In the Condition of President McKinley-The Patient Is Cheery-Visited by His Faithful Wife.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 11 .-President McKinley continues to show the most unmistakeable evidences of improvement and recovery, and the uneasiness caused by the news last night of the dressing of the abdominal wound has given way to more pronounced confidence than has existed at any time since the shooting.

The president himself was so cheery that one of the doctors remarked that they would let him smoke a cigar before long. He had shown not the slightest depression from the dressing of the wound last night.

THE STEEL STRIKE

Complete Tieup of Several McKeesport Plants-Women Aid the Strikers.

NON-UNION MEN BEATEN. Pittsburg Sept. 11.-Three non-union men were set upon by strikers or strike sympathizers at McKeesport last night and badly beaten. A wagen load of cots, 50 in number succeeded in making its way as far as Fourteenth street, where the women gathered about it and cut the ropes holding the load on. The driver continued on his way, the cots dropping off at every turn of the wheels until about 30 of them had become the property of the women, who numbered about 200. Some of the women ran into their houses and came out with oil can, ported the contents over the cots, which had been piled in two neaps on Fourteenth street. In an instant two large bonfires were blazing briskly. The men kept in the background as a rule, apparently content with the results of their female sympathizers' raid.

King, deputy minister of labor, has gone to St. Hyacinthe to act as conciliator in a dispute between the management of the woolen mills in that city and their employes. The management have reduced the wages 10 per cent, and the factory hands now threaten to go out on strike. Mr. King hopes to avert the threatened strike.

The machinists' strike was comproised. The men accepted the proposition of the employers for a 9-hour day and a 5 per cent increase in wages.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S CHARACTERISTICS

Despite His Strenuous Tendencies He Need Not Be Feared.

No man of his years has been more in the public eye, and in so many capac-ities as Theodore Roosevelt. The people of the nation feel almost a per sonal acquaintance with this bustling energetic man of 43 years. He had an excellent start in life, coming as he does from a solid old Dutch family which has lived upon the soil for eigh successive generations, and with plenty of wealth at his command, a sturdy body and an active brain.

He is a man of strong animal instincts and perfectly healthy mind.
As a child, he was a weakling, but he developed into a sturdy man by taking excellent care of himself and paying proper attention to the development of the body. He was backward in his studies, but kept at work with dogged On emerging from college he went abroad looking for further culture, and when he was not studying he engaged in mountain climbing or some other healthy outdoor exercises. He re-turned to America in 1881, married Miss Alice Lee of Boston, and began the study of American history preparatory to a career in politics, after he had found the study of law in the office of his Uncle Robert too slow for a man of his temperament. The gang at the primaries, where the amateur politician took his first lesson in 1881, found that "Teddy" was a good fellow with decided opinions, and more than ordinard intelligence, and he naturally became a leader in his district, and respect of both parties.

In 1884, after three short years in delegation.

the same year, and the shock of these events added to the hard work he had been doing in politics, and in literary work during his spare moments threat-ened to ruin his health. He wisely changed his mode of life and went west to bee me a ranchman. Between 1886 and 1889 he spent much time in-hunting and in writing historical works which are well known, the most impor-tant one being his "Winning of the

In 1886 he was nominated for mayor of New York, but he ran against a disastrous combination of circumstances and was beaten by Abram S. Hewitt. That same year he married Miss Edith Kermit Carow, of New

He resigned as police commissioner of New Yerk in 1897, to become assistant secretary of the navy. When there was fighting to be done the quiet of the navy office was not at all to Teddy's taste. He resigned on May 6, 1898, and proceeded to the raising of a regiment of rough riders. Roosevelt might have taken command had he insisted upon the honor, but he knew his limitations and wisely gave way to Col. Wood. What the rough riders did is too recent history to be repeated. His dramatic nomination for the vice-presidency is also well known.

Mr. Dooley Describes High Life at "The Socyal Capital iv America"-By Finley Peter Dunne.

