

CURE

SICK
Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cure one of these ailments, they are worth the price.

HEAD

ACHE
In the face of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it where others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not grip or purge, but by their gentle action please the stomach. In valiant 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., NEW YORK.

Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price.

London, Friday, Feb. 28.

A MIDNIGHT TRAGEDY.

Two lovers lean on the garden gate:
The hour is late.

At a chamber window father stands,
And rubs his eyes.

For a while he watches them unaware,
Then goes down stairs.

He loosens the dog from his chain—
The rest is plain.

The moonlight silvers the garden gate,
The hour is late.

PROFESSOR PAUL.

The Story of a Life's Love.

(By Stuart Livingston, Jr., Hamilton.)

"I remember being used one day at the old and charitable way of deciding a rather delicate question the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned, at the same time I became aware of it was that she had quite as many friends among the girls of the village as among those of the opposite sex."

"I had been busily engaged all the morning upon some sketches which I purposed sending up to London to-day, and as it had been raining steadily I had not time to notice the lapse of time. When I looked at my watch it was already considerable past the hour at which the school was usually dismissed, so I at once pulled on my coat and started out."

I had not proceeded far, however, before I met quite a little procession toward the house, and what was my surprise to see it headed by Winnie's mother, the admiral."

At his side walked one of the homeliest girls in the village, whom was courteously shielding from the rather a large umbrella. Next to them was a young man, and by his side a little girl, who was waving the handkerchief. Winnie herself appeared in perfect picture of good-will and content."

"Why, Miss Winnie, exclaimed, as I reached her side, 'what does this mean? I surely can't be possible two of your most devoted worshippers withdrawn to other shrines, and I yours deserted?'"

"Oh, hush," she said, "don't speak so loud or they'll hear you. It is so funny, but I'm sure I couldn't tell now without laughing right out, and I'm sure you wouldn't like that, so you will wait till we reach home."

"When I had taken her waterproof and rubbers, and I was standing before the sitting-room, she told me about it."

"Breaking out into a laugh she said, 'Oh, Mr. Arrall, it was funny, when I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know.'"

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

"I took occasion at this time to remark that I did not remember ever having seen her carry either one-day. She, however, quite ignored interpolation and continued."

"When I came out at Charlie was waiting for me, and it was then I remembered that I had put them both. I couldn't think what to do about it, and while I was standing under the umbrella, and he asked me if it came down with me in case it did. I said, because I always find it difficult to try my books and an umbrella, too; books are so heavy, you know."

myself, and I well remember her saying to me one day, after Winnie had left us to go upstairs for something. 'Be careful, Paul, be careful, what you are doing remember that the world would scarcely be content to live in the darkness, after it had once known the radiance of the sun.'"

"Quite true, Aunt Hilda, I replied, 'but why not always have the sun?'"

"Because it may be beyond the compass of your powers, Paul."

"I knew to what she referred, and said, 'I see no reason Aunt Hilda, why I should not try and gain her love, except it be my unworthiness, and if she ever truly loves me she is good, and I think she will forgive me that.'"

"There may be other reasons, Paul, of which you are not aware. Her mother when she died was a Roman Catholic; her father is one now, and Winnie has always been taught that it is to be her religion also."

"But, Aunt Hilda, how can that be any reason?"

"I have not finished yet, Paul. Her father is a pre-eminently selfish man, and invalid in very straitened circumstances, and undoubtedly wishes her to marry for wealth, and Winnie is not the sort of girl for whom it will be difficult to find suitors."

"But, Aunt Hilda, I shall not always be poor. You think that because my picture was rejected that I am forever a failure. It is not so, it is anything but that. Why it was presumption for me to send it in, and I could expect nothing but failure. I would have won it in another year, but I will win it yet if I have to work night and day to do so!"

"No, Paul, you do not understand me; there is no one believes you more firmly than I do, yet it may be I am wrong; in any case, I see it is too late to warn you now."

"We remained silent for some time, until at length Winnie came in again, and I retired to my studio to work upon my sketches."

