THE CAUTIOUS DOG.

MANY years ago, the Rev. William Howells, of London, Eng., told a story of a dog belonging to a friend of his, who regularly accompanied them as they walked together. One evening the dog strayed away from them, and was taken up by a stranger, who was carrying him off but being perceived, the dog was rescued and brought back to his master.

It was always observed that ever afterwards, when near the same place, the poor dog always kept very close to his master and his friend.

The lesson is obvious. We have had our dangers and our deliverances, our wanderings and our returnings. Let us, then when we approach scenes or circumstances which have proved ensnaring, keep close to our Master's side. First Peter followed afar off; then he denied his Lord, and cursed and swore. Our adversary watches the least departure from the Lord, and seeks to effect our ruin. Only the Shepherd of Israel, who never slumbers nor sleeps, can save us from destruction. Blessed be His name, He will not forget His little flock.
