Strike Fever Has Reached Kent County

The strike epidemic has reached Buctouche, where the men employed in J. D. Irving's mill have quit work to enforce their demand for shorter hours. About forty or forty-five men are affected. The men are asking for a nine-hour day instead of ten hours with the same pay for the shorter hours as for the longer day. Mr. Irving, it is understood, is willing to concede the demand for a nine-hour day but is unwilling to pay the same wages for nine hours as for ten. The men, of course, want no reduction in pay, and to enforce their demand for a nine-hour day quit work Tuesday morning last. At latest reports the men were still out and the mill closed down; while an effort is being made to get men to replace the strikers.

Andrew Carnegie Steel Magnate Dead

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 11—Andrew Carnegie, the steel magnate and philanthropist, died at his Lenox summer home, "Shadow Brook," at 7.10 this morning after an illness of less than three days with bronchial pneumonia. So sudden was his death that his daughter, Mrs. Roswell Miller, was unable to get to her father's bedside before he died. His wife and private secretary were with him at the end.

Mr. Carnegie had spent most of the summer in Lenox, coming here late in May, and up to a few weeks ago enjoyed himself in almost daily fishing trips on Lake Mahkosnae, which borders his big estate, and in riding about his grounds. He was taken ill on Friday and grew steadily worse. His advanced age and lessened power of resistance hastened the end.

Mr. Carnegie leaves his wife, who was Miss Louisa Whitfield, New York, and his daughter, Margaret, who married last April Ensign Roswell Miller, of New York.

Although Mr. Carnegie, who was in his 84th year, had been an invalid since 1917, when he suffered an attack of grippe, the news of his death was a shock to old friends and former business associates here. Since his previous serious illnesses he had been under the care of two nurses.

Identified so long with the international peace movement, Mr. Carnegie was said to have been more severely affected by the world war than most men.

After his retirement he was compelled to limit the number of his daily visitors, and until his last illness he met and spoke with only a few of his closest friends.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—This city, where Andrew Carnegie laid the foundation for his vast fortune in the steel business, today paid tribute to the dead magnate. Mr. E. A. Babcock, mayor, ordered all flags in Pittsburgh lowered to half mast. At the Carnegie Institute, the scene of one of his philanthropic works, plans were made to drape the buildings with crepe in respect to the benefactor. News of Mr. Carnegie's sudden death at Lenox spread rapidly through the city. At the steel mills which bear his name, preparations were made to suspend work and other institutions in which he was interested planned similar action.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The sudden death of Andrew Carnegie apparently had little effect upon the stock market. The common stock of the United States Steel Corporation, of which the Carnegie companies formed an important part lagged behind the general list, but it was declared in well-informed quarters that Mr. Carnegie's holdings in the steel corporation were limited to first mortgage bonds.

Newcastle Will Honor Her Returned Heroes

Public Meeting Held On Wednesday Evening Decided to Hold Reception August 27th—Committees Busy Formulating Plans For Biggest Day Ever Held on the North Shore.

The adjourned public meeting to arrange matters for the Returned Soldier's Celebration to be held in Newcastle on Wednesday August 27th, was held in the police magistrates office last Friday evening 8th inst. at 8 o'clock. Those present were, Messrs. George Stables in the chair, Mayor D. P. Doyle, R. C. Clark, J. R. Lawlor, J. D. Creaghan, E. H. Sinclair, H. H. Stuart, Cameron Smallwood, D. S. Creaghan, A. D. Farrak, George Johnston, W. A. Park, Wm. Ferguson, A. H. Cole, Cecil McWilliam, T. M. Maltby, G. G. Stothart, Wm. Stables, Thos. A. Clarke, Capt. Barry, W. W. Cormier, C. P. McCabe, J. P. Ryder, and D. A. Jackson, the Secretary.

Mr. C. P. McCabe thought that Monday Labor Day Sept 1st would be more suitable than Wednesday the 27th Aug. to hold the celebration, as Labor Day was a recognized holiday, and he felt that more people would come to town on that day than would probably come on Wednesday. Mess. J. D. Creaghan and D. S. Creaghan both spoke along similar lines as Mr. McCabe did, as they felt certain a larger number of people would come to town on Labor Day.

