

looking out one side of the car, I missed a great many things the other side.

We stopped at Savona, at Ashcroft, at Spence's Bridge and at Lytton where some girls saw us and gave us some flowers.

Then the train stopped a long time at North Bend, so we could see the place very well. We stopped again at Yale, Hope, Agassiz, Harrison and at last arrived at Mission about six o'clock in the evening.
