BASEBALL.

SYRACUSE AND TORONTO.
Toronto, Oct. 1.—The game yesterday was for blood from the start. Syracuse was what looked like a dangerous team in the fifth and sixth inning by good, vigorous hitting, earning five runs, and when the locals went in for their half they had five runs to make up. Freeman got a base on balls, and Casey and Smith hit safely, scoring Freeman. Wagner flew out to Scheiback, and Taylor slipped a grounder down to Smith, who tried to make a double on the play but bungled it, and only caught Smith at second. Then Williams popped up a fly on the third base line, which Ryan snuffed, and another error by Smith and two men were on bases. Lush, with a triple and two strikes credited against him, was the next man, and he saved the game by poking the ball over the fence, scoring three runs, tying the score. It was quite dark and Swartwood called the game. The two teams will play off on Saturday in Toronto. There were nearly a thousand fans on the grounds. Both pitchers were hit hard, but Mulierkey was better in the tight places than Williams. The doubling of Freeman was the feature, as less than seven put-outs failing to his lot. He cut out two triples by great running catches. The visitors got three in the fifth on three singles, a double and a triple. In the seventh, a double, a base on balls and an error by McGinn on an easy chance, which should have retired the side, and a triple, brought them in as many. The ninth two were out when Mulierkey singled and came home on Egan's double. Garry's single scored the fourth. The Toronto got two in the third on a double and three singles. In the fourth, three singles, a fielder's choice and a triple gave them three more. In the fifth, two singles netted another in the sixth. In the seventh a double and an infield grounder scored another. The history of the ninth is already known. Score: R. H. E. Toronto.....12 17 3 Syracuse.....12 17 3 Batteries—Mulierkey and Ryan; Williams and Casey.

BOSTON WINS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Although Boston has one more game to play with Brooklyn, and Baltimore will play two more with Washington at the Metropolitan City, the race for the pennant of 1897 practically came to an end with the conclusion of yesterday's game at Eastern Park. Boston won the game, while Washington trounced the champions, which leaves the Bostonians the undisputed champions of the season of 1897. Should Baltimore win their remaining games, they can only obtain a percentage of 700 points. Should Brooklyn win from Boston on Saturday, the latter still would have a percentage of 704. In the second inning of the game yesterday, when the Bostonians scored five runs, which gave them a safe lead, men and women arose in their seats and yelled like demons. When the lead became so great that there was no more hope for the home team, and the faithful joined the Bostonians and their rosters, and for a time nobody could hear anything else but the cheering. It was a great day for baseball in Brooklyn, and one that is not likely to be forgotten by those who attended. Young Dunn was put in the box to fool the new champions, but Capt. Garry might as well have stood up a wooden man. The Bean-eaters had on their batting clothes, and the faster Dunn tossed them the plate the harder Capt. Duffy's men could line the leather out. The only trouble was that the batting was all on one side. The home team could do but little with Klobedanz, the Boston

WALLOPED BY WASHINGTON.

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—The ghost of a chance that Baltimore had to win the pennant for next season no longer exists. It vanished early in yesterday's game, when the Senators fell upon Dr. Pond's curves, batted him out of the box, and took a good long lead in the fourth inning, after which the Orioles seemed to lose heart and played listlessly and without ambition. The score board is the best evidence of Washington's victory. Score: R. H. E. Baltimore.....3 9 5 Washington.....9 15 2 Batteries—Pond, Amy, and Robinson; Mercer and McGuire.

At New York— R. H. E. New York.....6 13 3 Philadelphia.....5 8 3 Batteries—Seymour and Warner; Zeafress, Wheeler and Boyle.

Woodbine Race Track, Toronto, Oct. 1.—The grand stand was filled on the previous days, and the announcement that "Snapper" Garrison would appear, had the effect of increasing the attendance somewhat yesterday. When "Snapper" Garrison appeared on the track, he was applauded by the crowd. The horses went away, with Thomas in the lead. Mazarine got a bad start. Garrison began to use his whip after the race, and the crowd never able to get within hailing distance of Thomas Cat, who won by five lengths, pulled up. KENNEL.

C. K. C. INDEPENDENT OF THE A. K. C.

This means that the Canadian Kennel Club will resume its old independent position, and that its stud book is again open for registration. Registrations, inquiries, etc., should be addressed to me at Toronto. Yours truly, H. B. DONOVAN, Secretary-treasurer, C. K. C., Toronto, Sept. 30, 1897.

Ward Appropriation.

Engineer Graydon Finds Fault With the System.

Says It Leads to Works of Necessity Being Left Undone.

Evils of the ward appropriation system were pointed out in a report by the city engineer at the regular meeting of the board of works last night. No lengthy discussion followed, but the system found one champion in Ald. O'Meara. The report stated that several side-walks in different parts of the city are dangerous to pedestrians and cyclists. The committee on works and public improvements having been cut down so low, and the amount appropriated having been equally divided among the wards, thereby causing many to be expended over for another year, there are no funds left to put down these walks, and should any accident happen, the responsibility must be taken off their department.

The engineer added that until the system of ward appropriation was abolished, this evil would always exist, and works of necessity be left undone to do work that was not required.

Ald. O'Meara said this was an old hobby. He did not think the committee should go on their knees to the engineer or city officials to get a bit of work done. There was no reason in his opinion why it should be taken out of the hands of the committee entirely. As long as he had a vote he would favor ward appropriation until a disposition was shown to give justice to all.

