in carriages, also in carriages the Rev. Fathers Ryckaest, of Mt. Clemens, Williams and McCune, of Chatham, and Ryan, of Wallaceburg. March was taken to the Young Men's Bociety's hall, where dinner was awaiting. As the hall was entered a bery of young girls sang a song of welcome, led by Miss Kata Roskopp, at the plano. A neat address of welcome by President McClellan, of the Mt. Clemens Branch, was responded to by the Rev. Father Williams, who incidentally stated at the close of his remarks that the Chathamites had brought along their appetites. This was a signal for assault all along the lines and a destructive strife was waged upon a splendid lay-out of edibles. After dinner Mejor Riley, of Chatham, a veteran of the Mexican war, ang "The Star-Spangled Rannar," which was followed by brief addresses by Fathers McCune and Ryan. Then the visitors were escorted to the hall of the Mt. Clemens Branch, where an hour was devoted to rest and friendly mingling. The Chathamites viewed the city and then boarded their steamer for the trip homeward. They had a great time.

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

Dublin.

In Dublin the Orange celebration, on July 13, was simply a wretched affair. Of the males present, not one in a hundred displayed the proportions of an ordinary man. After much pondering, it is still a wonder to us how so many persons of the Tom Thumb species could be got together in the Round Room of the Rotundo. The great majority of them seemed to have suffered badly from rickets in their early days, or to have been stunted by imbibing bigotry when too young, just as the growth of professional jockeys is stopped in their boyhood by gin.

A crowded meeting of Dublin citizens met, on July 17, with the Lord Mayor in the chair, to congratulate Mr. Davitt upon the expiration of his ticket of-leave. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed throughout the proceedings, which gained a special interest from the presence of Mr. Leander Richardson, of Boston, an American journalist, who has taken a prominent part in advocating the Irish cause in the United States. He delivered a sirring address, crisp and elequent, and charged with a plainness of language which distinguishes Transatlantis utterances. He joined with the other speakers in paying a warm and well-won tribute to Mr. Davitt.

Louth.

A brickyard, with all the modern appliances for the manufacture of substitutes for stone, has been established in the Dundalk Demesne, near Farrendreg, and about 20 men are employed. It is rumored that it is the intention of the proprietor, or proprietors, to also establish a pipe manufactory, as the clay in that locality is deemed to be eminently suited for the manufacture of Irish calumets.

be wiped out, and that a reduction of 25 per cent. abatel be granted on the future rents. The judge effered 20 per cent. abatement on the presentrent, and 20 per cent. on the arrears. These terms the tenants rejected, and they resolved to pay no rents until their own terms were accepted. Judge Ormsby, therefore, has now sither to fight or give way; and if he should decide on fighting he must do so with the knowledge that he will have no Coercion Act at his back to help him.

In response to the appeal of the Kilballyowen Branch of the National League, about three thousand people attended at Lahey West, near Carrigaholt, on July 13, to erect a house for the evicted tenant, Pat Lynch, who was recently acquitted on a charge under the Crimes Act. All the various branches throughout Clare were represented from Militown to Kilrush and Lissycasey to Loophead. There were about 700 horses and cars bringing materials, some from a distance of twenty miles and more. The work was commenced at eight o'clock in the morning, and a house measuring fourteen feet by eighteen was completed at seven o'clock in the evening, thatched and well secured, and twenty cars of turf put into it for the evicted tenant. Fathers Vaughan and O'Donohue, parish priests, attended the scene throughout. At the conclusion, chears were given for Parnell, the National League, and the independence of Ireland. Lynch owed £30, or two and a half year's rent; of this amount he had tendered to the landlord, Mr. Hickman of Newmarket on Fergus, through his agent, Mr. Morice, of Bunratty, one year's rent on November last; that would not be accepted without the full pound of flesh. Lynch being a prominent member of the National League his doom was scaled, and the eviction carried out.

On July 16, at Clonmel, Justice Johnson opened the assizes, and, in his charge to the grand jury, said that, as far as the criminal business was concerned, the number of cases was only eight, and there was nothing in any of them which called for special remark.

