Graduating Recital at Mt. Allison.

An exceptionally fine recital of classic music was given in Fowett Memorial Hall, Friday evening, by Miss Marjorie Nightingale Hutchings, of St. John's Nfld. (vocal graduate) and Mr. James Gibson Davis, violinist. Miss Hutchings has a deep, rich contralto voice and her vocal numbers evoked storms of applause from the delighted audience. Mr. Davis, who belongs to Springhill, N.S., is a talented violinist, and he displayed advanced technique and brilliancy in the rendering of his numbers.

After miscellaneous vocal and violin selections, scenes and choruses from Gluck's beautiful opera Orpheus, were sung in English. Miss Hutchings sang and acted the part of Orpheus, and was assisted by Miss Kathryn Thompson, who has a sweet soprano voice, in the double parts of Eros, the God of Love, and Eurydice, the ill-fated wife of Orpheus. The chorus was composed of Miss Hutchings' classmates. All the scenes were in costume and were well presented, the singing being of excellence. Fred Chadwick presided at the piano in his usual masterly style, and Miss Fydeall conducted the music.

Orpheus and Eurydice, according to the Greek legend, having incurred the anger of the Gods, are compelled to suffer punishment at their hands. Eurydice is therefore condemned to die and to be transported to the Elysian Fields. Orpheus, inconsolable, calls on the gods to rescind their decree, and give back to him Eurydice.

Mrs. Pomerleau Feared She Had Heart Trouble

For Two Years Quebec Woman
Could Eat Only Specially Prepared Foods.

"Tanlac has so restored my health that I'm just happy all the time," said Mrs. J. M. Pomerleau, 34 St. Nicolas St., Quebec.
"I suffered so for two years from indigestion that I could eat only specially prepared food. I had no appetite and after meals I suffered agony from gas which formed on my stomach, causing my heart to palpitate at such a fearful rate I thought I had heart trouble. At times I had bells of indigestion that left me helpless for hours. I was so nervous that even the ringing of the telephone upset me. Night after night I spent sitting up in bed worrying about my condition, as nothing seemed to do me any good, and I had almost lost hope of recovery."

"But Tanlac turned my life of suffering and misery into one of health and joy. Why, the good it has done me is simply wonderful. My appetite is so keen I can hardly get enough to eat and everything agrees with me perfectly. My nerves are as steady as a clock. I sleep well at night, and get up mornings refreshed and thoroughly rested. I have actually gained eight pounds in weight and feel like an entirely different person. Tanlac has certainly been a great thing for me and I can't praise it enough."

An Appreciation of the St. John's Octette.

There is no question whatever but that the gentlemen of the St. John's Octette rendered their ambitious programme in masterly style. The large and appreciative audience that filled the Methodist College Hall to capacity went home enthusiastic and well satisfied. The Concert was exceptional in that it was the culminating point of a long series of hard practices. The items demanded this and the evidence was there in well balanced harmony. At times during the pianissimo passages one could have heard a pin drop. Every word could be made out plainly and that in itself is a mark of good singing. The different part songs were sung with just that difference which essentially characterised them. The solidarity of the "Soldiers Chorus" and the "Pilgrim Chorus" were offset by the charming distinctness of "The Three Chasers" and "Kentucky Babe." In those the Octette displayed a versatility and flexibility that only trained voices can acquire. Sullivan's "The Long Day Closes" with the accompanying overture to "Sweet and Low" were perfect gems, the members of the Octette entered into the spirit of the words of those beautiful poems and such a musical sense courted success. Mrs. (Dr.) Murphy, charmed the audience with an exquisite violin solo. Her tone was mellow and well sustained. It is a long time since a well executed concert piece has been heard in this city. As usual Mrs. H. Outerbridge captivated her audience with no less than three amusing sketches. Of Mr. Gordon Christian, L.R.A.M., no praise is too high. He demonstrated his own particular gift as a pianist beyond all doubt. His execution both in the solo movements showed a grasp of technique that was exceptional. As a conductor his grip of the choir was complete; there was no question as to who had done the training. At times there must have been a desire on the part of the members of the choir to "let out" but Mr. Christian's sympathetic control was definite and sure. Altogether the entertainment was magnificent and just what has been wanted, namely good music—well sung. On Saturday night many were unable to secure seats and so for their benefit the Concert will be repeated, with changes as to solos, on Thursday night 28th inst.

