

A Short Chat on the Leading Colors

The time has passed when one color was just as fashionable as another. This season it is not a weave in the different colors, but one color in the different weaves. Now-a-days one, two or three colors set the "pace," the other colors are either out of the "race for popularity" or following far behind.

Here's the order they take this season, and few of the weaves in each.

Browns

IMPRESSIVE LAST RITES

At the Funeral Service of the Late Ex-Ald Peter Rutherford.

Obsequies were conducted in the Oddfellows Auditorium in Charge of the Order.

The remains of the late Peter Rutherford, member of Chatham Encampment No. 10, I. O. O. F., and Western City Lodge, No. 93, were taken to Winchester, near Ottawa, yesterday, where interment will take place in the old family burying ground. His brother, James Rutherford, and son Glen, of Blenheim, accompanied the remains. The funeral arrangements were all in charge of the I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member.

Service was held in the I. O. O. F. Auditorium at two o'clock yesterday afternoon in the presence of the assembled lodges and of the friends.

A choir, composed of members of the William Street Baptist, First Presbyterian and St. Andrew's churches, rendered the music. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Speller, of Sarnia, who happened to have exchanged pulpits with the Rev. J. J. Ross. Mr. Speller was also a class mate at Woodstock of the late Mr. Rutherford. The Sarnia clergyman read the following passage from Corinthians:

"Now this I say that flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God. Behold I show you a mystery. We shall not all sleep but we shall all be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump. For the trumpet shall sound and the dead shall be raised."

The Rev. Mr. Speller returned to the unknown future of the dead and said that he, who could take the bulb of a life and transform it into a beautiful plant, would not stop when man, the acme of his creative power, is sinking back to dust. Even if we can't see his work, let us trust Him and may this comfort those who are suffering this afternoon. Let us trust Him and we may be sure that all will come out right."

The assemblage of those paying their last respects to a departed citizen, opened the service by singing "Nearer My God to Thee," and as a last tribute all sang "Rock of Ages" and fled solemnly from the hall. As they did so each one took a last look at the face of one who had been known so well but whose eyelids were now closed in death.

The casket, containing all that was mortal of the late Peter Rutherford, was then removed to the C. P. R. station and placed on the east bound express. The lodge and the friends followed the remains to the station. The mourners were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Stevens, Judge Houston, Ald. Scane and Ira Burke.

The pall-bearers were John M. Park, Sam. McCormick, Richard Towl, John Taylor, Wm. Potter and W. H. Moore.

The honorary pall-bearers were Isaac Smith, Hugh Garrett, W. Wing, Archie McCormick, James Holmes and John Turner.

The obsequies will be in charge of the I. O. O. F. Lodge at Winchester.

THANKSGIVING.

For all the joys which we in common share.

Thine outward favors, seen by every eye;

For help divine, our human pains to bear.

We raise our chorused praise to thee, on high.

But for the hidden secrets of Thy love.

Thy whispered messages within the heart.

The furling of us to Thy life above—

For these, each soul must render thanks apart.

GOOD SUGGESTION.

Editor Planet.—Would it not be a good idea if you published a list of the factories now in operation or likely to be in working order in a short time, giving the annual output, the number of employees, etc. etc. You will be surprised at the number and size of the industries now in the city. My idea for publishing such a list is this: Factories like to centralize, and if it were known that Chatham is no mean manufacturing centre, it may induce other industries to locate here. If you see fit to publish such a list do not forget that in the very near future Chatham will have a mineral bath house that will be up-to-date in every respect, and an institution that will bring into the city annually thousands of dollars, increase the value of property, and do good to suffering humanity.

Yours truly,

T. A. SMITH.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

A CURE FOR IT.

Not a Patent Cure All, Nor a Modern Miracle But Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception, the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their remedies will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They may make but one claim for it and that is, that for indigestion and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a radical cure. They go no farther than this, and any man or woman afflicted with indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial will find that nothing is claimed for it, that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medicinal properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It treats the overworked organ and refreshes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessing which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome foods and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting and resting the stomach which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will no longer be required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply indigestion in which some portion or portions of the nervous system, are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ of the body.

All druggists will tell you Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give universal satisfaction.

Chance may make a reputation, but not preserve it.

Deafness cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; hence cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

GOLD MINES OF COLORADO

Dr. Rollin Stevens Tells of his Trip Through This Country.

