

Appointments of the Week

With the leafy, flowery month of June when Hyacinth reigns supreme, one very naturally looks for fair skies and bright sunshine, but Phylis, the wicked elf, seems to delight in playing his pranks and truly reigns supreme. The season seems to have changed, since the days when the poet wrote, "What is so rare as a day in June," but after all weather does not affect happy hearts, weddings being now the chief topic, and while clouds and sunning make up the sum of human life, we will wish for the fair young couples a goodly share of the latter. With the exception of a few farewell teas, lunches and showers for the coming brides, one hears of little gaiety, as the majority of our society people have left town for their country residences. Golf and tennis will therefore be the principal attractions and for the lovers of these sports, it is to be hoped we shall soon have more favorable weather.

Mrs. W. Henry Harrison entertained at luncheon on Saturday last for Miss Vera Robinson. Mrs. Harold Robinson entertained on Monday evening at dinner for the Robinson-Harrison wedding party. On Tuesday in Trinity church at high noon the wedding took place of Mr. Arthur Prissick Hazen, manager of the Bank of British North America and Miss Agnes Isabelle Blizard, eldest daughter of Mr. Frederick W. Hazard. Rev. W. A. B. Stewart performed the ceremony. The bridesmaid was Miss Laura Hazen, sister of the groom. Mr. F. R. Taylor was groomsmen. Miss Blizard wore a smart tailored costume of blue Panama cloth, with black braiding and a toque to match, and carried a white prayer book. The bridesmaid was crowned in blue Rajah silk, with a large dove-tailed picture hat, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, and lily of the valley. The only guests were the immediate relations of both parties. Directly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hazen left for a trip to P. E. Island. The bride and groom who are both very popular, received a large number of beautiful gifts. They will live at Duck Cove during the summer.

A fashionable wedding took place on Tuesday at 3.30 o'clock in Trinity church when the rector, Rev. R. A. Armstrong, united in marriage Miss Vera Phillippe Robinson, second daughter of Mrs. J. A. Robinson, to Mr. Joseph Robert Harrison, of Malden, Kent Co., England, accountant in the Canadian Bank of Commerce here. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. J. A. Robinson. Her gown was of white crepe de chene, made en traine, handsomely trimmed with princess lace, and over-armed with tulle and lace caught with orange blossoms. She wore a large veil prettily arranged with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. The chancel was profusely decorated with white lilies and blue.

Miss Molly E. Robinson, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, the bridesmaids Miss Nora Robertson, of Rothesay, and Miss Hodge Robertson, of Rothesay. Their gowns were of pale blue silk collenne, with Dutch yokes of white net, large white chip hats trimmed with pale blue polka dots, forming a large bow at the side, they carried bouquets of white lilies.

The groomsmen was Mr. R. A. Sinclair, of Toronto, Mr. Beverly R. Armstrong, the bride's cousin, and Mr. Jack Davidson, of Rothesay, were the ushers. The bride who is very popular received many beautiful gifts in plate, glass, china, and brass, also some valuable jewelry, as well as several cheques from the groom's relations in England. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond and turquoise ring, and to the ushers pearl scarf pins. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid were gold bar pins set with turquoise. There were a large number of guests. Following the ceremony a reception was held at Mrs. Robinson's residence, Queen Square, where a handsome luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left on the Montreal train for an extended wedding trip. On Thursday at the Golf Club, Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Walter White were the hostesses. Owing to the thunder storm coming on early in the afternoon, there was a very small attendance. A very successful parlor concert was held on Tuesday evening at the residence of R. I. Leavitt, in aid of St. Stephen's church organ fund. Mrs. G. F. Matthew gave a most interesting and instructive talk on Rubenstein. Those who contributed to the musical part were Mr. D. Arnold Fox, Miss Mary Gilbert, Miss Ruth Knight, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Dempster, Mr. Alder and Mr. E. A. Reynolds. Mayor Frink opened the entertainment with a short address. The concert in Centenary school house was a rare musical treat. The beauty and richness of Miss Helene Wetmore's voice was greatly admired. The singing of C. A. Munroe was most impressive, also the great richness and power of Mr. Guy Taylor's voice. The performers were all repeatedly encored. Mrs. J. M. Barnes and D. Arnold Fox played with fine effect the overture to the Ruy Blas. Mr. Fox also played the accompaniments with his usual skill. Miss Wetmore looked charming in a rich costume of white silk duchesse. Miss Genevieve Baird, the talented young St. John actress made her debut this week to a St. John audience and has scored great success. Each evening and at the matinee she delivered large houses with her clever acting. She has a fine stage presence, and musical voice. After each play Miss Baird was the recipient of several handsome bouquets.

Transparent Tunics Are Now in Vogue

Six months since, all the elegancies of style glittered and sparkled, but now the light of fashion is no longer reflected from hard and shining surfaces. Rather, it gleams through thin textures, and transparency is become the feature of every successful mode. From the bows of her hat to the tips of her Greek sandals, the woman of fashion moves in diaphanous array, in layer over layer of filmy chiffon, perforated embroidery, meshed net, and translucent mousseline. Her parasol of figured organdy or silk null, shirred and flounced and puckered. Her hat is of chintilly laced, lined with straw or net; her turban is made of folds and braids of maline, her plumed hat is the thinnest of neapollans.

Her white gown is a gossamer creation of lace and eyelet embroidery; and over it, if she wear the last novelty of the season, is a knee-length tunic of dark chiffon, bound with satin and braided artistically. Her boots have latticed fronts, and her hosery is of lacework or delicate silk tulle. Her veil is chintilly, and it droops in French fashion, straight down from her hat brim. And should she require some extra wrapping she will use a three-cornered shawl of Spanish lace, or the long-beaded net scarf of the harem. And yet all this gauze, and mist, and flimsiness, though ruffled and gathered, are far from producing the cloudy effect usually to be expected from batistes and lawns and silk tissues.

former Moncton boy and son of the late E. Bourque, of this city. The marriage was very brilliant affair, and Mr. Frank Smith, formerly of Moncton, was one of the ushers.
