

VIVIANI, EX-PREMIER OF FRANCE, IS DEAD

Was Born in Algiers and Was Government Leader During First War Year.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Former Premier Rene Viviani died this morning.

Rene Viviani, ex-Premier of France and internationally famous lawyer and statesman, was born Nov. 8, 1863, in the thriving little village of Sidi Bel Abbes, in the interior of Algeria. He graduated from the University of Paris and immediately began the practice of law in Algiers. He overcame many obstacles to establish himself in Paris, yet his rise was meteoric and he took high rank at the bar and an enviable niche in politics.

His first election to the Chamber of Deputies occurred in 1893, when he was sent from the Department of the Seine, including Paris. The fateful year of 1914, which ushered in the World War, saw Viviani with the reins of government in his own hands for the first time, after the Chamber had refused to accept a cabinet formed by Alexandre Ribot.

For more than a year he guided the war cabinet, and then consented to take a less active role as vice-president. He retired from the Government Sept. 12, 1917.

Human Eccentricities

(Montreal Herald.)

A long list of authors in whom eccentricities were found has recently been published by an inquisitive somebody whose hobby is oddities of human conduct. A few follow: Browning shuffled his feet when he sat. Zola would never accept a dinner invitation. Renan wore his fingernails abnormally long. Disraeli wore corsets. Dickens was fond of flashy jewelry. Holmes carried a horse-chestnut in his pocket. Hawthorne always washed his hands before reading a letter from his wife. Darwin tore big books apart, the more easily to read them. Keats liked red pepper on his toast. Regardless of whether "minus is to minus close allied," such eccentricities no doubt could be found in all great men. But if the truth were known would not something just a trifle abnormal be discovered in everybody? Is it not too much to expect that the brain should always be well balanced under the terrific strain to which modern conditions of life subject it? What a dull place the world would be if everybody always did the conventional thing!

A Believer in Unity.

(Ottawa Citizen.)

Baron Byng of Vimy has seen more of Canada in his extensive travels than most Canadians. He knows the physical Canada thoroughly. He has a very exact appreciation of the country's material possibilities. In addition he knows the calibre of Canadian men as few have had the opportunity of knowing it. This appraisal he made when commander of the Canadians in France.

With this dual knowledge, he is convinced that Canada, in her men and resources, possesses the essential requirements of greatness. But he sees in the divisions that mark the Dominion certain signs of weakness, which, if they continue to exist, are bound to affect this country's progress. So he appeals for unity, for a united Canada, united in the cause of peace as Canada was united at Vimy Ridge and upon other battlefields in France in the cause of war. This has been Baron Byng's theme upon many occasions and he is intensely in earnest about it. It is a subject that lies very close to his heart. He has planted the thought of a united Canada in the minds of thousands in all parts of Canada.

That his work will bear fruit is assured. Evidence of an improved feeling is already visible and such inter-provincial meetings as those that have been held between political leaders of the different provinces and that are to be held this year under the auspices of the various boards of trade of the Dominion.

The ELECTRIC TEAM that drives out every chill

"HOOK UP" these Majestic Electric Heaters, and know a new comfort when the damp days and chill winds search out every room in the house.

Both types are proven chill-chasers. The original reflector style of Majestic Heater directs swift, concentrated, penetrating beams of clean electric heat to whatever spot requires it. The newer grate type spreads genial, healthful warmth in all directions. Each has many uses in any home.

It is an excellent plan to have one of each kind. Then you can postpone "furnace time" for several weeks, and thereby save money and hard work. And even after the furnace is going there's nothing nicer than some "auxiliary" heat during severe weather.

Safe, Handy and Efficient
All Majestic Electric Heaters are easily carried, being light in weight, cool-handled and steady as a rock. They are safe, beautiful, and wonderfully convenient.

If you are buying only one electric heater, choose the size and style of "Majestic" best suited to your needs. The popular "grate fire" type is obtainable in three-element and six-element models. The famous reflector-type "Majestics" come in single and double-coil sizes.

Mass production makes possible the low prices at which Majestic Electric Heaters are sold by good dealers everywhere. Ask the nearest one for a demonstration.

How Far Up is Your Child?

Did your youngster fail to be among the leaders in marks last year?

Why? It has been proven over and over again that 60 p. c. of backward children have some large or small Sight defect. Glasses make all the difference.

Even among grown-ups, piece-workers increase their production 28 p. c. to 42 p. c. on adopting Glasses. Their Sight improves and their strength improves when Glasses lift the dragging strain.

Your child may get through school a year or more sooner if you see that its eyes are right.
