NEWS OF NORFOLK
Rumors of Impending Liquor Cases In Simcoe and Elsewhere

Write Simcoe Agency Box 311 or phone 356-3 all matters regarding delivery or subscriptions; News items or advertisements.

(From Our Own Correspondent) Simcoe, July 18.—There is trouble brewing at Port Rowan and vague rumors about Simcoe. It may develop upon the magistrate to determine how many gallons of Scotch per capita a family can use, for the amount alleged to have been coming into Simcoe to some few families is said to suggest in quantity, so it touches the spot.

Inspector Edmonds has piled up already in fines considerable in excess of his summer salary. But in outward appearances Simcoe has practically no booze, and the goal only an occasional carter.

Wm. Plaught, who claims to have been working at the Brantford Y.M.C.A. was picked up on Norfolk Street late Monday afternoon, spent the night in the "cooler" and appeared yesterday morning charged with being intoxicated in a public place. He was given a week's reformation and will be a sole guest at the castle during that time. Meantime, he will endeavor to tell where he got the booze. He is registered as a cook, aged 53, from Baden, Waterloo.

A young fellow from down Port Rowan way, had recently completed a ten-day term for petty theft.

Odd Ends of News
 Rain both morning and evening yesterday spoiled many strawberries here.

A car load bought up at Waterloo on Monday was shipped to Detroit. The purchaser paid 12 cents a box at Waterloo. Prices are up locally as the season closes.

Gooseberries have been on the market for a few days, and raspberries will follow a day of good sunshine.

The committee appointed to have plans and specifications for the remodeling of the market into a fire hall, and to advertise for tenders, and the time limit was up on Monday at noon. Up to five o'clock yesterday afternoon the tenders had not been opened. There may be a special meeting of the council to deal with the matter.

Contractor R. E. Gunton is still hoping daily for a load of brick for the school, the latest was that, like Gipsy's hat and wig, the brick is "upon the way."

Encampment installation at the I. O. O. F. hall was held on Monday evening.

It is rumored that the bowling green of the Country Club will be opened to-morrow.

Weather permitting, the Anglican S. S. picnic will be held at Port Dover to-morrow afternoon.

Emergency Arrangements
 Arrangements are being made for subscribers to receive the Courier when through delay it does not reach town in time for delivery by the boys. Papers will be taken to Turner's store, or Sebring's, North ward, Miss Thompson's, West ward, Miss Berry's, Stanley St. and possibly Mrs. Thomson, Cedar Street. Extra copies may always be procured at Jackson's drug store. Thursday's S. S. picnic may delay part of tomorrow's delivery. If so, the papers will be left at Miss Thompson's store for those who wish to call. All such will please leave street number.

Good Night Stories

THE THREE FRIENDS.
 Toby was a Shetland pony with a beautiful long white taily. He had been stolen from his little mistress and taken to live with a band of gypsies.

His only friend in the camp was a big yellow dog, Towser. Their mistress was very mean to them both and Towser wanted to bite him for beating Toby, but Toby warned him that would be wrong.

Toby waited his chance and one evening when his master was sound asleep he decided to run away.

"I'm sure I can find my way home," said Toby and Towser, who was very unhappy, decided to go with him.

When morning came they were many miles from the gypsy camp. Toby stopped to taste the green grass that grew by the roadside. A boy poked his head from the bushes and said, "You're a beauty!"

Towser wagged his tail to show Toby the boy could be trusted. The boy patted Towser's head and said, "You're a beauty!"

"You see I'm running away from a very mean master, and I didn't want to bark food," explained the boy.

Toby whinnied, Towser barked and the boy laughed. It seemed funny that three runaways should happen to meet this way, so they agreed to go together.

Toby invited the boy to ride on his back, so they could go faster. When the sun grew hot they found a shady nook and sat down to rest. Toby whinnied, he was hungry. Towser barked that he was starved.

SOME TALES FROM OLD LONDON TOWN

Everywhere Are Glimpses Of Pathos and Dreams Of War

Office boys, typists, busy men hustled around her with their various demands as she stood at the post office counter waiting her turn.

"When do you think I shall get a reply? To-day?" she asked anxiously of the clerk, as she handed over her telegram.

"Can't say," he answered slowly, as he counted the words. "Maybe 24 hours, maybe by longer. Reply paid, isn't it?"

He was holding the wire so that an onlooker might read the reading. The form was addressed to a base hospital in France.

"Wire nature of illness or wounds," it ran.

One of Many
 The lips of the elderly woman were drawn together tightly as she passed out of the office into the thronging crowds and the noisy hum of the Strand.

