will drive off every danger and will strengthen throat, chest and voice.

TIDINGS FROM TORONTO.

Sudden Death of a G. T. R. Employe—Mr. J. Ross Robertson Will Appeal the Libel Case.

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—Peter Carter, who is a married man, aged 27, employed by the G. T. R., and living in Parkdale, was taken ill a few minutes after going to bed Saturday night, and died before medical aid could be secured. The cause was heart disease.

Mr. John Ross Robertson says he will appeal the verdict of Friday at the Assize Court, in the Osgoode-Robertson libel case, in which plaintiff was awarded $4,000 damages.

There was a great united military parade of 1,714 men to the pavilion today. The sermon was preached by the Bishop of Toronto.

Sad Accident at Flamboro.

DUNDAS, Ont., Nov. 6.—Mr. Wm. Clark's felt factory, West Flamboro, about three and a half miles from here, was on Saturday the scene of a most distressing accident. Miss Maloney, one of the employes, had finished her work and was going down stairs to the washroom, when in passing a shaft which was revolving at a very high rate of speed her clothing got caught, and in an instant she was wound round the shaft and crushed to death. Miss Maloney was the sole support of her widowed mother, who has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

Give me a pound can of Pure Gold Baking Powder, said a customer to a grocer the other day. A can of another kind was handed out because it gave the grocer a larger profit. No respectable grocer, of course, would do this. When you ask for Pure Gold Baking Powder see that you get it.

Testimony in a Trance

Something Startlingly Unique in a Court of Law.

California's Adoption of Hypnotism on the Witness Stand.

A Confession of Murder Secured—Expert Medical Testimony That the Witness Was Not "Shamming."

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Nov. 6.—At the trial of Edward J. Livernash, the various duplex mental monstrosity, there was developed something startlingly unique in American courts and probably in the courts of the world. A prisoner was placed on the witness stand, thrown into a hypnotic trance, and there made to live over again the acts and to feel again the actuating emotions preceding the commission of his crime. Permission to do this was refused in the French court when Eyraud, the strangler, was on trial, and it remained for Santa Rosa to give to the world this novel way of obtaining testimony.

Edward J. Livernash tried to kill Darius Etheridge, of Cloverdale, some time ago, and was sent to an insane asylum. He was released last week. Etheridge at once sued him. Livernash was hypnotized in court to let him live over the incidents of the attempted murder.

Dr. Gardner, who has acquired great influence over Livernash, hypnotized him by waving a shining disc before his eyes. Experts for the prosecution tried to see whether he was shamming. They but he never winced. His face was as pale as that of a corpse and his limbs were rigid, but he answered every question asked, and gave in minute detail what he did on the eventful night as well as what he thought.

Dr. Gardner explained that Livernash was a victim of auto-hypnotism—that is, he could throw himself into a state which resembled somnambulism, during which he was not responsible for his actions. It was in such a state he attempted murder.

Few court scenes could be more impressive than that of a man dead to the present, alive only in the past, with his will under subjection, but his brain still controlling his tongue, and telling with strange circumstantiality the story of why he attempted to kill an old man who had never harmed him in the least and by whose death he could hope to obtain no profit or advancement. His story while in this trance was a wild rhapsody on plans and plots, betraying numerous symptoms of insanity. He recited with all the circumstance and detail possible, but with occasional dashes of lunacy, how he had gone about to kill Ethridge.

SOME OF THE TESTIMONY.

Here is a scrap from Livernash's testimony while under hynoptic influence:

"I went to Cloverdale to work out a scheme I had. In the first place I thought I'd follow behind Judge Overton's buggy and finish them up before I got to Cloverdale—Overton, Geary and the whole crowd. The crowd consisted of fifteen—George Washington, reincarnated; Benjamin Harrison, James A. Garfield, reincarnated, too; M. Chassitet, Judge Joachimsen, Barclay Henly, Tom Geary, Thomas Rutledge, C. W. Weaver, John Livernash, Frank McElarney, M. Minahan, John Overton. I was to go until I got rid of those. Seasongood was reincarnated."

"What do you mean by reincarnated?" asked Lawyer Levin.

