SCOTTISH M. P. WINS SIXPENCE, TELLS LADY ASTOR OF HOLE IN HOSE

London, Nov. 1.—Mr. Murray, a Scottish M. P., earned "sixpence" at Lady Astor's expense lately. The noble member for Plymouth was walking in front of him on the terrace one day. A Durham member who was in the doctor's company noticed that her ladyship had, horrible to relate, a hole in her stocking. "If bet you 6d. you won't tell her," he said. Such a prospect was too much for the little Highlander.

"Lady Astor," he said, when he found a convenient opportunity, "I have a chance of winning sixpence. You won't be offended if I tell you how?" "Oh, no," her ladyship replied. "Well, you've a hole in your stocking. The lady member at once beat a hasty retreat, motivated home and within fifteen minutes was back in her place wearing a new pair. But the sixpence was safe by then.
