

Late Old Country News

SCOTLAND

Monarch Fire Insurance Co.

Home office in this city has paid losses over $343,817.00.
 AUTHORIZED CAPITAL, $500,000.00
 Why not insure in a home company?
D. CAMPBELL & SONS
 AGENTS.
 26 BANK OF TORONTO CHAMBERS.

TRAVELERS' GUIDE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.
SARNIA TUNNEL TO SUSPENSION BRIDGE AND TORONTO.
 Arrive from the east—8:45 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 11:15 a.m., 11:25 a.m., 6:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m.
 Arrive from the west—12:00 a.m., 1:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m.
 Depart for the east—11:15 a.m., 1:30 a.m., 8:00 a.m., 11:40 a.m., 8:00 p.m., 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m.
LONDON AND WINDSOR.
 Arrive—10:25 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 2:00 p.m., 6:30 p.m.
 Depart—6:35 a.m., 11:35 a.m., 2:00 p.m., 6:30 p.m.
STURFORD BRANCH.
 Arrive—8:25 a.m., 11:45 a.m., 7:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m.
 Depart—8:00 a.m., 10:25 a.m., 2:45 p.m., 6:55 p.m.
LONDON, HURON AND BRUCE.
 Arrive—10:30 a.m., 6:10 p.m.
 Depart—8:30 a.m., 4:45 p.m.
MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAILWAY.
 Arrive—10:15 a.m., 11:00 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 8:15 p.m.
 Depart—7:20 a.m., 2:20 p.m., 6:35 p.m., 10:15 p.m.
CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.
 Arrive from the east—11:25 a.m., 10:15 p.m., 11:00 p.m.
 Arrive from the west—1:00 a.m., 11:25 p.m., 10:15 p.m., 11:00 p.m.
 Depart for the east—11:35 a.m., 11:45 a.m., 11:55 a.m., 12:00 p.m., 12:05 p.m., 12:10 p.m., 12:15 p.m., 12:20 p.m., 12:25 p.m., 12:30 p.m., 12:35 p.m., 12:40 p.m., 12:45 p.m., 12:50 p.m., 12:55 p.m., 1:00 p.m., 1:05 p.m., 1:10 p.m., 1:15 p.m., 1:20 p.m., 1:25 p.m., 1:30 p.m., 1:35 p.m., 1:40 p.m., 1:45 p.m., 1:50 p.m., 1:55 p.m., 2:00 p.m., 2:05 p.m., 2:10 p.m., 2:15 p.m., 2:20 p.m., 2:25 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 2:35 p.m., 2:40 p.m., 2:45 p.m., 2:50 p.m., 2:55 p.m., 3:00 p.m., 3:05 p.m., 3:10 p.m., 3:15 p.m., 3:20 p.m., 3:25 p.m., 3:30 p.m., 3:35 p.m., 3:40 p.m., 3:45 p.m., 3:50 p.m., 3:55 p.m., 4:00 p.m., 4:05 p.m., 4:10 p.m., 4:15 p.m., 4:20 p.m., 4:25 p.m., 4:30 p.m., 4:35 p.m., 4:40 p.m., 4:45 p.m., 4:50 p.m., 4:55 p.m., 5:00 p.m., 5:05 p.m., 5:10 p.m., 5:15 p.m., 5:20 p.m., 5:25 p.m., 5:30 p.m., 5:35 p.m., 5:40 p.m., 5:45 p.m., 5:50 p.m., 5:55 p.m., 6:00 p.m., 6:05 p.m., 6:10 p.m., 6:15 p.m., 6:20 p.m., 6:25 p.m., 6:30 p.m., 6:35 p.m., 6:40 p.m., 6:45 p.m., 6:50 p.m., 6:55 p.m., 7:00 p.m., 7:05 p.m., 7:10 p.m., 7:15 p.m., 7:20 p.m., 7:25 p.m., 7:30 p.m., 7:35 p.m., 7:40 p.m., 7:45 p.m., 7:50 p.m., 7:55 p.m., 8:00 p.m., 8:05 p.m., 8:10 p.m., 8:15 p.m., 8:20 p.m., 8:25 p.m., 8:30 p.m., 8:35 p.m., 8:40 p.m., 8:45 p.m., 8:50 p.m., 8:55 p.m., 9:00 p.m., 9:05 p.m., 9:10 p.m., 9:15 p.m., 9:20 p.m., 9:25 p.m., 9:30 p.m., 9:35 p.m., 9:40 p.m., 9:45 p.m., 9:50 p.m., 9:55 p.m., 10:00 p.m., 10:05 p.m., 10:10 p.m., 10:15 p.m., 10:20 p.m., 10:25 p.m., 10:30 p.m., 10:35 p.m., 10:40 p.m., 10:45 p.m., 10:50 p.m., 10:55 p.m., 11:00 p.m., 11:05 p.m., 11:10 p.m., 11:15 p.m., 11:20 p.m., 11:25 p.m., 11:30 p.m., 11:35 p.m., 11:40 p.m., 11:45 p.m., 11:50 p.m., 11:55 p.m., 12:00 p.m.

