

Bladder weakness remedied

"I suffered from bladder weakness and frequent urination. I had tried other kidney remedies, but got no relief. Was advised to take Gin Pills, did so, and after taking half a box noticed much improvement."

Our London Letter

LONDON, April 11.—(By Canadian Press)—Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, who has arrived at Chesterfield House, Mayfair, for the season, is planning the first big social function to lead off the season's festivities. There is a great banquet to which 300 guests will be invited and it will be given in honour of King George and Queen Mary when they return, recuperated, from their health cruise.

The guests will include the whole of the Corps Diplomatique in London, and a large number of Canadian and other overseas visitors. The number of London's visitors this year, is, indeed, likely to exceed that of last year, according to hotel reservations.

The great ballroom at Chesterfield House, which has never been opened since the days of the Earl of Clarendon, has now been repainted and redecorated and furnished with a spring floor after the pattern of the Savoy's main ballroom floor—an innovation which says much for the future social plans of Princess Mary.

RACE FOR A MANSION: HOSTESSES SQUABBLE.
Mrs. Harry Brown, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. "Jimmie" Corrigan, two of the most well known American hostesses are not on speaking terms at the moment. It is all over Spencer House which Mrs. Brown has succeeded in obtaining for the season at a weekly rental of something like $2,000.00 a week.

Mrs. Corrigan came over from New York a month earlier than usual in order to get Spencer House. So did Mrs. Brown. Negotiations with the agents opened at once.

Mrs. Corrigan, however, started with a severe handicap, Earl Spencer and his Countess asked Mrs. Brown to visit their country place, Althorp Park, for a week-end; and it was not really very surprising that on the Monday morning Mrs. Brown should travel straight back to London and become at once the chasteleine of Spencer House for the small weekly consideration mentioned above.

Mrs. Corrigan has, however, succeeded in getting Mrs. Keppell's beautiful little place in Mount Street, a house she had two or three years ago.

FATEFUL RING BOUGHT BY CANADIAN VISITORS.
Mrs. Halden Loeffer, of Edmonton, Alta., a wealthy visitor at the Savoy, is startled to be the purchaser of the famous Romanoff emerald ring which, after having been sold at Rotherham, Kent, for two shillings, was resold at Christie's for £14,500. Mrs. Loeffer has now bought it from some Hatton Garden merchant for a little over £2,000.

The ring's history is a tragic one, for it is said to have been worn by the Czar at the time of his death. The emerald, is a large square one, flawless except for a segment chipped out of a side of the stone, presumably by the executioners.

THE WRITING ON THE WALL

Londoners and visitors still live to think that Chelsea is the home and centre of London's artistic life, though to-day it isn't at all. Neither is it St. John's Wood, that serene and sedate area round the Zoological Gardens.

Most of London's artistic and "ultra" people now live in Bloomsbury, labelled for years because of legendary boarding houses, but now literally blooming in a second youth.

The latest and most frankish of London's young artistic ideas is to paper walls not with wall paper or paint, but with newspapers. Harold Speed, one of the youngest Royal Academicians, who lives in Bloomsbury, has papered his rooms with foreign newspapers—Russian, Greek, Chinese and Egyptian—and the result is as startling as anybody could desire.

It might be added, however, that it comes a good deal more expensive than an ordinary wall-paper, and as artists are as poor as ever they were, only the "fashionable" painters can indulge in the idea.

Giant Motor Car Being Built in England

MOST POWERFUL EVER SEEN—450 H.P. AND 150 MILES AN HOUR.

Mammoth motor-car, more powerful than anything hitherto conceived by the automobile engineer, is now being assembled for Mr. Malcolm Campbell, the racing motorist.

Last year, when Mr. Campbell lowered the world's record for the flying kilometre with a speed of 146 miles an hour, he told me that his ambition was to travel at 150 miles an hour, and it is with this object that the new racing car is being built.

It will be called the Lionhearted. Its Napier Lion engine is nominally rated at 450-h.p. If it were a private car it would be taxed at £450 a year, about £1 4s. 7d. a day. But the car will never appear on the road.

Up To 700-h.p.

On the test bench the engine has developed close on 600-h.p. but it has not yet been fully extended. The designers estimate that it could be tuned up to give 700-h.p. This should not be required, for at 2,500 revolutions a minute the car with the gear ratios used should be able theoretically to attain a speed of 203 miles an hour.

The engine has 12 cylinders, each of which is about the size of a small car engine. They are fed by three carburetors, and the ignition is supplied by two magnetos.

Special Steel Frame

The frame of the Lionhearted will be of immense strength. A firm of armament makers have been experimenting to find the most suitable type of steel to withstand the enormous strain of the giant engine. A firm of tyre-makers are making tests to find the most suitable type of cover. The possibility of solid rubber tyres is being discussed.

