Galt, July 6.—John Cullen, a corporation laborer, aged about 55, was found this evening in the cellar of his house on Portland-street, with his neck broken. He lived alone and had not been seen since last Wednesday, and neighbors, thinking something was wrong, eftered the house to high twith the result mentioned. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition, Coroner Vardon was notified, but deemed an inquest unnecessary, as there were no evidences of foul play, the man apparently having opened the door leading to the cellar and fell down headfirst.

Blood Poisoning?

London, Ont., July 6.—Rachel Newell, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Newell of 525 Ontario-street, died at 5 o'clock this morning of blood poisoning. A week ago Friday the little tot came running into the house, and partly removing the stocking from the right foot, called attention to a white blister on the ankle, which she said had been caused by a bite. Everything possible was done to save the child's life, but it was of no avail. The bite is supposed to have been made by a black spider.