ENGLAND

LIVED AS A MISER HAD LOTS OF MONEY

Used Three Shillings a Week With £3,000 in Bank.

An elderly farmer named Lyman, who had to be taken to a hospital at Northampton, left behind in his cottage a diary showing that he had been living on 3s a week. Lyman had been regarded as a miser, and after his removal a passbook was found showing over £3,000 to his credit at a local bank.

As a testator, Mr. C. W. Perry, the newly-elected mayor of King's Lynn, announces that he cannot provide the usual supplies of wine for mayoral functions. Instead, he will accept what it would have cost him, and will give twice the sum for entertaining the poor during the coronation celebrations.

It is estimated that to meet the demand of the new King George postage stamp, 1,000,000 stamps will have to be printed every hour of the working day throughout next year. Even the most popular of lady actresses could not desire to have her picture postcards printed at a greater rate than that.

Robert Roberts, who for years lived as a hermit in a cottage made by a ruin of rough stones, near Garm, Carmarvonshire, fell into his open camp fire and was burned to death one day last week. His sole companion, a dog, barked frantically until passers-by found the body.

Archdeacon Mould has just returned to England after a long stay in China as a missionary. When he went out in April, 1881, the voyage to China took four months. He returned home via the Siberian Railway, and did the journey to London in sixteen days.

The first execution at Lancaster for twenty-three years took place during the week when Thomas Rawcliffe was hanged for wife-murder. The day before his death Rawcliffe had an affecting farewell with his mother, his children, and other relatives.

The King has accepted the photograph of a Lancashire miner, familiarly known as "Old William" Crook, of Wigan, who, by his 72 years labor in the coal mines, has established what is claimed as a world's record.

"Tell my mother I say that what" were the last words of Rawcliffe, the Carlisle wife-murderer, before he went to the scaffold. It is the Dean of Carlisle who tells the story. He had been staying at the house of the fell chaplain, whose duty it was to minister to the doomed man. The chaplain stated that Rawcliffe had been very silent during the last prayer, and at the fall the chaplain asked him if he would like to have a hymn read to him. "Yes, read me 'Swain My Soul,'" he replied, and the chaplain did so. "May I sing?" asked Rawcliffe. "On receiving permission he sang a few verses with a quiver the chaplain and all the other jail officials being moved to tears.

The collapse of part of a gallery in the Theatre Royal, Aldersbury, the other night caused great excitement, which was, however, quickly allayed by the presence of mind of some of the actors, who were appearing in "The Trail of the Serpent." It was who at the time was a manacled prisoner in a den somewhere on the east end bank of the Thames, liberated himself and was across the footlights the instant after the first cry of alarm. After him went the villain, who a minute before had been arranging for the hero a terrible death. In five minutes order was restored, a speech from the villain reassuring the audience. No one was injured.