"Well, I tried to knock that into your head the other day. Have I got to go over these things always?" he replied sourly.

From this he drifted into a long rigamarole about reincarnation, explaining the peculiar belief. He went on telling the story of his arrest, and the subsequent events, just as they had been narrated by other witnesses, but with his insane philosophies permeating it all. He became again the King of Siam, but answered all questions directed at him by those he was commanded to answer. He ignored all others. The control seemed to pass from one questioner to the other as the different lawyers took him up.

Finally the control was turned back to Dr. Gardner, who said sharply:

WAKE UP!

"Ed, Ed, that will do; that is enough. Now, when I wake you up, you must wake up well, happy and contented. You must sleep soundly nights and you must not go into this condition again without my permission. Now when I count three you will wake up—one, two, three!"

With this, Livernash opened his eyes, seemed flustered for a moment and asked: "Are you through? You don't need me here any longer?"

A needle was sticking through the flesh on the back of his hand. He pulled it out, wincing as he did so. His face was slightly flushed. He felt of his ear where the needle had been run through it. Then he took his place, unchanged in manner and appearance, save for the added color to his cheeks.

OUT OF THE PAST.

The somnambulist had come out of the past, where he was a wandering, chattering ghost, and was again in the flesh, alert, quick-witted and himself. His entire mental and moral condition changed. His views of life became entirely opposite.

Dr. Robertson said that he never met a more brilliant man, and the story is told here that two years ago Livernash met J. A. Barham, the Republican candidate for Congress, in a joint debate at Healdsburg and completely vanquished that able lawyer. Livernash is a strange combination of insanity and sanity.

The testimony on this occasion was to test whether Livernash had been simulating while in the alleged hypnotic state.

MEDICAL EXPERT TESTIMONY.

Dr. Gardner, superintendent of the Napa Insane Asylum, testified that some insane patients reason quite well while others do not. Livernash was given to the deepest stages of somnambulism, through which the memory does not carry, but insane men can plan and plot with rare skill even when bereft of judgment and unable to distinguish the difference between right and wrong.

As to the shooting of Ethridge, Dr. Gardner said that, taken apart from all other of Livernash's acts, it was barely possible it was done in a sane moment, but taken in connection with all the other acts it was not, in his opinion, probable. Dr. Gardner was certain that Livernash had not simulated the hypnotic state.

Dr. Robertson, who testified next, related a test he had subjected Livernash to in order to prove that the hypnotic state was not feigned. Said Dr. Robertson:

"It is barely possible that a man could nerve himself against the prick of a pin or the cut of a knife if he knew that such a test was to be applied, but last night I applied to Mr. Livernash's nose a bottle of concentrated extract of ammonia. Now it would be impossible for any man in his normal condition to have this ammonia applied without evincing pain. It is three times the strength of essence of ammonia. In very few cases of somnambulism even could such a test have been applied successfully. But Livernash evinced not the least sign of feeling either through his nostrils or eyes."

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

An Opportunity for Hearing the Great Remenyi.

Under the Lion's Paw To-Night—London Conservatory of Music Recital—London Choral Society To Be Formed—Notes.

UNDER THE LION'S PAW.

This sensational play will be produced at the Grand to-night. The play will be lavishly mounted with magnificent scenery. In the first act will be seen a beautiful moonlight view of the beach at Long Branch with moonlight effects and the moon slowly rising, apparently from the ocean, during the action of the scene. The second act shows the circus business offices. In the first scene of the third act is seen the exterior of the circus and surrounding grounds. In the second scene is used no scenery, but a mammoth, regulation menagerie tent, stretching from wall to wall and entirely covering the stage. It is in this scene that Col. Boone and Milli Carlotta, with their seven monster Nubian lions, are introduced. The fourth act takes place in the parlors of the Hotel Ashley. The last act is one of the most unique settings ever seen on a stage, representing the interior of the winter quarters of the Circus Royal. There is seen all the paraphernalia of a great circus stored for the winter, and in the center, a massive steel cage, containing the largest of Col. Boone's group of Nubian felines.