He Writes his Father a Letter Concerning the Removal of the Precious Metal From the Earth.

N. H. Stevens, president of the Canada Flour Mills, has received a most interesting letter from his son, Dr. R. Stevens, who has been travelling in Denver. Through his kindness The Planet is enabled to publish the following from its contents:

I left here on the first for Denver, where I met Major Mathersill, a life-long friend of Judge Moore and a former partner of Gen. Alger in the stock business in New Mexico, where the Major resided for several years managing the immense stock farms. Later, for two years, he was Commissioner General in Cuba for the U. S. He has been connected with the Big Five Mining, Tunnel and Ore Reduction Co. for five years, and for the last three years or so has given his entire time to it, being an active director and manager. I had correspondence with him with the intention of securing information relative to the mine I was interested in, and had finally wired him while he was on a return trip through Old Mexico, where he had been with an expert to buy some mines for the Big Five. He wired me to meet him in Denver on the 3rd, and I was on my way within two hours. I found my expert, whom he had recommended as being quite reliable, would be unable to go to New Mexico at once, so, as the Major was about to make a tour of the various mines of the Big Five, I asked the privilege of accompanying him and was cordially welcomed.

We went first to the mines at Frances, north of Denver, about 55 miles up in the mountains and at an elevation of 9,500 feet over some of the finest scenery I have seen anywhere.

At Frances and Ward the Big Five own six large mining properties, which are mostly old, well known, well developed, wealthy mines, and which have been developed to several hundred feet, the cost of operating in the old way by pumping out water and hoisting ore has become too expensive.

The Big Five have built a tunnel which, with its branches, is more than three miles long, at a depth of from about 1,000 to 1,500 feet. The water now runs out in a big stream through the bottom of this tunnel, while the ore and waste is thrown from chutes into ore cars in the tunnel and run out to the mill at the mouth of the tunnel, or to the cars at the same place, to be taken to the smelter at Denver. Thus a very large expense is saved.

The veins of ore they find get larger the deeper they go. They now work them from the tunnel up, and let gravity do what before required expensive hoisting and pumping apparatus. I went through all the tunnels and climbed into nearly every slope, where they follow the vein above the tunnel. I saw thousands of tons of rich gold ore running from $8 or $10 to $300 or more per ton. We spent two days at the mines and I had a splendid opportunity to learn something about mines and mining.

For the Major was very kind to me, explaining everything carefully and taking me with him everywhere while making his trip to see the condition everything was in. I knocked out several samples of ore from the deepest workings and brought them with me.

Then we went to Idaho Springs, where the Big Five is engaged in much larger undertakings. In this region Clear Creek and Gilpin Counties are the richest mines in the country and there is more mineral than perhaps in any other region in the world. These properties are 37 miles west of Denver, in a region noted as one of the most scenic in America.

Idaho Springs is a town of 4,500, situated on Clear Creek at an elevation of about 9,000 feet. The mountains about are honeycombed with mines and prospects. Many of them have been wonderful producers, having yielded from $400,000 to three or four millions of dollars each. The mining region extends east and west about 35 miles and north and south 10 or 12 miles, and there seems to be no limit to the ore. In this region is the famous Gem Vein, on which are located several very wealthy mines. This vein is 30 or 40 feet wide in places, and where it was cut by the great Newhouse tunnel, at a depth of about 2,000 feet, 19 feet of solid, rich ore was found. The Newhouse tunnel goes through the eastern portion of the mining district. It is now in the mountains and it has taken six years to dig it this far. The Major and I enjoyed the rare opportunity of going to the breast of the tunnel to see the men working. The "breast" is the river end of the tunnel, so we were two and a half miles through the mountains and nearly half a mile below the surface. They use air-compressor drills for boring the holes in the hard granite in which they pack an explosive composed principally of such apparently harmless substances as gelatine and Fuller's earth. The drills are 12 feet long and about an inch in diameter. Three of these drills were at work in the breast when we arrived. The roar made by these drills made my ear-drums vibrate and

Men's Heavy Ulsters

An ulster is the most comprehensive kind of top coat. Its first business is to protect the wearer and his clothing from the weather, but it can also be made as becoming and effective as any garment in the wardrobe.

While any stout warm material is suitable for ulsters we give the preference to frieze. Its tough, compact texture is more nearly impervious to wind and rain than any other fabric of equal weight, and nothing will stand hard usage better.