"Great goin's on at Newport," said Mr. Dooley. "What's Newport?" said Mr. Hen-"I r-read about it ivry day in th' pa-aper," said Mr. Dooley; "an' I tween th' very rich an' th' very poor. know. 'Tis th' socyal capital iv America this here pa-aper says. 'Tis like erica this here pa-aper says. 'Tis like th' money, he used to buy an estate th' money, he used to buy an estate the money is the same and the s Washin'ton on'y it costs more. 'Tis where th' socyal ligislachure meets wanst a year an' decides how long we'll wear our coats this season an' how often, an' how our yachts'll be cut an' our friends. 'Tis there th' millyionaire meets his wife that was an' inthrajooces her to his wife that is to be if she can break away fr'm her husband that oughtn't to've been. "Yes, sir, it must be th' gran' place But 'tis no aisy thing livin' there. In th' first place, ye must have th' money an' ye must have th' look iv havin' it, an' ye must look as though it belonged to ye. That last's th' hardest thing iv all. No matther how much coin a man has, if if hasn't been siparated fr'm th' man that arned it so long that th' man that has it can go ar-round without th' fear iv a mechanic's lien in his eye, they tear up his ticket at th' box office. Thin he builds a palachial mansion at Oconomowoc. They're beginnin' to hear about him now. Thin he moves down to th' sea shore an' roughs it with th' Purytans an' fin'lly he lands. 'Tis a summer's mornin' as his yacht steams slowly up to Newport. Th' aged millyionaire is propped up on th' deck an' as th' sunlight sthrikes th' homes iv luxury an' alimeny, a smile crosses his face. 'Is that th' house iv Mrs. Rasther?' he says. 'It is,' says th' weepin' fam'ly 'An' is that where Mr. A. E. I. O. U an' sometimes W. and Y. Belcoor lives an' has his bein,?' 'That's th' house.' "What do they do there?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"Well, 'tis hard f'r me to make out," have said Mr. Dooley. "They must have their own throubles. Ivery day I r-read in th' pa-per iv a horrible catastrophe at Newport. Here ye ar-re today, 'Misther Willie Hankerbilt met with a mos' dhreadful an' provokers to any last today. With a horizon by the surveys to the surveys all things in a moment." "The strongest thing, necessity, for it overcomes in' accident today. While dhriving his cilibrated gasoline, Booney-Mooney five hundhred power autymobile, Purple Assassin, at a modhrate rate of wan hundhred miles an hour, accompanied beautiful Countess Eckstein who was formerly Mrs. Casey-Kelly, whose husband's marredge with her unt was cilybrated at Saint Go-go'son-th'-hill las' week) he was r-run into by wan Thomas Sullivan, a painther employed by Mrs. Reginald Steenevant, who is soon to occupy th' hand-some house, Dove Villa, which is part iv th' settlement allowed her be th' Dakota coorts. Mr. Hankerbilt was onable to turn aside to avoid th' colision, an' it was only be a supreme effort that he kep' fr'm bein' tipped He showed rare prisince iv mind.

Manny iv th' cottagers ar-re talkin' iv havin' a law passed compellin' pedesthreens to ring a bell an' blow a hor-rn on their way to wurruk. Otherwise they won't be a whole tire left in Newport.'
"An' if it isn't bein' bumped into be pedesthreens, it's bein' almost upset in a yacht or bein' almost dhrowned swimmin', or almost suffycated at a garden party. An' thin there ar-re burglars. There ar-re burglars that break into ye-re house an' there ar-re burglars that creep up behind ye an' giv ye a wallop with a piece iv pip an' steal ye'er dinner nights. Ye heerd about poor Mrs. Rasther. Well, sir I almost cried. Ye see, whoiver it was med Newport, whin he laid out th' specifycations, set aside two days ivry week f'r Mrs. Rasther's dinner. On thim days Mrs. Rasther was to eat. I don't know what she done on th other days. But two dinners a week ain't much f'r even a lady an' light feeder, an' ye can imagine this poor woman countin' th' days. Sundah, July eight, on'y two days to victuals." "Well, why do they live there if it gives thim so much throuble?" said