Mr. R. C. Clarke said that Monday would be a bad day to hold the celebration, from the ladies standpoint, as it would necessitate the ladies cooking on Saturday, and keeping the cooked food over until the following Monday, with the liability of some of it spoiling. Mr. Clark stated that Mr. J. R. Lawlor who was looking after the procuring of the foodstuffs had probably made his arrangements with the ladies, and before doing anything further in regard to the changing of the date, Mr. Lawlor who was unavoidably absent, had better be consulted.

Mayor Doyle and Mr. Wm. Stables were both of the opinion that Wednesday was the better day, as Monday was too early in the week to hold an affair of this kind and it would not be fair to the ladies, as they usually had enough cooking of their own to do on Saturday without any extra work which this reception would necessitate.

Mr. W. A. Park suggested that probably it would be well to leave the matter in the hands of the committee, who could wait on the ladies and ascertain their views.

Mayor Doyle concurred with the suggestion, but Mr. A. H. Cole, chairman of the advertising committee, said that this putting off business kept him back from his advertising work and he would like to have a definite date set, so he could go along with his advertising.

Mr. J. D. Creaghan wished to know if the committee and ladies had met to formulate their plans and in answer, Mr. R. C. Clark said that Mr. J. R. Lawlor was in charge of this work and could not say how far Mr. Lawlor had gone with his plans, but he (Mr. Clark) was rather inclined to think that Mr. Lawlor was waiting to see how the Finance Committee was getting along securing funds before deciding definitely just what his procedure would be.

Mr. Thos. M. Maltby stated that he had met with very favorable support, financially, from the citizens whom he had already called upon, but it was a large undertaking and would take considerable time before the finance committee would be in a position to say about how much money they could secure.

At this juncture, Mr. J. R. Lawlor entered the meeting and Mayor Doyle explained to him the deadlock which had occurred, and requested him to state his views on the matter to the meeting.

Mr. Lawlor said that his idea of the matter was, that it was much easier to hold the celebration on Wednesday than on Monday, as it was almost impossible to ask the ladies to do the cooking on Saturday and hold it over until the following Monday.

After Mr. Lawlor had given his views on the matter Mr. D. S. Creaghan felt that Mr. Lawlor's suggestions practically closed the question, and he thought that the meeting should now proceed with other business. This was decided on and the

Elkin May Succeed Carvell

Ottawa, Ont. Aug. 7.—Stanley E. Elkin, Liberal Unionist M.P.; for St. John and Albert, is mentioned as a probable successor to Hon. F. B. Carvell in the New Brunswick cabinet representation.

Mr. Elkin has been in Ottawa this week and saw Sir Robert Borden and he has returned home to consult his friends.

It is supposed here that he may enter the ministry with the understanding that he takes office for a two-year term only.

Mr. Elkin declined to discuss the matter last evening when asked about it by The Telegraph.

Montreal Gazette Approves
Montreal, Que Aug 8.—The Montreal Gazette, commenting editorially on report that Stanley Elkin may represent New Brunswick in the dominion cabinet says:

It is reported from Ottawa that Mr. Stanley Elkin, Unionist member for St. John city and the counties of St. John and Albert, may be the next New Brunswick representative in the dominion cabinet. The suggestion is an interesting one and by no means unwelcome one. Mr. Elkin, although a young man, has been unusually successful in business, nor is there any reason to suppose that he has reached the possible maximum of achievement in that political experience but his lack in that respect does not disqualify him for useful public service, or preclude success as a parliamentarian. On the other hand, he has displayed in his relatively short term as a member of the House of Commons, an aptitude for public life and a clear understanding of public questions. There is unquestionable room in the government for a man of Mr. Elkin's proven business capacity. If the rumor is correct he will, as a Liberal Unionist succeed Hon. F. B. Carvell, also a Liberal Unionist, and recently appointed chairman of the Railway Commission.

Transfer of International Railway

An event of more than ordinary importance from a financial standpoint to the province of New Brunswick took place Thursday, when, at the office of the Royal Trust Company, Montreal, conveyance was made to the crown, in right of the Dominion Government, of the International railway, extending across the province from St. Leonard's to Campbellton.

Bonds of the railway company to the amount of $896,000 guaranteed by the province as to principal and interest were cancelled, and the province was thereby wholly relieved from liability.

William G. Pugsley, K. C., of Ottawa, represented the International Railway Company, while H. A. Carr, K. C., of Campbellton, represented the Dominion Government.