You can choose here from a splendid collection of frieze ulsters—big, heavy husky garments that will keep a man snug through a twenty mile drive in zero weather. Woolen linings, high storm collar with tab fastening, correct boxy cut.

Choice of black, dark brown and oxford gray,—every thread wool, whatever the price.

pain quite severely. The miners are obliged to keep their ears stuffed with cotton all the while they are at work. The tunnel is about 8x9 1/2 feet and has a double steel track for ore cars. When completed it will be about four and a half or five miles long, and will tap a very rich mining section. They did not reach any mining property until they were in about two miles, when they struck the Gem Vein at a depth of 2,000 feet. Larger than ever. They are now taking ore from the mine on this vein and from the Bertha mine out through the tunnel, while the water runs out and is used outside for power to operate the bellows in the machine shop. Thus the item is converted from an expense into a power producer. At Idaho Springs the Big Five are operating the Edgar, Union and Miami mines of mines through the Wilcox tunnel at a depth of 750 feet. About a mile and a half west of the Newhouse tunnel the Big Five are driving two great tunnels, which will cut the veins of the richest mining section in the world at a depth of 2,000 feet to 2,400 feet. The Central tunnel, completed, will be about five miles long. The Newhouse tunnel is owned by an English syndicate and is quoted on the London market at $9 per share. It cost $300,000 to build it as far as it is and it is valued in London at $900,000.

The Central tunnel goes through the centre of this rich mining district, while the Newhouse goes over through the eastern edge. The Gem Vein has been sharp enough to buy all the mining property they could get hold of in the region of their tunnel and to within 1,500 feet of the Newhouse tunnel, so they will control the greater part of the territory. Many of these old mines have been in litigation for years, or they have been worked to such a depth that it has become too expensive to operate them because of the hoisting and pumping. The acid in the water, too, eats the pipes and valves of the pumping machine so that in many cases they have been obliged to renew their pumps nearly every season. The Gem Vein, however, the Big Five consequently bought their property at a bargain, and now, with improved methods in mining they will convert these old, practically worked out mines into valuable mines to great ore they have found extending to great depths and is in greater quantity, so it is a sure commercial proposition to mine it. They know what they have and what it will cost to get it out, and that it would cost infinitely less than in the old way of mining.

The Big Five Tunnel and Ore Reduction and Refining Co. owns all the tunnels of the Big Five mining Companies—Addit and Nevot at Frances; the Sun, Central, developed 600 feet; the Georgetown, about 300 feet; the Wilcox, about 1-2 mile; the San Juan, in San Juan county, S. W. Colorado; also a large mill at Frances, and proposed a large mill and smelter at Idaho Springs. This company is a close corporation composed only of owners of Big Five mining stock. All the Big Five mines are independent companies, but they co-operate together under one management to build these mills and smelters and tunnels. Each mine turns in the proceeds of so much of its stock to the Tunnel Co., so that stockholders in the mines are indirectly stockholders in the Tunnel Co. No one can buy $1,000 personal stock in the Tunnel Co. until he owns $10,000 stock in some of the Big Five mines. The Tunnel Co. not only develops its own mines, but hundreds of other mines, whose owners are anxious for the tunnel because of the decreased expense to them of operating. They drain out their water through the chutes to the tunnel. The Big Five is now operating the Bellman Mining Co. to be composed of a number of wealthy mines developed several hundred feet each, and with records of output of hundreds of thousands of dollars, all on the famous Gem Vein, which showed 19 feet of solid ore where Newhouse tunnel cut it at 2,000 feet. This company will be capitalized at $5,000,000 and will be sold at 25c. to organize next month. Clubs of 25,000 shares get 1,000 shares at $5 per share for 50 months. Each club has the privilege of sending representatives to the Board of Directors of the Big Five before Sept. 15, 1902, and if they go before July, 1902 and are not satisfied with investment the money will be returned with six per cent interest; 100,000 shares guarantee a director. I presented the matter to our syndicate here last night and they talk of taking about 500,000 shares, so pleased are they with my report.

I investigated thoroughly the property in New Mexico, but found it to be purely and simply a salted mine to bait eastern capital. I took samples all through the property, as did also my expert, and it only showed the slightest trace of gold—80 cents per ton—and the samples I sent were the best of it.

Your affectionate son,
ROLLIN.
