A Real Lung Tonic

"Father Morriscy's No. 10"

There are many preparations that will relieve a cough—few that will cure it. The first class, containing such drugs as Opium and Morphine, simply deaden the irritation and stop the cough, but do little or no permanent good.

It entirely removes the irritation that caused the cough, by cleaning out the mucus, stopping the inflammation and healing the delicate membrane of throat and lungs.

Moreover, it tones up and strengthens the whole system, particularly the lungs, and protects against future coughs and colds.

Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c.

Foot Faddist's Fits.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was congratulated in his office recently on the fact that he, like the poet Meeterlinck and other famous men, has taken to the motorcycle.

"And has motorcycling benefited your health?" his congratulator, a journalist, ventured to ask.

"I think it has," Mr. Rockefeller replied. "I won't ask you, though to take note of my clear eye and good color, or I might find myself in the foot faddist fix."

A foot faddist was lecturing to a large audience on the marvelous results to be obtained from chewing soap, or eating nut butter, or something of that kind. He was not a very imposing person physically, but swelling out his chest, he slapped it thrice with his palm and cried:

"Friends, two years ago, I was a walking skeleton, a haggard, miserable wreck. Now, what do you suppose brought about this great change in me?"

"He paused to let his words sink in, and a voice asked:

"What change?"

Hunting for Trouble.

A traveler stopped at a country hotel in Arkansas. There was no water in his room when he arose in the morning, and he went downstairs and asked for some.

"What for?" the landlord asked.

"I want to wash my face."

The landlord directed him to a creek near by, followed by several children, who stared at him in amazement.

The traveller washed his face and combed his hair, as best he could, with a pocket comb.

The children circled about him with wide-open eyes. Finally the largest boy said: "Say, mister, do you-all take all that trouble with yourself every day?"

A Vegetable Constipation Cure

Because they contain mercury and mineral salts, many pills are harsh. The easiest and safest laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. They clean the stomach, intestines and bowels—drive out waste matter, tone the kidneys and forever cure constipation. As a general tonic and system cleanser, nothing is so mild and efficient as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold every where in 25c. boxes.

Not Mr. McChanic

Scotch highlanders, who still speak the Gaelic at times, settled much of the country north of Toronto.

One day Dr. Rutherford, locally famous, was looking for some men to do some work for him. He went to a village blacksmith shop and found several of these Scotchmen standing about.

"Are you a mechanic?" he asked one of them.

"Nay," he replied. "I'm a McCaig."

"But what is your occupation?"

"Scotch."

Never Pare a Corn

It's a sure way to get blood poisoning. Use Putnam's Corn Extractor. It's safe, painless and sure to cure in a day.

GROUP

stopped in 20 minutes with Dr. Shoop's Group Remedy. One test will surely prove. No waiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing group—50c. Druggists.

Siftings.

"He's always getting himself in wrong."

"What's he done now?"

"Told that young mother, when she snowed him her baby, that his sister had had three just like it."

Wise Old Uncle—Remember Tommy, as you go through the world that you can't get something for nothing.

Precious Nephew—Oh, yes you can uncle; when I don't eat nothin' I git an awful pain in my stummock.

"Ever been locked up?" demanded counsel.

"I have been," admitted the witness.

"Aha! and what had you been doing to get yourself locked up?"

"I had been doing jury duty."

"Colonel," asked the beautiful young widow "have you ever actually sniffed the point of battle?"

"No," replied the gallant member of the Governor's staff, "but I have carried the powder of many a conflict on my shoulder."

A school teacher in one of the lower grades once asked her room: "What is wind?"

After a thoughtful pause a small hand was raised. "Well, Robert, what is your answer?" she asked.

"Why, the wind is the air, when it gets in a hurry," answered Robert.

"Hello," said the former prominent financier, as he placed the telephone receiver at his ear, "give me 7462."

He waited patiently for a few minutes and then said—

"Oh, I beg your pardon. It was my mistake. I want 7538. I was thinking of the number I had before I was pardoned."

Aunt Hetty—What's the matter Eben?

Uncle Eben—Well, of all the brazen things I ever saw. This paper has deliberately copied that patent medicine ad. about St. Hoskins being cured of influenza by using Judge Dopenman's Pills that was in last week's Hardscrabble Clarion.

