SOME SARCASM.

"A subscriber has asked us for advice on the subject of buying mining stock," says The Confidential Banker, an American journal. "If there is anything we are long on it is advice, and we cheerfully comply. Mining stock should be bought in the dark of the moon from a total stranger. If possible pay him in lead money. Mining stock is useful for several things. The long, narrow certificates are good for laying upon pantry shelves. The short, fat ones can be used in the bottoms of drawers, the handsomely engraved certificates on hand-made paper can be rolled up and used for killing flies. You should, of course, buy your stock carefully and choose the size which will come in handiest.

"Several enterprising companies are now putting out stock which comes in assorted sizes and can be used for doilies, paper spills, shaving paper and table cloths. There is a general complaint because the ink on many of the certificates is injurious to health. If some company will put out a line of mining stock on perfectly blank and sterilized paper, it will make a great hit.

"Low grade mining stock should be bought just before house cleaning. It can then be laid under the carpets during the summer. Late in the fall it can be taken up and used for bedding the horse."
