The Red Cross Society have been very busy the past few weeks get-ting parcels ready to send to our boys at the front. Some 186 Christmas parcels were sent, consisting of hand-knit socks, 1 bath towel, 1 cake soap, camphor bag, candy, wash cloth, a briar pipe and a package of old chum. The society regret that more names were no sent in, as they were aiming to re-member every soldier who had gone from here. If those who had not send in names will kindly do so,

Complaints Of Non-Delivery

Under ordinary circumstances the distribution of a Daily Newspaper is a big task, even with an organization trained for the purpose. When great numbers of new subscribers come all together, the difficulties become greater. The rush during the Great Prize Contest now on is an illustration.

At this time it will probably be impossible to avoid all mishaps and mistakes, although every precaution will be taken by the publishers to ensure the delivery of each number of the paper.

The publishers are determined not only to remedy any such mishaps and mistakes, and to reduce them to the lowest degree, but to spare no trouble or expense to prevent them in future.

With this end in view the publishers request subscribers to communicate every complaint regarding late or non-deliveries by letter, card or Phone 139.