"It was not long after this that Winnie and I went out one afternoon sketching together. She had accompanied me upon several occasions, and of this afternoon of which I am speaking had begged so much to be allowed to go, that would have taken a much harder heart than Aunt Hilda's to refuse her. Ah, my friend, that afternoon is at this moment before my mind as if it were but yesterday. I remember how pretty she looked as she walked merrily along, every now and again springing up the grassy bank that skirted the road to pick wild flowers or some bright leaf, which her quick eye had seen in passing. It was from one of these excursions, that she returned holding a daisy in her hand, and calling upon me to wait. I did so, and when she had overtaken me and regained her breath, she began:

"Mr. Arrall, I want you to promise that you will do something for me; you will promise, won't you? Please do!"

"Winnie, I replied, 'I wish you wouldn't call me Mr. Arrall; I don't like to be called that by any one, and especially by you. I would rather you would call me Paul; won't you call me Paul, Winnie?'"

(To be Continued.)

FUN, FACTS AND FICTION

A Judicious Compound of Wit and Wisdom.

Even the rain is liable to break something when it falls—mill dams for instance.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. W. T. Strong, 184 Dundas Street, London.

The way to keep children happy and healthy, in the winter, is to keep them on ice.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shilo's Catarrh Remedy. Price only 25 cents. W. T. Strong, 184 Dundas Street, London.

A pawn ticket isn't a sign of the kind of lent you are thinking about.

SHILO'S INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shilo's Catarrh Remedy. Price only 25 cents. W. T. Strong, 184 Dundas Street, London.

Ducks are a good deal like brokers. They live on margins.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confused with common Cathartics or Purgatives. Pills, as they are called, irritate the bowels in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

The gate to a forest should be secured with a hemlock.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, she will make her husband like a different person, at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

The place that kills—Running for a train.

Is Our Climate Changing.

The past two seasons have been so peculiar that thousands are attacked by coughs, colds, hoarseness, influenza, bronchitis, etc. To these we recommend Haysard's Pectoral Balm as the safest, surest and best remedy yet produced for all throat and lung troubles.

In Venice a gondolier is discharged when he is caught gondoleering at the ladies.

Peculiarities of the Hair.

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. J. H. Haysard's Great German Hair Magic will keep the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to lose it. Every druggist sells it. It is money well spent. See Dr. Haysard's advertisement in another column.

The age of a tree can be estimated by counting its rings, but it isn't so with a woman.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, relieves all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea, etc. a bottle.

It is no wonder that weather prophets make mistakes for a storm always comes up before it comes down.

Dizziness is a symptom of dyspepsia. It is caused by indigestion. Dr. J. H. Haysard's Blood Bitters for dizziness, which came over me in spells, so that I had to quit work for a while. The B.B.B. entirely cured me."

JAMES WRIGHT, Chesterfield, Ont. Awl that glitters is not gold, because awls are made of steel.

Across the Continent.

In thousands of households all over Canada the merits of Yellow Ointment, the great family medicine, are well known. It is esteemed as one of the best cures for rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia, sore throat, group, quinsy, sprains, bruises and all pain. Used externally or internally.

Passing away time—Handing over your watch to a footpad.

Let quality, not quantity, be the test of a medicine. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and purest extract of the best and purest ingredients. It is the surest and most economical blood medicine in the market.

Affections run to waist—A love of a corset.

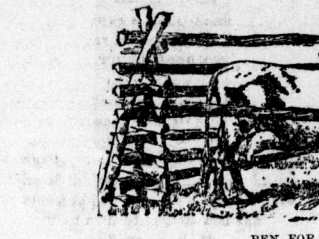

Fret not your life away because your hair is gray, while young, as you can stop all graying and can beautify the hair with Hall's Hair Renewer and be happy.

Bitter oranges, bitter oranges, Bitter oranges for marmalade. A. MOUTON.

City Hall.

TRAINING A HEIFER.

A man who is fit to have charge of dairy cows never "breaks" an untaught heifer to milk—he trains her. The former word implies the exercise of brute force, which should never be used with dairy cows, and the latter all with the timid young things which are just having their first experience in maternity and lactation. The writer of his had two young heifers, which had their first calves within a week of each other. The engraving shows how they were taught to stand still and be milked. The yard was inclosed by an old-fashioned rail fence, and the heifer came in the same way as she was enticed by a pail of feed into one of the angles. A light rail was then slipped into place just high enough to hold her there. She had always been accustomed to kind treatment and handling; so, after a little patting on the head, neck, side and below, the work of milking began by reaching under the rail. Of course she was frightened and indignant at first, but she was held where she could do no harm, and soon learned that she was not to be hurt. After two or three such lessons she stood

PEN FOR A HEIFER.