LONDON CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

The following is the programme of the fifth rehearsal given at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday by pupils and teachers:

Romance, E flat.....Rubinstein
Miss Maud Westervelt.
Dance Anglaise.....Latour
Miss Beta Green.
Marche Funebra.....Chopin
Miss Amy McDonough.
Essay"—The Thumb in Its Relation to Piano Technique".....Miss Barron
Novelette, D minor.....Schumann
Miss Bessie Moore.
Harmonious Blacksmith.....Haendel
Miss Alice Rogers.
Polonaise, A major.....Chopin
Miss Jennie Steele.
Concerto, G minor.....Mendelssohn
Miss Helen Paterson.

Over 100 pupils and friends were present. The clientele of the conservatory is rapidly growing; its patronage is drawn from outside counties as well as the city.

REMENYI'S "SUPPORT IS EXCELLENT."

The Montreal Herald, speaking of the sensation caused by Remenyi in that city last Thursday, has the following to say: "In response to a demand for an encore to the eighth number, he played an arrangement of a martial air in such a soulstirring manner as to bring down the house in a rapturous burst of applause, which only ceased upon his again appearing violin in hand for a second response. Remenyi is the central figure of his company, but his support is excellent." The plan opens this morning for Remenyi's appearance at the Grand on Wednesday next. Those who have not heard this remarkable genius should avail themselves of the present opportunity. His playing is beyond description. Balconyseats only 50 cents. Secure them at once.

LONDON CHORAL SOCIETY.

An organization to be called the London Choral Society is being formed, and will meet for the first rehearsal on Tuesday evening at St. Andrew's Church. Mr. Charles E. Wheeler, the director, has room for a few good voices, and application should be made to him by those who desire to procure the excellent training which such a society affords. The public will no doubt hear from the London Choral Society when it is fairly under way.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.

Madame Modjeska will produce "Henry VIII." this season. Her Queen Katharine ought to be a remarkably fine and interesting performance.

The massive steel cage used for the performance of the lions in "Under the Lion's Paw" is 30 feet in diameter, 14 feet high, weighs 6,000 pounds, and was made especially for this production.

Hardy Hardy, manager of Aaron H. Woodhull in "Uncle Hiram," is in the city. The company appears at a matinee and evening performance on Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Hardy is familiar with London, having managed Gorman's minstrels two years ago, besides being with other companies playing in London. He is a brilliant cornet player.

What sad days these are for the Scanlans! The brother an incurable patient in Bloomingdale, the sister dead, on the eve of what promised to be a successful theatrical career. She was a sweet-faced dumpling-figured little woman, with a cute and merry way of acting; and in a good play would have made a name for herself. No doubt the wearisome round of travel, with all its opportunities for catching cold, sudden extremes of climate, insufficient sleep and rapid changes of diet had much to do with her taking off.

The London, Eng., Globe publishes details from a private source confirming the story told by the Bombay Gazette in regard to the adventures of Josef Hofmann, the boy pianist. The Globe says that a lady, well known in Bombay society, heard of young Hofmann's arrival in that city, and took him to her home, where he now is. The Globe adds that Hofmann refuses to return to his parents, because he is averse to renewing his musical studies. His behavior is such as to lead to the belief that his mind has been affected by overwork.

DEDICATING THE CENTENNIAL.

The New Methodist Church in East London Consecrated by Rev. J. G. Scott.

The new Centennial Methodist Church in East London was dedicated yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. G. Scott, president of the London Conference. Rev. Dr. Sanderson, Rev. Dr. Antliff, Rev. J. G. Laird, Rev. W. Godwin, Rev. J. R. Gundy and Rev. Joseph Philp were on the platform and assisted in the services. The congregation was large as was also the choir. Rev. J. R. Gundy read the first lesson—portions of II. Chronicles, vi. and vii., and Rev. J. G. Laird the second —Hebrews, v.