Mistress (the day-maid, who has arrived late)—You're two hours late this morning Mary; what is the reason?

Mary—Yes'm. But please, 'm, mother said I was to tell you when she wound up the clock last night, she put the big handle right, but clean forgot all about the little 'un.

Lady (to committee room clerk, who hands her a small bill announcing a forthcoming political meeting in England)—But it is possible for ladies to go to these meetings?

Clerk—Why not?

Lady—I thought they were more or less of a rough nature.

Clerk—Well, madam, we've taken every possible precaution to keep out the suffragettes.

Jinks—(That fellow Silipate is the most inexcusable dolt I ever saw.)

Winks—What has he been doing to you?

Jinks—A few days ago someone invited him to dinner at our boarding house. Well, sir, that idiot just praised every dish on the table and complimented the landlady on her cooking until she raised our board a dollar a week.

The Esthetic Cat.

We do not wish to underestimate the fine qualities of affection, courage and sagacity which are the dog's, but neither do we like to see the widespread lack of appreciation for the cat's many admirable traits. Patience, endurance, good judgement, self-control, self-reliance, high spirits and industry—many or all of these are possessed by the average cat.

Under favorable conditions she will develop a strength of affection not devoid of demonstration that is equal to the dog's.

The most esthetic souls of all times have cherished the cat. Baudelaire, Von Scheffel, Poe, De Musset, Henry Irving, and a host of other lovers of the beautiful come to mind in this connection. The silly feline, padded football and mystery wandrings, has ever appealed to imagination, just as she has appealed to the sense of domesticity—Milwaukee Free Press

ROOSEVELT MADE WORLD RECORD IN AFRICAN HUNT.

Bagged 500 Specimens of the Large Mammals

Gondokoro, Sudan on the Upper Nile.—Theodore Roosevelt and his party sailed today on the steamer Dan for Khartoum, where they expect to arrive March 15.

The departure practically ended the exploration of the African scientific expedition of the Smithsonian Institution (of Washington, Col. Roosevelt deems the killing of giant elands on the Upper Nile a fitting climax of a marvellously successful trip. The sporting and scientific results have exceeded all expectations.

The colonel and his son have killed some 500 specimens of large mammals, including 17 lions, 11 elephants, 10 buffaloes, 10 black rhinoceroses, 9 white ones, 9 hippopotami, 9 giraffes, 3 leopards, 7 cheetahs, 3 giant elands, 3 snakes, 1 siatung and 2 bongos. All were killed in the interest of science and the specimens will be disposed of accordingly, the greater number going to the Smithsonian Institution. Mr. Roosevelt will keep no more than six trophies.

The most highly prized game he may be rated thus: First the giant elands, the first complete specimens of which a native are now being taken from the country; second, the white rhinoceros; third, the bongos, the first to be killed and killed by a white man, and fourth, the siatung, a species of antelope.

The naturalists secured a remarkable collection, comprising many thousands of birds and other mammals.

The results in this Nile Lava been most gratifying, and science will be enriched by several new species and an enormous series of the smaller mammals of Africa.

The game taken and the collections made constitute a world's record for a similar period of hunting and scientific research in Africa, and the American museums will receive the greatest collections of African fauna in existence.

The work reflects the greatest credit upon all members of the party, who labor continued ceaselessly, despite disadvantages of climate. All agree that too much praise cannot be accorded R. J. Cunningham, the Englishman, whose management of the expedition was as nearly perfect as could be conceived.

Col. Roosevelt will now devote his time to writing, including the preparation of addresses he is to deliver in Europe. He will do no more hunting unless the trip down the Nile provides opportunity to get rare specimens.

Fully Grown.

The old lady had a son who intended to emigrate to Canada as soon as possible, and as he was temporarily confined to his room, she had promised to find out as much as she could from the information office.

Accordingly she entered the building the next morning, and was particularly struck by the stuffed head of a Canadian moose that graced one of the walls.

"Young man," she said to the "hipperpotimus?"

"No, ma'am," was the Canadian moose's reply.

The lady took her hands to her eyes.

"What mad!"

"This!"

A falling tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach. Heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—these weak and fatiguing inside nerves. This, no doubt, clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drag the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way.—Sold by All Dealers.
