British Foreign Missions. By Rev. James Johnston, Bolton, England.

Free Church of Scotland Foreign Missions.—For the year ending March 31st the whole sum raised and spent by the Free Church on foreign missions to the heathen and Mohammedans was £100,400. The other missions connected with the Church raised £7923 for conversion of the Jews, £7130 for the continent, and £2662 for the British colonies, making the total missionary revenue of the Free Church £116,759. In the India Mission are comprised the four great missions of Bengal, Western India, Madras and Central India, the Santal and Medical Mission. The Christian colleges continued to develop in work and usefulness and in their elevating influence on the better class of Hindus, Parsees, and Mohammedans. Probably the United Madras Christian College was the first in all Asia, in the train of which came the Wilson Missionary College, the Duff Missionary College at Calcutta, and the Hislop College at Nagpoor, in the heart of India. In the extension of schools, raising educational standards, the baptism of many of the people of different tribes, and the inter-tribal pacification of the Nyassa Highlands, the Livingstonia Mission was bearing fruit, but was passing through a serious time of transition from native to British administration. The Keith-Falconer Mission is being reinforced by the departure of Mr. J. C. Young, of Glasgow, to Shaikh Othman, in Southern Arabia. In support of the Medical Mission of Dr. Torrance at Tiberias, and especially toward the
