MOUNTIE BENEFIT APPRECIATED

Dear Editor,

I am a student in the "Summer Enrichment '84" program with the MS [multiple sclerosis] Society. There are three of us, students, doing odd jobs, conducting outings, and special favors for MS persons. The following letter was dictated to me by a handicapped woman who wanted very much to express the joy she felt after seeing the performance of "Sounds and Saddles" in Ottawa, May 1983.

Sincerely,
Roxanne M. Curcio

Dear Editor,

Not only do the RCMP do a lot of excellent police work all across the country, but they are also multi-talented, as anyone who has seen the Musical Ride can attest to. In addition, the bands, under the direction of Mr. Ken Moore, and the assistance of Gary Morton and Garth Hampson, take part in many activities. Their hearts are in the right place, as the benefit show for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario, "Sounds and Saddles," confirmed.

This production was very well done. There was a scene from "Star Wars," a version of the song "Fame," dancing to "Rainbow Connection" and a song from Annie called "Tomorrow." The Musical Ride was also presented, as well as an exhibition of the RCMP police dogs.

I feel we are extremely fortunate being able to listen to such singers as S/Sgt. Garth Hampson and to see anything as lovely as the production of "Sounds and Saddles."

Sincerely,
Margaret Milks

To Top It All Off

Top hats are returning as an item of fashionable male clothing. The first top hat, however, resulted in its inventor being fined in court.

On January 5, 1797, Mr. James Heatherington donned his new invention and drove his carriage through London. The sight caused a near riot—ladies fainted, a huge crowd gathered, a boy received a broken arm and the peculiar hat caused a sensation.

Mr. Heatherington was arrested for causing a breach of the peace by "appearing on a public highway wearing upon his head a tall structure having a shining lustre and calculated to frighten timid people."

He was fined £50, a huge sum in 1797.
