METHODS TO INCREASE FARM-YIELD IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Could be Raised in This - Tells What Has Been Done to Yield Under Proper Conditions in New Brunswick Farmers.

...the best way to prepare the seed and eradic the weed and the product of the crop. ...of a lack of pluck here.

I think there is in this splendid province a wonderful lack of agricultural pluck, taking in a general sense, there appears to be almost a total absence of the try, try again spirit. A new thing, a new trial, frequently under circumstances doomed to failure, and such inevitable error constitutes the criterion for several successive generations. If some of the progressive New Brunswick farmers would honestly engage in experimenting along the line of alfalfa production, I am thoroughly convinced that in a few years the result would be entirely valuable. I should suggest the planting of alfalfa in different varieties and a careful noting of the experience with some. I would not be going into the matter on a large scale at the beginning, but rather in an intensive way. Of course, the whole matter involves a great deal of patience and abandonment of this senseless, childish thing which craves for immediate results. ...of forty years to produce the kind of alfalfa now being grown in such magnitude in the Dakotas. It took years of patient, earnest work to produce a new and better variety of wheat, or any other grain, and it took some twenty like half a century to produce the sheep which has made Australia famous. I do not think it would take like such extended periods of time to make alfalfa one of the most profitable crops that could be raised here. Experiment has shown that almost anything may become climaxed, in almost any part of the world. For instance, tons of alfalfa come from Ohio, and the growing statement is now fully emphasized by the fact that the corn belt is moving northward each year.

MR. HAZEN SELLS OUT LANDS IN SACKVILLE

...At Sackville on Saturday, Hon. J. D. Hazen severed his territorial affiliations with the southern part of the parish of Sackville by selling at auction four pieces of land at Woodpoint—which originally belonged to the Botsford estate. The first piece, containing forty acres of woodland, was knocked down to Henry C. Read for $610. John Johnson bought the next one, forty-five acres of English marsh, for $2,015, and Seward Johnson, the next, nine and a half acres of English marsh, for $1,000. A new barn, for $1,020. The last lot, sixteen and a half acres of broad leaved, went to Clarence Barnes for $555. Mr. Hazen himself, who still holds a piece of marsh at the other end of the parish, was present at the sale.

COST OF LIVING IN CANADA; COMPREHENSIVE REPORT ISSUED BY DEPARTMENT AT OTTAWA

...Ottawa, July 19—The department of labor has issued a comprehensive and illuminative report of 500 pages summarizing the results of the investigation conducted by officials of the department into the cost of living in Canada during the last year. The report deals particularly with the course of wholesale prices, traces the upward trend, notes the fluctuations in wages and accounts in some measure for present conditions. The report recounts the marked rise in the cost of living during the last few years and its effect on the purchasing power and well-being of every wage-earner or those dependent on fixed incomes. Elaborate statements are given showing the fluctuations in average wholesale prices of some 220 commodities entering into the cost of living. The general result is given in tabular form. From 1890 to 1897 prices in Canada followed a downward trend. This was succeeded by a sharp rise in the decade by a more rapid upward movement which culminated in 1907. Prices in the last mentioned year were, by a considerable margin, the highest in the twenty-year period. Prices fell in 1908, but were upward again last year and this year.

FIGURES THAT TELL STORIES

...EXPORTS TO ORIENT AND OCCIDENT. CHARLES DICKENS once said that the Lord must love the common people or He would not have made so many of us. If this logic be true, the Lord should be especially favored as Asia contains over half the world's population. A study of Canada's export figures shows, as illustrated, that we are devoting our commercial energies chiefly to the smaller part of the world. In the fiscal year, 1909, 37% of our exports to Hong Kong goods to the value of $1,035,828; to China $1,035,828; to Korea, $15,857; to Japan, $736,111; to Siam, $63; to British East Indies, $329,471; to Danish East Indies, $7,143. The story is told of an American miller who sent an agent to China to open a trade in flour. The agent soon wrote back that it was useless to continue the agency, as the Chinese were so well satisfied with rice that they did not seem to care to change. The miller instructed his agent to stay on the job, and to hire bakers, make all the pastry products possible, and teach the Chinese to use flour. Some years later a friend, who knew of the beginning of the enterprise, asked the miller how his China trade was developing. The reply was: "Last year, my profits on flour shipped to China were $300,000." This pioneer has laid the foundation of a flour trade in China. Why cannot Canadian products be introduced to the Orient by similar methods?

If this logic be true, the Lord should be especially favored as Asia contains over half the world's population. A study of Canada's export figures shows, as illustrated, that we are devoting our commercial energies chiefly to the smaller part of the world. In the fiscal year, 1909, 37% of our exports to Hong Kong goods to the value of $1,035,828; to China $1,035,828; to Korea, $15,857; to Japan, $736,111; to Siam, $63; to British East Indies, $329,471; to Danish East Indies, $7,143. The story is told of an American miller who sent an agent to China to open a trade in flour. The agent soon wrote back that it was useless to continue the agency, as the Chinese were so well satisfied with rice that they did not seem to care to change. The miller instructed his agent to stay on the job, and to hire bakers, make all the pastry products possible, and teach the Chinese to use flour. Some years later a friend, who knew of the beginning of the enterprise, asked the miller how his China trade was developing. The reply was: "Last year, my profits on flour shipped to China were $300,000." This pioneer has laid the foundation of a flour trade in China. Why cannot Canadian products be introduced to the Orient by similar methods?

MR. HAZEN SELLS OUT LANDS IN SACKVILLE

...At Sackville on Saturday, Hon. J. D. Hazen severed his territorial affiliations with the southern part of the parish of Sackville by selling at auction four pieces of land at Woodpoint—which originally belonged to the Botsford estate. The first piece, containing forty acres of woodland, was knocked down to Henry C. Read for $610. John Johnson bought the next one, forty-five acres of English marsh, for $2,015, and Seward Johnson, the next, nine and a half acres of English marsh, for $1,000. A new barn, for $1,020. The last lot, sixteen and a half acres of broad leaved, went to Clarence Barnes for $555. Mr. Hazen himself, who still holds a piece of marsh at the other end of the parish, was present at the sale.

COST OF LIVING IN CANADA; COMPREHENSIVE REPORT ISSUED BY DEPARTMENT AT OTTAWA

...Ottawa, July 19—The department of labor has issued a comprehensive and illuminative report of 500 pages summarizing the results of the investigation conducted by officials of the department into the cost of living in Canada during the last year. The report deals particularly with the course of wholesale prices, traces the upward trend, notes the fluctuations in wages and accounts in some measure for present conditions. The report recounts the marked rise in the cost of living during the last few years and its effect on the purchasing power and well-being of every wage-earner or those dependent on fixed incomes. Elaborate statements are given showing the fluctuations
