

"Here's Your Match."

SEA-DOG SAFETY MATCHES.

SEA-DOG CIGAR LIGHTS.

EDDY'S SILENT PARLOR MATCH.

(Can't hear them strike.)

"SWAN" WHITE PINE VESTAS.

BRYANT & MAY'S ROYAL WAX VESTAS.

BRYANT & MAY'S BRAIDED CIGAR LIGHTS.

AYRE & SONS, Limited

GROCERY DEPARTMENT.

PHONE 11.

PHONE 11.

The Labrador Boundary.

Newfoundland's Jurisdiction Supported.

The Title Invested in This Dominion by Royal Proclamations.

By H. F. SHORTIS.

That the Quebec Government has been viewing our great dependency Labrador with greedy eyes is a question that has been asked ever since the early days of the settlement of the province. It is a question that has been asked ever since the early days of the settlement of the province. It is a question that has been asked ever since the early days of the settlement of the province.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

power it would also furnish the heat whereby an electrical process, the production by electricity, might be performed. Transportation might also be provided by electrical power. There is neither coal, coal-oil or natural gas in Ungava. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

There are patches of copper in Labrador, but none of those found so far are very extensive in size, and would hardly pay. On the east coast of Hudson Bay, near Richmond Gulf, there are lead ores in the ancient rock. The galena does not carry very much silver. There is more iron in this vicinity also.

seal and whale to the far north. They are the majority of the harbors and islands along the coast, and these names are "Tracy of the soil," typical Newfoundland nomenclature. Generation after generation visited its shores, moving further north every year. And now are they to be deprived of their just rights by those who took no interest in that portion of our dependency, until they asserted that it presented unlimited possibilities of future development and great commercial value, with its mines, mineral, water power, and many other resources at present unknown to the human race. Let us do everything in our power to protect our interests in our great dependency, which holds the confidence of the nation, and general history of our country, as well as defining statutes, Acts and proclamations and a thorough knowledge of constitutional affairs. We have such a man in Hon. Justice Kent, a profound scholar, a deep thinker, a patriotic gentleman, who holds the confidence of the people, which was fully exemplified when he was elevated to the Bench of the Supreme Court by the acclamation of all classes in the land. He must necessarily be master of the Boundary Question, and his talents, experience and acknowledged ability will be a great asset to the cause of our dependency. Every man in this country should take the deepest interest in this important question. It is only natural to suppose that many of us, with five generations amongst our families whose ancestors came to our shores in the 18th century, who have lived and died in Newfoundland, should take the deepest possible interest in such an important question, the solution of which means so much to those who come after us.

Our American Letter.

Charleston, S.C., Dec. 23.—Again has President Wilson shown the world the commanding position which the United States now occupy among the nations of the earth. His reception in England will go down in history as the beginning of a new era of brotherly love among the nations and the final removal of the barriers which prevented a proper expression of the friendship between America and Great Britain. It is to be hoped that nothing will arise in the future to affect this friendship and that, as a result of Wilson's visit, freedom to its fullest extent will be accorded every nation now struggling for liberty. After all, what value is pomp and power and might of Empire, if there are peoples under our sway who are denied the boon of independence. All our boasted chivalry, all our anxiety for the rights of small nations will be only rank hypocrisy if we deny the right of freedom to the peoples under our rule.

President Wilson has given the world a new doctrine of the rights of the small nations, and has shown the pretensions of statesmen, who build up world-power on the sufferings of other nations. The argument, sometimes advanced, that subject countries are very often more prosperous under the rule of another power is pointless. Every nation that amounts to anything wants its own government, and the right to develop its national life in its own way. This is the doctrine of free America and the doctrine that must eventually be accepted by every nation on earth. America has shown no desire for conquest in this war. She has never shown it in other wars. In the conflict with Spain she gave Cuba its independence, and she has promised entire freedom to the Philippines when that country is sufficiently trained in the art of self-government. The old doctrine of loot and spoils will have to pass into the limbo of forgotten things. This is a new world in which we live and the morality of private life must be the morality of public life as well. Nations will be bound in the future to keep the commandment as well as the duals. One individual cannot keep the property of another; why should the State have a different conception of this right of property? Out of Wilson's visit to Europe is bound to come a realization of these principles, and that their application to the problems that confront the Peace Congress, will bring about a new feeling of universal brotherhood as certain as the sun will rise tomorrow. Therefore let us strengthen the hands of the champion of the chivalry in his efforts to promote a better understanding by doing away for ever with the old principle that might makes right.