"Whatsoever Things—"

The sixth and last sermon of the series on Philippians 4-8 was preached by Rev. D. B. Hemmison, B.A., to a large congregation in George Street Church last evening. The words arising out of the text, Truth, Honour, Justice, Purity, Beauty, had each been the subject of a previous sermon, when it was shown that in each of these words there was a meaning borrowed from Pagan altars, and when the word was incorporated in the Christian vocabulary the virtues and excellencies of Christianity gave to the word a new and superior meaning. The original translated "Good Report" was the subject last evening, and, like the previous "Words" used, has its association with heathen worship, the Greek word "Euphony" forming the basis for the translation "Good Report," the expression referring to the use of words of an auspicious or fortunate selection when used in worship. The devotee of heathen altars was "euphony" and succeeded in placating his deity when in his approach words of "Good report" were used and words of insidious effect avoided.

"Whatsoever things are of good report, think on these things." This subject was the "Ministry of the Good Word," and the reference was to the word, spoken or unspoken, silence or the audible expression. Life is made up of two great forces, Instinct and Reason, which by their impact upon existence create activity or action. Of the two, Instinct is the older, and the one whose roots are more deeply laid. Reason is a late-comer, but is gradually advancing to better recognition. Religion is one of the instincts that finds its expression in the life through the avenues of speech and silence, either and both of which may be subject to the effect of "Euphony"—the "Good Report." The value of silence as a force in life and in religion was very attractively traced. Physical silence, the absence of raucous, strident noises with their deleterious effect, the shouting of multitudes of Shibboleths, the noise made by vulgar vendors in their distracting efforts, until it is said that all the brains of the world are hired by wealth and capital to extol the warring wares of trade. The preacher gave an exhibition of refined eloquence in describing the "Ministry of the Good Word" in the silence of politeness, kindness and worship. But there is also the "Ministry of the Good Word" in speech, the value of the spoken or written word, in which the preacher said is wrapped up the history of the human race—the value of the polite word, of the kind word. The preacher appealed to his people to unite with him in making their Church, the Church "Euphony," the Church of the "Good Word."

Mr. Hemmison feelingly referred to what he termed the "second shadow," which had fallen across the course of his affectionate relations with his people and which intimated the early termination of his ministry, as he announced the name of his anticipated successor, the Rev. Robert E. Fairbairn, who had recently intimated his acceptance of the invitation extended to him by the Board. This announcement indicates the conclusion of Mr. Hemmison's ministry at the end of this Conference year in July, and the sermons he has recently preached are in themselves a fitting valedictory. Mr. Hemmison has vividly brought out the ethics of the Gospel in these sermons and has greatly aided his congregation to "Think on these things."

Harbor Grace Notes.

Mr. D. Munn of St. John's, has been intown for the last few days.

The schooner "Glencoe" went on dock Tuesday afternoon for a general overhauling. This schooner is owned by Captain Thomas LeGrow of Broad Cove.

The death of an old and highly respected citizen, in the person of Mr. John Brunless, occurred at his home, Victoria Street, on Sunday night last. He possessed an exemplary character and was a zealous Christian, being an ardent member of St. Andrew's Church, until declining years prevented him from carrying on his duties. Now he has passed behind the veil and we know that his is the reward of the faithful. The funeral took place yesterday, Wednesday, afternoon, brethren of the Masonic Lodge, (deceased being one of the oldest members) being in attendance. His remains were laid to rest in the Presbyterian Cemetery, there to await the resurrection morn. To his widow (nee Miss Elizabeth James, sister of Rev. Dr. T. H. James) the sympathy of the community goes out.

The price of local "eggs" has dropped considerably within the last few weeks. They could be procured this week for as low as 40c. per dozen. This indeed seems cheap. Prices on the different food stuffs are very slowly descending. Of course the "sugar" question still remains a problem to be solved, and all are anxiously awaiting developments regarding same, whilst it has to be regarded as a luxury by the greater number.

Mr. Theophilus Hart of Lady Cove,

DO YOU KNOW—

That about NINE DOLLARS worth of BEAVER BOARD will put a most attractive ceiling on any room in your house.

That BEAVER BOARD, whilst being good enough for your parlor, is not too expensive for your kitchen.

That the BEAVER QUALITY trade mark is printed on the back of every genuine BEAVER BOARD.

That every intelligent Carpenter in Newfoundland will tell you "BEAVER BOARD is much better than any other wall board."