A farmer named Barrett, while returning home, near Tralee, about midnight, on July 11, was attacked by two soldiers belonging to the East Yorkshire Regiment, stationed at Tralee, and was so savagely kicked and beaten that he now lies in the infirmary in a dying state. The soldiers were arrested by the barrack guard, who heard the disturbance. Barrett's depositions have been taken, and his assailants handed over to the civil authorities. Antrim.

Longford.

Laurence Dinnigan, ex-Poor Law Guardian, of the Longford Union, and an ex-Suspect, was arrested on July 15, on a charge of rescue, intimidation, and presenting a gun, threatening to shoot one Pat Curran, a bailiff, if he persisted in taking away a horse and cows seized by him under a civil bill decree at the suit of Mr. Farrell, merchant, Longford.

Drew, when Rector of Youghal, was recently removed from its place and part of the wall, on which it was lying was broken away. These guns are of a very old date, and an inscription over them states that they once made the French scamper away from Youghal.

Mr. J. O'Donnell, Kildimo, died on July 11, at the age of 75 years, much esteemed and respected through life. The deceased was interred in the family vault in the ancient abbey of Askeaton, being accompanied to the tomb by a long line of sympathising friends, including some of the city clergy, as well as those of Kildimo, Pallaskenry, and Askeaton. Deceased was father of Mr. Bryan O'Donnell, William street, Limerick.

One of the best known of the public men of Limerick in the person of Dr. Jonathan Elmes, the favorite of the poor, humane and indefatigable, has just paid the debt which all mortals must discharge one day or other. The popular doctor, after a short illness, died at his residence, Thomas street, deeply and sincerely regretted by every one, particularly by the poor to whom he was constantly bountiful.

Branch 20, headed by the band, marched to the Avery's dock and mat their

before the court and summoned him as a trespesser, that, by this means, they might thwart and route him from his home; they even thought to send him to jail for endeavoring to live on the land which he has occupied for years. They have ploughed up Grealy's crops, they have repeatedly broken his furniture, and, at one time, one of the Saint Georges assaulted the old man, Grealy, and broke his arm. Yet notwithstanding all that, the old man has kept possession of the land; he has stuck to it through thick and thin, house-less and homeless, as he has often been, and often obliged even to rest at night unprotected from cold on that very land for which he is so manfully fighting. Three times his house has been tumbled over his head, once, legally, by the sheriff and his gang; twice by the Saint Georges, and their caubeen man, without producing any legal authority.

Maye.

The sasizes for the county of Mayo were opened, on July 15, by Chief Justice May and Chief Justice Morris. Chief Justice May presided in the Crown Court, and in his address to the Grand Jury said that he could congratulate them very heartily on the condition of their county. There were only nine cases in all to go before them, and of these none were of an agrarian or exceptional character calling for any comment or suggestion from him. King's County.

for any comment or suggestion from himKing's County.

The Midland Tribune is making charges against the King's County grand jurors, and, as they appear to be incontestably true, an inquiry into the conduct of the grandees is urgently demanded. First, the Tribune impeaches them with the offence of awarding £100 compensation to one Patrick Dempsey, who claimed only £60 for the burning of a hay-rick. Secondly, it impeaches the grandees on the ground that they awarded William Horan £207 for a burnt house, which was valued by Mr. Green, a qualified architect, at £38 odd. Thirdly, it impeaches the grandees on the ground that they awarded John Gath, of Frankford, £10 for the injury done to a sign-board, which the Road sessions jury valued at no more than £4 10a. Fourthly, they are charged with squandering the public money in subsidies to the King's County Chronicle for advertisements, which are paid for af an exorbitant rate. These are only a few of the grave indictments which the Tribune, with praiseworthy pluck, is laying before its readers. The journal gives dates and particulars for every accusation made against that body, who are brezenly feeding and fattening their Orange chums at the expense of the ratepayers. The Tribune has made out an irresiatible case for inquiry, which, if fairly conducted, should result in putting the King's County Grand Jury in the dock.