Newspaper men to whom I have shown a copy of the Evening Telegram were amazed that a paper like this should be published in a comparatively small city like St. John's. What struck them particularly was the quantity of cable despatches which it carries, and the tremendous advertising patronage it enjoys. The Telegram has become a great newspaper and an honor to Newfoundland. May its present prosperity add power forever remain.

It is to be hoped that the story of the Newfoundland Regiment will some day be published in book form. The amazing record of Terra Nova's Regiment, however, was written in the enduring than mere newspaper mention. Canada, of course, gets the credit for the brilliant deeds of the above army as far as the outside world is concerned, because of the fixed idea that Newfoundland is part of the Great Dominion. If the history of the Regiment were written in the proper way it would help to disabuse people of this strange delusion and show the world that Newfoundlanders can fight, as well as they can discover the North Pole and fish for cod. Too little mention has been given Newfoundland's part in the war even by the British official histories. Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, have all been given extended notices in the Press, and their troops have been eulogized by the statesmen of the world, but we seldom find any reference to the gallant heroes of Newfoundland. Who will write this history? Not the well known plagiarist and magazine hack surely. That would be the worst thing that could possibly happen to our soldiers. Better that they remain forever among the ranks of a member of the rodent tribe should write their history.

I read of great snowfalls in Newfoundland. Here the sun is bathing the landscape, and flowers of various kinds are still in bloom. This state is said to have more sunshine than Southern California, and its climate while not as beneficial as that of North Carolina, is noted for its great effect in pulmonary troubles. While Ashville, in North Carolina, is the chief health resort of the South, we have in Summerville, this state, the most perfect climatic conditions. The temperature never falls as low as in Asheville, and the forests of pine which surround it make it a perfect sanatorium. It is becoming more popular every year with the wealthy classes and a magnificent hotel has recently been erected. The South has entered on a period of great prosperity. Cotton, so long the king of its commerce, is now confronted with many powerful rivals, which are piling up wealth for this section in a way that is amazing.

W. M. DOOLEY.

Change of Business

On and after the 1st day of January, STAFFORD'S PHARMACY, Duckworth Street, will be closed for all RETAIL BUSINESS, and in future be used as a WHOLESALE MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT for all kinds of DRUGS, CHEMICALS, PATENT MEDICINES, SUNDRIES, etc. All Prescriptions for STAFFORD'S PHARMACY, Duckworth Street, may be repeated if necessary at Theatre Hill. Jan 2, 19.

Armistice Agreed To.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Having questioned the correctness of the position taken by Hon. John Anderson on a matter of thought of much interest to the citizens, I anticipated that if a reply was forthcoming it would be in keeping with the seriousness of the subject and true to the intellectual standards that my esteemed friend stands for. His rejoinder, however, was nothing but a miserable attempt to throw ridicule on me and evade the question at issue.

He referred to me as "a big minded man." To that I can only state it is easy to be big minded with the citizen's money. He has forecasted the mayoralty for me. For this I thank him, and if such a thought enters my mind in the future, I trust I will make a better bid for the secured votes than he did when he tried the venture. I think his total for the city was 436 against 2,079 for Hon. Mr. Gibbs, and 1,035 for Mr. Shortis.

Mr. Anderson has promised a reply to my contentions when he gathers scores more information in other words he is asking for an armistice. To the latter I cordially agree. Meantime, in the first round of the combat, Mr. Anderson, I claim, has been vanquished by the ropes where I will leave him in the hands of his seconds, who no doubt will do the necessary massaging and rubbing down.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, for the space allowed me in this short controversy.

Yours truly,

JOHN L. SLATTERY.

Jan. 7, 1919.

We have Just Received a Shipment of New FURNITURE.
Some very suitable for Xmas Presents, all moderately priced.
THE C. L. MARCH CO., LTD., Cor. Water & Springdale Sts.

Sideboards & Buffets,
from - - $39.50 to $52.50

Washstands,
From - - $6.50 to $11.00

Bureaus,
From - - $29.50 to $39.50

Special Line
of Good Mattresses,
From - - $18.00 to $20.00

The C. L. MARCH CO., Ltd., Cor Springdale and Water Streets.