This department is conducted by the Local Union, and is under the charge of an editor appointed by the Executive Committee, who assumes the responsibility for the statements and articles which appear in this column.

The following are extracts from a speech of David Lloyd George, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

There is another aspect of the question which it is difficult and dangerous to tackle. There are all sorts of regulations for restricting output. I will say nothing about the merits of the question. There are reasons why they have been built up. The conditions of employment and payment are mostly to blame for those restrictions. Workmen had to fight for them for their own protection. But in a period of war there is a suspension of ordinary law. Output is everything in this war.

This war is not going to be fought mainly on the battlefields of Belgium and Poland. It is going to be fought in the workshops of France and Great Britain.

Our enemies realize that, and employers and workmen in Germany are straining their utmost. France fortunately also realizes it, and in the land of free institutions, with a Socialist Prime Minister, a Socialist Secretary of State for War, a Socialist Minister of Marine, the employers and workmen are subordinating everything to the protection of their beautiful land, which they love with an affectionate ardour.

I have something more to say about this, and it is unpleasant. I wish it were not I but somebody else who should say it. Most of our workmen are putting every ounce of strength into this urgent work for their country loyally and patriotically. But that is not true of all. There are some, I am sorry to say, who shirk their duty in this great emergency. I hear of workmen in armaments works who refuse to work a full week's work for the nation's need. What is the reason? They are a minority. The vast majority belong to a class we can depend upon. The others are a minority. But you must remember a small minority of workmen can throw a whole works out of gear.

THE LURE OF DRINK.
What is the reason? Let us be perfectly candid. It is mostly the lure of drink. They refuse to work full time, and when they return their strength and efficiency are impaired by the way in which they have spent their leisure.

Drink is doing us more damage in the war than all the German submarines put together. What has Russia done? (Cheers.) Russia knowing her deficiency, knowing how unprepared she was, said, "I must pull myself together. I am not going to be trampled upon, unready as I am. I will use all my resources. The first thing she does is to stop the drink." (Cheers.)

RUSSIA'S HEROIC ACT.
I was talking to M. Bark, the Russian Minister of Finance, a singularly able man, and I asked what had been the results. He said: "The productivity of labor, the amount of work which is put out by the workmen, has gone up between 30 and 50 per cent." (Cheers.) I said, "How do they stand it without their liquor?" and he replied, "Stand it? I have lost revenue over it, up to 65 millions a year; and we certainly cannot afford it, but I proposed to put it back there would be a revolution in Russia."

That is what the Minister of Finance told me. He told me that it was entirely attributable to the act of the Tsar himself.

It was a bold and courageous step, one of the most heroic things in the war. (Cheers.)

One afternoon we had to postpone our conference in Paris, and the French Minister of Finance said, "I have to go to the Chamber of Deputies, because I am proposing a Bill to abolish absinthe." (Cheers.) Absinthe plays the same part in France that whiskey plays in this country. It is really the worst form of drink used amongst not only workmen but among our classes as well. Its ravages are terrible, and the French Deputies abolished it by a majority of something like ten to one that afternoon. (Cheers.)

ENGLAND NEXT.
That is how those great countries are facing their responsibilities. We do not propose anything so drastic as that. We are essentially moderate men. (Laughter.) But we are armed with full powers for the defence of the realm.

We have great powers to deal with drink and we mean to use them. (Cheers.) We shall use them in a spirit of moderation. We shall use them discreetly. We shall use them wisely. But we shall use them quite fearlessly—(cheers)—and I have no doubt that as the country's needs demand if the country will support our action, and will allow no indulgence if that tends to interfere with its prospects in this terrific war which has been thrust upon us.

THE LESSON OF THE ANTS.
Concluding his speech in Welsh the Chancellor said: War is a time of sacrifice and of service. Some can render one service, some another, some here, and some there. Some can render great assistance, others but little. There is no one who cannot help in some measure, even if it be only by sending cheerfully his share of the discomfort.

In the old Welsh legends there is a story of a man who was faced with a series of what appeared to be impos-

THE DAUGHTERS' EMPIRE APPEAL

Urgent Call Sent out for Socks For the Canadian Contingents at the Front

The Regent Mrs. E. Atherton Smith and members of the Royal Standard Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire are issuing the following appeal.

A strong and urgent call comes from the Canadian War Contingent Association of London of which the Hon. Geo. Parley, Acting High Commissioner is the President, for supplies for our men now at the front.

Mr. Colmer in writing states that the great need is for SOCKS—SOCKS—SOCKS. He assures us that contributions sent through them will be forwarded at once to our men in the trenches and at the firing line. The following telegram in answer to questions about our socks, was received from Mrs. Plumptre, Superintendent of Supplies for the Canadian Red Cross Society and speaks for itself.

"Socks sent by Red Cross Society distributed to sick and wounded wherever required, but not to men in the trenches who receive them through field comforts."

Our Chapter realizing the great need for the comfort of those upon whom are now falling the great hardships of the war, and knowing well that every woman and daughter of New Brunswick will endeavor to supply that need, have organized a SOCK DAY for the 21st of April and are sending out the following invitation to the women of Saint John and the Province:

"Won't you come with your friends to a Sale and Tea By the Royal Standard Chapter I. O. D. E."

You'll miss some fun if you stay away A pair of socks is the Admission Fee.