Mr. Hennessy. "Well, sir," said Mr. Dooley, "I guess they ain't much diff'rence bean' thry to get as far away fr'm anywun else as he cud, an' th' on'y time he see anywun was whin he wint to Dublin f'r horse show week an' sold all his spavined horses to th' hated sassenach, an' came back an' sobered up. But here 'tis diff'rent. Rich or poor, we want to be in sight an' sound iv neighbors or they'se no fun in life. What made Mrs. Mulligan rayfuse las' year to go to live on th' tin acres her rich brother, th' plumber, offered her rint free? She needed company. She wanted to be where she cud get th' smell of th' neighbors' cookin' an' brush th' clothes line aside an' talk across th' alley with Mrs. schmitt an' see rollickin' Terry Duffy go by on his autymobile, ringin' up fares with a glad smile. So it is with th' millyionaire. He's got to have some wan to set on th' stoop iv his yacht with him chattin' about matters iv th' union, while his wife has th' s'ciety iv other millyionaires' wives an' can give little Reggy or Clarissa pears radyantly clad as onions an egg-plants, not f'r him th' jolt fr'm eight dollars an sind thim down to Mrs. Bilcoort or th' quick left fr'm th' corner f'r a pail iv champagne. As mys. Bilcoort or th' quick left fr'm the corner millylongings comes up th' Mrs. Rasther. He's set back to about more millyionaires comes up, th' Cooney Island an' there he stays till place'll be more an' more crowded. It'll be a conjisted disthrict an' we'll r'read in th' pa-apers iv a millyionaire an' climbin' up over th' collar.
"But 'tis th' millyionaire's dhream an' family iv eight livin' in wan room with only about two-be-four iv oxyto land there. He starts in as foreman in a can facthry. By an' by he larns that wan iv th' men wurrukin' for him has invinted a ten that wanted a ten that f'rence between Mrs. Mulligan an' Mrs. Ganderbilk. If Tim Mulligan opin with a pair of scissors an' he throws him down an' takes it away fr'm him. He's a robber, says ye? He is while he's got th' other man down. But whin he gets up, he's a magnate.

Thin he sells out his wurnels to a socyal feelin' Hinnissy."

"They ain't more thin three or four hundred millyun dollars diff'rence between us," said Mr. Dooley.

Wisdom of the Ancients.

Thales, the father of Greek phil-sophy, and greatest of the seven wise men, lived in the seventh century, B. C. The saying ascribed to him by Diogenes Laertius are interesting, as means of comparing the wisdom of at day with that of our own time. ales gave thanks to Fortune for ee things; that he was a man, and not a beast; that he was a man, and not a woman; and that he was a Grecian, and not a barbarian. It was he who said "Know thyself." "Few words are the sign of a prudent judgment.' "Search after wisdom, and choose what is most worthy; so shalt thou stop the mouths of slanderers and tale-bearers." "God is the most ancient of beings, for he had no beginning." There is nothing more est thing, necessity, for it overcomes "The widest thing is all things." Place, for it contains all things." wisest thing, time, for it invents and discovers all things." Being asked "Whether the crimes of bad were concealed from the gods?" he "No, nor their thoughts either." To other questions he replied that "Perjury was worse than adultery;" that "The hardest thing in the world is to know oneself." "The easiest thing in the world is to admonish another;" that "The rarest sight was a tyrant stricken in years;" that "A man might easily brook misfortune, if he saw his enemies in a worse condition;" that "We can live most justly and honestly, if we do not act ourselves what we reprehend in others;" that "He is happy who is healthy in body, wealthy in fortune, and well furnished with parts and learning; "Be equally mindful of absent and present friends;" "Do not study to beautify the person, but embellish pect from their children the same duties which they had paid to their parents." In youth, being urged to marry, he said. "It was too soon;" later, being again urged, he said, "It