The dynamite-laden ketch Mystery, which was towed to Yarmouth during a collision with a tug, was damaged after a collision with a tug, which was from Antwerp to Leith, has been a source of some anxiety to the harbor authorities. She had twenty-five tons of dynamite in her hold piled round with sand, a quantity amply sufficient to wreck a town. Two experts in explosives from the home office were sent down, and after examining the vessel and the ketch, they were quiet part of the harbor, instructions were given that the vessels should be towed to a safe distance out to sea and then blown up by means of a current of high water.

Arthur Peary, formerly of Mr. Roosevelt's Rough Riders, as a member of which corps he participated in the Cuban campaign, met with a sudden death at Liverpool the other Monday. He was engaged as foreman bricklayer in the construction of new offices overlooking the River Mersey. While engaged on the floor of the building Peary from some unexplained cause fell to the basement, a depth of 170 feet. Death was instantaneous. Peary's body was recovered, but the building was so affected that they ceased work for the day.

IRELAND

TICKET-OF-LEAVE MAN FOUGHT TO DEATH

Fatal Termination To Encounter With Irish Constables.

An exciting encounter between an armed ticket-of-leave man and the police resulted in the death of the former, a man named John O'Brien, in Birr (King's County) Workhouse Infirmary last week. O'Brien failed to report himself to the police and disappeared. His description was circulated, and he was seen near Thomastown, armed with a double-barrelled gun. The Birr district police got on his track, and an exciting hunt lasting several days ensued. A number of armed policemen got close on his heels and called on him to surrender. In reality the ex-convict raised his gun at the nearest constable, but before he had time to pull the trigger one of the policemen fired at him, hitting him in the leg. O'Brien fell and the constables closing in overpowered him after a desperate struggle. He was taken to Birr Workhouse Infirmary, where the injured limb was amputated, but gangrene set in and the man died.

One of the most remarkable cases of restoration of missing property which has been chronicled in Belfast has just come to light. A long ago, in August, 1876, a watch was lost on the street. The owner put the matter in the hands of Messrs. Gibson & Co., jewelers, and they inserted an advertisement offering a reward for the recovery of the watch, and also communicated with the detective office, but with no result. Years passed, but nothing was heard of the missing chronometer until the other morning Messrs. Gibson, who in the meantime had forgotten all about the affair, received the watch, along with an anonymous letter, which stated that the watch was in a box, and kept the watch so long. It had been broken, and was repaired, but had never been worn. The reason the finder gave for not returning the watch was that he was looking for the letter was signed "Unknown."

A remarkable woman is Mrs. Maggie McManis, who was born in Killybegs, County Londonderry, Ireland. She was, in her young days, credited with possessing the sweetest voice in the county. Her great age has not proved in any way detrimental to her faculties, and she does not realize her own age. She converses most sensibly, "fills" the old-time songs in a spirited manner, and despite the weight of years, she can give a few stanzas of an Irish jig with marvellous agility.

An amusing fire occurred in Cork the other Sunday morning, resulting in the destruction of Shaw's extensive flour mills in the northern side of the city. Owing to the amount of woodwork the fire spread with extraordinary rapidity, and in an hour the greater portion of the mill, in which an entirely new plant was installed a few years ago, was a mass of ruins, with walls and distorted ironwork. The damage is estimated at £20,000.

While gangs of men were unloading the cargo of a boat from Albert Quay, Cork, an unmarried laborer named Patrick Basted, missed his footing and fell between the quay wall and the ship. His head struck a sharp edge, and immediately a sailor jumped after him, but was unable to effect a rescue. The grappling irons were procured, and the body of the unfortunate man recovered.

Presiding at the Irish Literary Society in London, Lord Macdonnell, in referring to Ireland's trade, said they all knew that there was in Ireland a great cloud at last. The time had come when agitation was nearly at an end, and when all classes and all creeds would join together for the good of the country and of those industries which served for its material prosperity.