Tied up neatly—and inside you see Your name and address should be written plain.

With a note to your soldier across the main.

Kindly come and help the good work This is no time that any should shirk.

We know our lads their duty will do Let's do our part to help them through."

Will every woman who reads this kindly bring or send a pair of socks. The social will be held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, but those unable to be present will please mail their socks with their full name and address to Miss Ethel Jarvis, 148 Duke St., St. John. Should they not be ready for the 21st they can still be sent the following week to the same address.

"Who will help? For KING and COUNTRY need YOU."

GOOD SUGGESTION TO CAMPBELL ON PEOPLE

It is surprising the amount of old foul matter the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ka, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowel so thoroughly that ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Campbellton agents for Adler-ka. A. McG. McDonald, druggist.

APPLY NOW FOR THE USE OF THE N. B. GOVT DITCHER.

The attention of those who contemplated the laying of tile drains during the present season is directed to the fact that the summer itinerary of the traction ditcher operated by the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture is now being arranged. Any desiring the use of this machine should make application immediately, otherwise no assurance can be given that their work can be carried out this season. Preference will be given to those districts from which a number of applications are received in order to overcome the expense and loss of time occasioned by frequent and long moves. Copies of the regulations and application forms may be had by writing to the Soils and Crops Division, Agricultural School, Woodstock, N. B.

Chandler C. Harvey of Fort Fairfield, who arraigned in the Municipal Court Monday before Judge Blanchard on complaint of James F. Valjelly Jr., special agent of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad, who alleged criminal libel as the result of an article appearing March 10th in The Fort Fairfield Review, of which publication Mr. Harvey is editor. The complaint attached to the warrant is a lengthy document, citing the usual allegations of unlawfully, wilfully and maliciously making, composing, distorting, etc., a certain article. The article is quoted in the complaint. It refers to the case of a B. & R. R. station agent who committed suicide, it being found that he was $12 short in his accounts, a mistake, his friends believed, and charges that a "special agent" of the company "worked on his nervous and sensitive personality to make him think it a terrible thing," etc. Insinuations of responsibility of the act seem to constitute the most serious part of the article.

Fred A. Morrison and George M. Houghton of Bangor, are summoned as witnesses in the warrant. Deputy Sheriff Charles R. Powell officiated as the officer serving the papers. George E. Thompson appeared for the state and the respondent was not represented by counsel. He waived examination and Judge Blanchard held him in $500 bonds for the action of the grand jury at the September term of the Supreme Court. Charles P. Connors of Bangor, and Leonard Pierce of Houlton, furnished bonds.

William Ashe of Markhamville

Instantly Killed at Sussex

by Express

About 7.40 Thursday evening, a terrible fatality occurred at Main Street crossing, Sussex, where No. 1 express, west bound from Moncton to St. John, in charge of Conductor James Coles and Engineer James Moody, ran down and instantly killed a man named William Ashe, of Markhamville, who was crossing the tracks at the time. Ashe's body was literally cut to pieces and his death must have been instantaneous.

Mr. Ashe was about 40 years of age and was employed by the Bay Shore Lumber Company at Great Salmon River. He went to St. John for the day, returning to Sussex last evening on the Sussex express. He then went to the Sussex Mercantile Company store, paid a bill, got a receipt, and this receipt was the only means of identification. After he left the store, he went into J. R. McLean's store, paid another bill, and started on the run, it is supposed for the depot. When he arrived at the crossing he stopped between the rails, apparently dazed by the close approach of the engine. He started to run back, but was cut to pieces. The only part of the body left intact was from the hips down. Only small bits of the head were found.

The danger signal at the crossing was in perfect order, the bell was ringing and a red light showing when the train passed it.

The accident was witnessed by a number of people at the crossing, who were waiting for the train to pass and were surprised at the young man taking such chances.

The train was in charge of Conductor James Coles and Engineer Jas. Moody. While Driver Moody was oiling his engine at the station he found the young man's hat on the pilot. The hat was a new one of brown felt and had evidently been bought in St. John yesterday.

Mr. Ashe is survived by his mother, one sister, Mrs. Fred Hunter, and one brother, James, who resides at Markhamville. His untimely death has cast a gloom over that community. Coroner E. W. Wallace was summoned and gathered up the remains and took them to the morgue. A coroner's jury was called, sworn in and after viewing the remains adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

NOTHING TO DO BUT WEAR CLOTHES.

The claim is made for one of the leaders of "society" at a popular summer colony that she has 65 outgoing dresses.

Supposedly away for recreation and rest, she is burdened with the annoyance of keeping track of an assortment of gowns that in numbers and variety would do credit to a girl's boarding school.

Poor thing. Nothing to do but wear clothes. A butterfly without the butterfly's freedom from worry about its coloring and down.

Did you once make the mistake of envying the rich? Don't repeat it. Please. Rather pity them for their emptiness, vanity and isolation of lives of most of them; for the crushing burden which their having to live up to a socially established standard puts upon their better nature; for the barriers which their dollars build round them to interrupt and hinder the natural play of human brotherhood.

Sallie Ann, the carpenter's daughter, with one gingham gown and toes peeping out, is closer to the Mother Nature, far more to be desired for her possibilities of true fellowship, than this gilded "bud". Despite her 65 dresses, at 60 of them must be a nuisance bore.