THE MENAGERIE GOT LOOSE.

The Margaret's Hall has a Creaky Time with Gorillas, Snakes and Crocodiles.

Captain Sargent has just brought the bark Margaret safely into Boston, England, from the west coast of Africa, after a remarkable voyage. Besides an ordinary cargo he had on board 400 parrots, a gorilla, an orang-outang, twelve snakes, two crocodiles and a number of monkeys, and these animals gave him more trouble than the several occasions, all of which, save four, perished. Then the snakes and crocodiles escaped from the hold and entered the forecastle, possession of which was disputed by the rats. This war raged for five days, during which the sailors were unable to get to their bunks, and only ended when the last of the snakes perished in an encounter with the surviving crocodile, whose career was cut short by some falling timber. During the war in the forecastle the monkeys escaped to the rigging, from which all the efforts of the sailors could not dislodge them. The wind and the sea, however, proved too strong, and all save four were swept overboard. But the most troublesome and dangerous of the living cargo was a powerful gorilla, five feet high, which was shut up and chained to a strong box on deck. He forced the roof of his prison, and having obtained possession of a heavy iron bar, commanded all objects within ten feet of where he was chained. With this formidable truncheon he threatened to brain every sailor who came within range. The black cook, one day, unwarily approaching him, the bar whistling through the air and ducked, but not in time to save his head, which was half scalped. Jumps and the unfortunate negro, and would doubtless have throttled him had not a sailor come up with a hatchet and stunned the monster, who was once more securely imprisoned. Of all the creatures destined for the museum of the gorilla, three monkeys, and four parrots reached England alive. Captain Sargent will think twice before taking on board a museum collection again.

Wouldn't Go Back on a "Pal."

London Correspondence Chicago News.] An amusing story is told in club circles of Lord Charles Bessford, and Mr. Gerald Cox, two of the most conspicuous swells about town. They were walking in a park one afternoon, and Mr. Cox was crossing a sweep of the lawn for a purpose. "No, I'll not give you a penny," said Sir Charles, gruffly; but then, as if a bright idea occurred to him, he added: "But I'll tell you what I will do. You see that constable yonder? Well, if you'll run across the street and mop your broom up and down his back, I'll give you half a crown." "Well, sir," said the boy, and away he started. Of course the policeman very properly resented the suggestion of having a small mop broom up and down his back, and he indignantly refused. He laid hands upon that small boy and proceeded to drag him to the station.

Dispassionate argument, the officer took Sir Charles to task, and, too, upon the grounds that he sought to interfere with a constable in the performance of his duty. About this time Mr. Gerald Cox came up and protested against the arrest of his friend. "Alas," quoth the well of his friend, "I'll have you run in, too." "I don't mind," said Mr. Cox, "but I'll have you run in, too." So the procession moved to the police station.

The inspector in charge gazed at the three culprits astutely; he was a shrewd fellow, and he had dealt with crime in all its phases all his life.

"So you have been interfering with the constable," said he solemnly. "A Now, tell me, what's your name?"

"Mr. Gerald Cox," answered the gentleman addressed.

Now, even the august and solemn inspector had a certain sense of humor, and the thought that any man charged with interfering with a constable should masquerade as the swell Mr. Cox struck the august and solemn inspector as a joke, a rare and mighty joke.

"Oh, you're Mr. Gerald Cox, are you?" said he sarcastically. "Yes, you look like Mr. Gerald Cox; very good—capital—ha, ha! And who are you, sir?"

"Sir Charles Bessford," said that gentleman.

This is the thinking of the august and solemn inspector, simply deepened, ramified, and complicated the joke.

"So you're Sir Charles Bessford, eh?" he chuckled, grimly. "Sir Charles Bessford, eh?" Well, this is splendid, splendid! And now tell me, my boy," said the inspector, turning to the small boy, "what's your name?"

The ragged little urchin was in a serious quandary. He looked at Sir Charles and Mr. Cox. "Look a-here," said he, "I don't know who you are or what's your name, but if I'm going back on a pal, I'm turning boldly to the inspector, he said, in a tone full of heroic confidence: "I'm der Dook of Wellington."

Struck With Lightning.

Neatly describes the position of a hard or soft corn when Putnam's Painless Corn Extract is applied. It does its work so quickly and without pain that it