For a moment she stood very far away from the office, and then she crossed the road. But here she found her progress barred by women who threw roses and flowers at her.

"Aren't they wonderful. Doesn't it make you feel proud?" cried a girl, with tears in her eyes, as she threw a carnation to a man whose one eye gleamed gladly enough for two from his bandaged head.

MET DEATH WHILE

 died as ever donned the King's uniform.

Mott was a veteran of the Boer war, a steady rifle shot, and an expert on Morse and Semaphore signalling, etc. He was for many years a member of the Dufferin Rifles, a regiment by the way, often sneered at in those times, but whose members sleeping by the hundred died in the bloodstained fields of France and Flanders. Some years ago he won the Dufferin medal, and was always an active and enthusiastic worker for "A" Co. of the 38th. A strict disciplinarian, yet he always had a smile and a kind word for all, and his officers and men of the 4th Battalion.

BOER ENLISTS.
 By Courier Leased Wire
 New York, July 17.—Wounded while fighting in the Boer army against the British, Henry Craemer, now 38 years old, enlisted in the British army. He asked for Brigadier-General White, in charge of British recruiting, and refreshed the General's memory regarding the charge at Ladysmith and the officer's subsequent interrogation of Boer prisoners. "I was one of them," Craemer said. "I don't hate the English any more and I want to fight against the Germans." Craemer was accepted for the cavalry.

FOE FAINT HEARTED
 Amsterdam, July 18.—Many Germans have become faint-hearted, says General von Stein, Prussian War Minister, as quoted by The General Anzeiger of Dusseldorf. The General, replying to a telegram from the German National Union, expressing confidence in him, gave the following advice: "Everyone should possess confidence in the future greatness of Germany, but an excessive anxiety and faint heartedness is still troubling many persons. Everyone should endeavor to give an example of self-renunciation and sacrifice, and to make selfish and faint hearted persons ashamed of themselves."

FOE STEAMER WRECKED.
 By Courier Leased Wire.
 Yantiden, Holland, Tuesday, July 17.—The German merchantman Magdalena Blumenthal, which went ashore off Zandvoort while attempting to run the British blockade from Rotterdam to Germany, is a total wreck. The crew, one of whose members was wounded, has been landed. The Blumenthal was one of the 17 German merchantmen which put out from Rotterdam, most of which were either stranded or sunk or captured by British destroyers.

IN A LONDON BUS

"Had a fall, missis?"

The conductor asked the question of a shabby old woman who had entered the bus. Trembling and shaken, she sat trying to shake the mud off her skirt at the same time displaying a badly grazed hand. "I got so frightened," she faltered, "this traffic under me."

She fumbled under her old cape and produced a grimy looking piece of rag. "Here, that don't do, mother," broke in the conductor. "You'll have lockjaw or something" with that. Here, take this," said, fetching a clean handkerchief from his own pocket and tearing it in half.

The woman with the baby wrapped the bandage round the old, toll-marked hand, and was tremulously thanked.

An Australian soldier, sitting in the corner, rose to go at that moment. "Here, take her fare out of this, and give her the rest," he said quietly to the conductor as he passed out. "Poor old dear!"

J. M. YOUNG & CO.

switch to the cargo of trench furniture that hampered his movements.

"'At! But, by gum, we've had the time of our lives," came the answer, as the speaker stopped to light a cigarette.

The London streets were rather deserted at that hour, especially in the by-street, through which they walked on that Sunday evening.

But they both paused at the strains that came on their ears. In the business offices, the theatres, the hotels, one of the old churches of London still maintained a ground squeezed between the modern dwellings.

"Peace, perfect peace," sang the choir, and the people, at their hymn of parting.

PRESIDENCY VACANT

By Courier Leased Wire
 Tien Tsin, July 18.—President Li Yuan Hung, in announcing his resignation, urges the country to support Feng Kw Chang, vice president, for the presidency.

Feng Kw Chang, vice president, for the presidency. Feng Kw Chang has refused the position of chief executive.

Fifty Against Two. It is not reasonable to expect two weeks of outing to overcome the effects of fifty weeks of confinement. Take Dodd's Sarsaparilla along with you. It refreshes the blood, improves the system.

"Well, mate, that's our job!" was the terse comment, as they continued their route.

LITTLE VICTIMS OF THE HUNS CARRIED TO LAST RESTING PLACE
 Another view of the funeral in London of fifteen little victims of the latest Hun raid. A special message was sent by the King. There were over 500 wreaths. Photo shows funeral coaches with their burden of wreaths setting out for the cemetery.