Rev. Mr. Scott took as his text Matthew, xxiv., 35: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." His first remark was that he was pleased to see so many children present. The text, he said, contained two astounding statements. Only one man who ever lived on earth could make such statements. The words of God would live on in imperishable grandeur and glory after all other things had become things of the past. A current error abroad was that the Gospel was passing away and was destined to become a thing of the past. This was both an assumption and an impossibility. God's word could neither have come from good men and angels nor from bad men and the devil. It must have come from God. Another error was the belief that God's word had become and was becoming a factor in known history. The Gospel was immutable truth. It defined right and wrong and dealt with things that were and must be true. Man was powerless to help himself without God's Word. It dealt with principles, not theories. The truth of the Bible was vindicated at the bar of reason and by human consciences. We had been searching for 1,800 years to find an untruth in it and had failed. If it took that long to do nothing how long would it take to do something? It had been cast into the fire, subjected to wrong interpretation, to sophistry and sarcasm, and yet it remained unblemished.

Responsive Scriptural readings were engaged in by the ministers, prayer was offered by Mr. Scott, the Doxology was sung, and the dedicatory service was over.

A TENDER MATTER

Occupies the Attention of the Board of Education.

Messrs. Dewar (chairman), Cook, Turner, Jeffery, Vining, Love, McEtheran, McRobert, Allaster, Craig, Brady, R. J. Blackwell, Tanton, Anderson, D. W. Blackwell, Alexander and Dr. Campbell and Secretary Abbott attended a special meeting of the Board of Education on Saturday afternoon. The annual provincial convention of public and high school trustees will be held in Toronto to-morrow. A vote on the question of the board being represented resulted in a tie, and the chairman voted nay.

The report of No. 2 committee recommended that the following tenders be accepted for the erection of the addition to the Collegiate Institute and for new schools on Quebec street and the Wortley road:

Collegiate Institute addition—Brick and stone work, S. Flory; carpentering, W. Geary; painting, H. & C. Colerick; plastering and kalsomining, R. Gash; slating, Geo. Riddle & Co.; galvanized iron work, J. Brockest; plumbing, J. Greenaway.

Wortley road school—Brick work, $1,950, Jas. Luney; carpentering, $1,400, Fox & Brown; painting, $112, Geo. Howe; plastering, $90, Gould & Stratfold.

Quebec street school—Carpentering, $1,390, F. J. Reid; brick work, $1,900, James Luney; painting, $112, Geo. Howe; plastering, $90, Gould & Stratfold.

Robert Gash appeared before the board with a communication stating that he had made a miscalculation in his tender for painting and kalsomining the Collegiate Institute. He had neglected to include the kalsomining of the new portion. He therefore asked that $120 be added to his tender. After that addition his was still the lowest by $130. All the other tenders had been made public, and the board decided to call for new tenders.

A good deal of discussion followed a motion to accept Wm. Gerry's tender instead of John Purdom's for the carpentering at the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Purdom claimed that in his tender he had included $400 for galvanized iron work although they were entirely separate in the specifications. His tender was $375 above Mr. Gerry's, but subtracting the $400 it was $25 below. Mr. Purdom furnished a statement from Wm Stevely to the effect that the galvanized iron work was worth $400, and on this ground the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

The city engineer recommended that the brickwork and excavation at the Quebec street and Wortley road schools be enlarged at a cost of $200 for each school. In case the building had to be altered at any time this would save considerable expense. The matter was left with him and No. 2 committee.

Doubly Commended.

Arrest of Ten Crooks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Last night ten men were arrested, charged, as is reported, with being accomplices of Dave Wheeler in the murder of Detective Carey. All the prisoners are known to be professional crooks. It is said Wheeler yesterday afternoon made a confession in which he stated that a plot had been made by the gang of which he is the leader to murder Carey and that it fell to him to commit the deed.

The O'Neil-Thwaytes Case.

WINDSOR, Nov. 6.—Edward J. O'Neil, whose name has appeared in connection with that of Miss Lulu Thwaytes, of Windsor, left for his home in Toronto Saturday afternoon. Magistrate Bartlett admitted him to bail in the sum of $500. O'Neil says he does not blame Miss Thwaytes' parents for feeling so bitter toward him, but thinks they have been deceived in the matter and will alter their opinion when the evidence for the defense is heard. The case will come before Judge Horne at Sandwich Nov. 13.