The brakes acting on all four wheels, follow locomotive practice, and will be operated by the Westinghouse compressed-air system.

When the car is ready, the next step will be to find a place where the giant can have a free run. Mr. Campbell is therefore searching for a suitable stretch of level sand. The car will require three miles to get into its stride, a mile for timing purposes, and three miles in which to slow down.

No distance too great, no hour too late—West End Taxi—1988. may8.51

Sir Oliver Lodge

GIVES HIS VIEWS ON THE FUTURE LIFE.

"I consider it scientifically proved that mind is not inseparably linked with matter. We do not know how it is that mind is associated with matter at all, but here it is. Is the matter essential? Can the memory and the character and the disposition and all that makes an individual survive the death of the body, the destruction of the brain?" said Sir Oliver Lodge in a recent address at Purley Congregational Church, reported in the Christian World Pulpit.

"I say, yes. The brain is an instrument that we use here and now, constructed by the spirit, and used as an instrument for manifestation, for the display of ourselves to others. But we are not dependent on it; we can go on without it."

"The pulpy matter that we call the brain is not ourselves; that is not where our self is; that is not even where our memory is. It is an instrument for bringing out the memory, as a violin or organ is an instrument for bringing out the music; but the music is in the soul of Beethoven and the soul of his hearers, in those who understand it, not in the mechanical arrangement which displays it or manifests it."

"We have the survival of the individual and the survival of the race. There is an infinite destiny before each individual. Think of that for a moment. Here we are in existence, and we are not going out of existence.

"An infinite future before us when we leave the body behind. What do we take with us? Our memory, our character, for better, for worse, ourselves; and that is all we do take. Some people would be glad to be rid of themselves. Well, they can't; they have got to make the best of it."

"It is just as well to make yourselves more living, when you have got to live on through all eternity. It is an amazing thought, but I see no way out of it. And what will happen to us, what we shall become in an infinite lapse of time we do not know. We know what we are, we do not know what we shall be."

"I do not know that we know what we are, but we have infinite hope. We realize that the efforts that have been made to help us, the sacrifice that has been undergone by Higher Powers to help us, all mean that this earth existence is a very important item, all mean that there is going to be a great and magnificent outcome, which we cannot yet see or imagine."

"The sufferings of this present time, are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed." St. Paul had those moments of insight when he realized the majesty of the individual existence, strange as it may appear."

"Steamships" Closes Out Ocean Services

$6,000,000 IN HOLE.

President W. H. Coverdale of the Canada Steamships Lines spoke a funeral oration over a grave of vain hopes when he announced this week that the company intended to sell its remaining vessels in the ocean steamship business. Trying to run an ocean steamship line as an adjunct to its Great Lakes service has cost "Steamers" millions and did more than anything to put the once prosperous company into the hole from which it seems now to be slowly but surely climbing.

Canada Steamships went into the ocean business when freights were high and all prospects were bright. There was opposition to the move, but in the main it is now regarded that the step was taken sincerely and honestly. For two years the lines made money; then they began to lose. Worse than operating losses were the terrible amounts that had to be charged to depreciation. Ocean tonnage which was at a premium became practically unsalable. C.S.S. boats that were bought at high cost were worth a fraction of their book values. The eight vessels cost $7,898,000. They were worth less than half that after the slump. In 1921 the company wrote nearly $4,000,000 off to partially cover losses on the depreciation in the value of these boats. In 1922 the lines were again operated at a loss.

In 1923 some of the boats were sold and the losses of over $800,000 written off. There was an operating loss, too, in 1923.

For 1914 the lines lost about $30,000 more, there being only three boats left in operation by that time. The company has evidently given up hope of trying to make the vessels pay for themselves, and is, therefore, closing the ocean shipping chapter for good.

Summarized as far as it is possible to do so from various annual statements and addresses of the company's officers, the ocean shipping episode has cost "Steamships" about $6,000,000 all told, of which about $1,400,000 would represent losses on operation and about $4,600,000 for losses taken when boats were sold at less than cost.—Financial Post.

Others as Well

The Australian: The press is the best friend of true eloquence, though the deadliest enemy of the false. Strong thought and admirable language can only gain by being reported. It is bombast, nonsense, irrelevance, and pretentious platitudes that suffer in the cold light of the next morning. It may well be that the fact of a speech being calmly heard through the broadcaster may induce a speaker to give more care to his matter and diction, as well as to his articulation. As things are, there is too loose a habit of going into the society of Parliament or a public meeting in—figures tively speaking—slippers and no jacket, if not in shirt sleeves.