County Tyrone Constabulary are investigating a shocking outrage on the part of a man named James McNeill, who had been in the county for some time. He had been in the county for some time, and had been in the county for some time. He had been in the county for some time, and had been in the county for some time.

HELD UP BRIDAL PAIR SMASHED THEIR MOTOCR

English Charivari That Was Costly for the Merry-makers.

The "holding up" of a bridal party has had a sequel at Dewsbury, where judgment for £27 19s. has been given against four men for damaging a motor car. As Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Walker were driving in a motor car from Liversedge Parish Church after their marriage, a chain was thrown across the road and caused an accident. The motor car was extensively damaged. For the defence a large number of witnesses declared that it was an old custom to "hold up" bridal parties in the expectation of getting money for drink.

Corks have been put to novel use by Charles Hawkins, of Peterborough, who has succeeded in building a series of most interesting models, the chief of which is a large and comprehensive model of Burghley House, the historic seat of the Marquis of Exeter near Stamford. It took Mr. Hawkins in his spare time ten years to complete, during which time he walked nearly three thousand miles in repeated visits to the house in order to secure accuracy. The model measures five feet in length, four feet in width and three feet in height, and no fewer than 10,000 corks were used in its construction.

The driver of the motor mail between Chelmsford and Southend was turning a dangerous corner near Rayleigh when a motor car, which had served an overturned cart in the middle of the road, with the horse lying by its side. He righted the cart, and found inside the body of a man who was evidently been suffocated. He turned out to be Benjamin Henry Hart, a dealer of Hockley, and had been to Chelmsford Market. How the peculiar fatality happened is a mystery.

A furniture dealer in Shepherd's Bush Road, London, was on the point last week of selling a second-hand cupboard to a customer for four shillings. A husband, under a pretext, however, the customer noticed a defect in the cupboard, and said he would buy it when the defect was remedied. On examining the cupboard later in the night the dealer found a secret drawer at the back containing shares, gold, and notes to the value of £414. Estate of the gross value of £37,766 was left by Mr. Harvey George, sixtysix of Ilford, Essex, and Gillingham. He was one of the makers of modern Gillingham. He entered the fishing industry at Yarmouth with one smack, and became the owner of a fleet of over 200 vessels. He was a prominent Knight Templar, and expressed a wish that his body should be robed in the clothing of that order.

The London authorities have been wrestling with an invasion of very undesirable aliens of late. They made their appearance in a warehouse in Upper Thames street, and proved themselves such a nuisance that the tenants of neighboring houses had to leave until the invaders were dealt with. They were small flying beetles, which issued in thousands from bags of tumeric from Bombay.

A husband made a tragic discovery at Crews the other day. On his way to give information that his wife was missing, Mr. Grindley, of School House was passing a deep pool, when he noticed a shawl floating on the water. Recognizing it as his wife's he procured a long prop, and in dragging the shawl to the side, he also recovered the body of his wife.

The death of English hunting, Mr. George Race, of Biggleswade, Bedfordshire, has just celebrated his ninety-third birthday. He was born in 1818, and for the last twenty years had been a position formerly held by his father—and has followed hounds for more than eighty seasons.

SCOTCH GENTLEMAN REMEMBERS WATERLOO

As a Boy Took Part in Rejoicings Over Great Victory.

Believed to be the oldest man in Scotland, James Grieve, died at Loch Eck, last week. He was a native of Invergowrie, where, according to his own belief, he was born in the year 1800. He fixed the date of his birth by his recollections of Waterloo. He was then a boy working in the fields, and his recollections of the victory arrived, he, along with his fellow-laborers, participated in the general rejoicing. At that time he was fourteen or fifteen years of age. He maintained the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago. Mr. Grieve had spoken with men who had seen Prince Charles of Saxony, his Glasgow acquaintance, who described that historic personage. For almost 35 years he worked as a shepherd, and even after he had retired from continuous labor he continued to take the use of his recollections almost up to the last, and was able to see and speak with visitors till within a few weeks ago