MPORTANT AMENDMENTS TO INSURANCE ACT ASKED

Under Special Conditions, Without Con Standard Hail Policy Proposed.

katoon, Sask., February 26.- Some important sassacon, containing the important aures of the proposed amendments to the Saskat-ewan Insurance Act, which affect companies that have offices here were outlined at a meeting of the life Underwriters by Mr. A. E. Fisher, Superinten-set of Insurance for the Province. He dwelt par-icularly on the legislative side of life insurance. "Amendments are being prepared," he said, "which will relate to life insurance and are being prepared w to order that I may talk the matter over with life underwriters and collaborate with them and the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association. These last are the people who are brought closest in touch with the insuring public, while the life officers are se who are closest in touch with the officers in days this week. the head office, who of necessity must settle claims. For the most part the new legislation will deal with the settlement of claims and the rights of beneficiariss under the policy. An example of this was cited in nection with a man from the East coming West and having an insurance policy in favor of his mother. Should he get married in the West, under the present law he could not make his wife a beneficiary without his mother's consent. The amendments will make it possible for the man to change the beneficiary without his mother's consent.

In the proposed amendments provision is made for month's grace in the payment of premium. Other points were discussed, such as including the date of registration, which is an important factor, also the terday. proof of payment of the premium within an appointed time. Cases where death is presumed, as in the case of a man killed in battle, were thoroughly discussed in the light of the new amendments. Other atters dealt with were errors in the statement of age, the insurance of children, and the limitations on the amount of insurance to be permitted.

Mr. Fisher also addressed the hail underwriters, phur Springs, Virginia. placing before them the draft of the new standard hail policy, which it is proposed to place before the Legislature at the next session. There was a genexpressed of all the clauses, except two to which erland and J. W. Percival.

WANTS STATEMENT FILED IN REALTY LIQUIDATION.

The petition of Mr. George Ball, in the action of Bellevue Land Co. Mr. Justice Beaudin yesterday. The petitioner, re presented by Messrs. Cook and Magee, asks that the liquidator be ordered to file a full statement of the ompany's accounts; that the shareholders and credi-ors be given an opportunity to contest the same; and that, within such delay as may be fixed by the court, the liquidator be ordered to distribute amongst the shareholders the money to which they are entitled. The company was incorporated on June 26th, 1907, with a capital of $500,000. On July 31st, 1912, a liquidator was appointed. The court subsequently granted permission to the liquidator to distribute the sum or $130,497 between the shareholders, but it is claimed that $7,500.50 remains to be distributed. His Lordship took the petition en delibre:

special message to the Legislature yesterday afternoon rice grower in California will be realized. urging canal abandonment along entirely new lines.

In justification of a plan which seems less advantageous to the Lehigh Valley Railroad, lessee of the with advantage to the soil. Another favorable factor canal, than any thus far proposed, the Governor pointed out that the State has never urged an abandon-rom Los Angeles to New York, or only 2 cents more ment bill, but that all such suggestions have emanated a hundred than it costs to ship from New Orleans, from the railroad or have been introduced because the railroad was urging other bills to relieve it from the heavy burden of maintaining the canal.

The plans suggested by the Governor in brief was and ranches. that the canal company and the Lehigh Valley should turn over to a department of conservation and development, when constituted, all property belonging the canal company, including water rights, and that the canal as such be abandoned.

In consideration of the State's permitting the abandonment and waiving its right to take the property in 1974, and relieving the railroad from its annual maintainance and other charges, the Governor proposes that the road shall pay to the State $500,000 and that the State shall retain all water rights as its own pro-He recommended that all remaining property