Ald. Cooper said there was no use wrangling about it now, and the communication was filed.

THE EXAMPLE OF SUCCESSFUL MEN.

One of the great lessons to be learned in the study of history is to avoid the errors of the past and to adopt those principles and methods which have resulted in success. From a financial point of view the history of our most successful business men is worth considering—their concentration of their energies, their thoroughness, their prudence, courage, integrity, how they made their money and how they invest it. These men have been almost exclusively home and family has prompted greater diligence and care, the highest ambition being to promote the welfare of their family. Their comfort might be secured beyond a doubt, our business men have been almost exclusively investing in life insurance for the benefit of their families. Merchant princes like Hon. John G. Gooderham, with nearly half a million; the leading merchants and financiers of our city, with their large lines of life insurance—these are successful men whose example is to be followed. They have found the best possible security for the money invested; they have protected their homes "from the enemy of the night" and they have made provision for their own declining years.

If we follow the example of successful men, we should also place our life insurance with a successful company of a successful type. The oldest, the largest and the most successful of life companies are those owned and controlled by policy-holders. Of them Parsons said: "No purely mutual life insurance company has ever failed."

A prominent Canadian manager says: "The mutual principle is the only one by which the participating members of a life insurance company can receive a full equivalent for their money. There is only one Canadian representative of this class, viz., the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company. Of it an actuary in high position said: 'I cannot place my premiums to better advantage than with your company.' It stands all the tests of excellence. C. E. German, the company's general agent, will be pleased to meet persons interested in the question, who are invited to secure a copy of 'Open and Read,' as well as any other information, at the office, corner Dundas and Richmond streets.

A DINNER PILL.

Many persons suffer excruciating agony after taking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutrient, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful remedies of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into the nutrient. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia.

The dwelling house of James Marr, of the second concession of McMillan, was destroyed by fire recently. C. Lewis, the tenant, and his wife had a narrow escape. All the movables were burned.

Mrs. Gardner, an old resident at Waukesha, died the other afternoon and was buried at Cashmere. She was 74 years of age, and was married to George and Thomas Armstrong, of Newbury.

The body of an unknown man was discovered by the section men at an early hour on Wednesday morning. The body was found lying on the track of the G. T. R. about a quarter of a mile east of Appin. The man was about 40 years of age, and had brown hair and sandy mustache, and the left great toe had been amputated some time ago. There was nothing on the clothing of the deceased by which he might be identified. He was seen in the neighborhood on Tuesday evening by the section men, and as he appeared to be the worse of liquor they ordered him off the track. It is presumed that he returned and laid down to sleep, and was killed by a train during the night. The body was not mangled, but a cut of the head, as if made by the wheels of a train, apparently caused death.

SANDY'S SALVATION.

[Spare Moments.]
"An' hoo's the guid wife, Sandy?" said one farmer to another as they met in the market place and exchanged salutations.
"Did ye no hear that she's dead and buried?" said Sandy solemnly.
"Dear me," exclaimed the friend, sympathetically, "surely it must have been very sudden."
"Aye, it was sudden," returned Sandy. "Ye see, when she turned ill we hadna time to send for the doctor, so I gied her a bit pouther that I had in my drawer for a year or twa, an' that I had got frae the doctor myself, but I hadna telled. What the pouther was I dinna very well ken, but she died soon after. It's a sair loss to me, I can assure you, but it's something to be thankful for that I didna tak' the pouther myself."

The London Academy tells a new story of De Quincey. He had to fill up a census paper, and the set questions puzzled him greatly. He finally managed to characterize his occupation as "writer to the magazines," but when he came to the question of his daughters his troubles began again. At last he put a ring around their names and wrote: "My daughters are all dead of the field—they toil not, neither do they spin."

DANGEROUS TO LAUGH.
Better Keep Sober for There's a Chance in a Million That You'll Rupture an Artery.

A dispatch from Lagrange, Ind., telling of the death of Mrs. Ida Boley, wife of a prominent farmer, during a fit of laughter, a day or two ago, is causing some jolly people uneasiness, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, but is dangerous to laugh? they wonder, and picture to themselves a scene where people never tell jokes, never display wit, and never laugh, and where everything is as solemn as a funeral, and fear that this might be the state of affairs in the future.

A Courier-Journal reporter asked Dr. L. E. Colburn about the possible danger in laughter.

"Yes," answered he, "one can even die under the pleasant condition of laughter. While Mrs. Boley, who you mentioned, died laughing, she might have died under other circumstances not so pleasant. The truth is that many people have weakened blood vessel walls without being aware of it. For instance, a disease will often bring about ossification or calcification of the arteries that causes them to be quite brittle. Consequently, unusual tension of them is apt to cause rupture. That is why so many cases of apoplexy, that is, rupture of the blood vessels of the brain, take place."

"Anger is the more dangerous form, tension of blood vessels being greatly increased by it. Unusual muscular strain causes increased tension. This case of rupture of the blood vessel in Indiana was brought about by the increased tension, the result more or less of immediate laughter. Of course, blood vessels were diseased, or it could not have happened. Knowledge of the calcification of the arteries has been a favorite means of novelists and dramatists to kill off this or that person necessary to be disposed of in the plot."

One instance of death from the same cause is indissolubly connected with the history of our country. It is that of the old bell ringer who died of joy when he heard that the Americans had declared their independence. Science
