

'A Small Boy's Victory.

He was such a little fellow that when he wanted to see the basket of fine, ripe pears which mamma had left on the table, he had to bring his little stool and climb upon it to reach high enough.

Oh, my! how nice they did look! And what a delicious smell! They must taste very good, how could he help just taking one?

Surely it would not be missed, the basket was so full. And nobody was by to see if he did it, so what was to hinder?

For a moment Teddy almost put his hand upon the nicest one in the lot. But I am glad to say the little hand was drawn away and the bright-eyed little man said firmly, "No, I won't! Mamma told me not to touch them, and I won't do it. I promised her I wouldn't, and if I do, it would be telling a story. No, Mister Pear, you must stay right there in the basket, and I'll run away for fear I might do it if I looked too long."

There is nothing on the earth so beautiful as the household in which Christian love for ever smiles, and religion walks, a counsellor and a friend. No storms can make it tremble, for it has a heavenly anchor. The home circle surrounded by such influences, has an antepast of the joys of a heavenly home.

No other autobiography, certainly not that of St. Augustine, its nearest prototype in literature, is so intensely theological as that of John Henry Cardinal Newman. It is not the life of a man we read, it is the drama of a soul, and of a soul entirely occupied with the relations of itself to God.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water and milk. Sold only in packets by grocers, labelled thus:—JAMES EPPS & CO., Homeopathic Chemists London, England.
