THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

The Liberal Convention held recently in the Newcastle Opera House was one of the crudest examples of mis-management that the electors of Northumberland ever witnessed. The meeting was without a President and had to appoint one. The Secretary did not have his papers in order and delayed the meeting half an hour waiting for his arrival. After the meeting was opened it took one hour to arrive at a method of taking the ballot, and the method (when ultimately decided upon) was the most tedious and childish like one that could possibly have been adopted. A bunch of children from a Kindergarten could not have done worse, and the method necessitated the space of one hour and a half to receive and count the 176 ballots cast. If the same bunch of men were in charge on Election Day it would take about five years to conduct the election in the County of Northumberland, whereas it must be done in one day. If these men were ever to get control of parliament at Ottawa, pity help the business of Canada, as they never would be able to attend to it. Blackville and Hardwick Parishes each had two sets of delegates and another half hour was consumed before this tangle was straightened out. Some organizers and business men were those at the Liberal Convention? It was a fore-gone conclusion that Morrissy was to receive the nomination and the result was expected. Mr. W. B. Snowball told the meeting that the Chatham delegation was a packed one against him and his statement was not challenged. One of the Liberals in the meeting asked Mr. Snowball why he left the Liberal party in 1917, and Mr. Snowball told the meeting that if that was their challenge he was prepared to take it up and would make it the hottest fight for them that they ever had. He stated that he was prepared to back up his attitude in 1917 and defied any one of them to challenge him. The bomb was thrown and Hush-Hush could be heard all over the hall and the heckler was restrained from saying anything further. They did not want the question raised and did their utmost to prevent it, but enough had been said and Mr. Snowball took them to task about it.

Mr. Morrissy said in his speech that the 1917 election was not an election at all. That's where he makes the mistake of his life and the electors of this county have not forgotten the 1917 election. Cripps from Chatham wanted to know from Mr. Snowball if he was going to support Mr. Morrissy and Mr. Snowball's reply was "I have made my speech" and Mr. Elector don't forget that Mr. Snowball said in his speech that it was impossible, so far as he was concerned to make the nomination of Mr. Morrissy unanimous as he was entirely in his friend's hands and Mr. Snowball received 57 of the delegates votes and Mr. Morrissy obtained 119 others. So the electors will see that Mr. Morrissy did not receive a unanimous nomination from the convention. These Kindergarten children would like the electors of Northumberland to believe that Morrissy was the unanimous choice of the Convention and that every thing passed off harmoniously, but you can't fool old Northumberland that way. A large number of the delegates left in disgust long before the proceedings were over and alternates in some cases voted for them. The delegates were disgusted in more ways than one, among many reasons, the childlike methods adopted, the political history of some of the leaders, and the haggling and wrangling over so many matters irrelevant to the convention. Many disparaging remarks were heard throughout the building about one man in particular who was very prominent at the meeting and one who has been on all sides of politics, but who has at the present time, and for all time to come no more prestige or influence than the common house fly. Taken as a whole it was about the worst conducted and most humiliating political convention that ever Northumberland electors witnessed.

THE CLOVEN FOOT

A Provincial Liberal gathering was held last Wednesday afternoon in Fredericton for the purpose of considering the parties' chances in the Federal general election. The situation did not look very rosy for them in many ways and all that was issued to the press was that the meeting was held and there was no statement for the public. A large part of the time was taken up with the discussion of financial matters, and in this a stumbling block was found. The gathering was so important that the members of the Provincial Government, (who had gathered to hold a session) had to attend it and consequently no session of the government was held. The cloven foot is bothering them immensely.
