AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL THEATRE
"Life's Greatest Game."
A vivid portrayal of the sinking of the Titanic with all the terrific thrills and heroic deeds which that great maritime tragedy involved, was presented at the Capitol theatre yesterday when the first presentation of a three-day run of "Life's Greatest Game" was made. The Titanic disaster is woven logically and interestingly into a human interest story and the background of this thrilling tale is America's national game of baseball. Johnnie Walker, supported by Thomas Satchel and Gertrude Olmstead, is the principal star of the picture. The quaint picturesque costumes of twenty-five years ago; the amusing vehicles, mannerisms and dress of an almost forgotten generation which seems to present-day ideas mid-Victorian; and the vivid contrast of a story which combines the present and the past with rare insight and judgment of dramatic values, make "Life's Greatest Game" one of the most unusual productions of the year.

"The Eastern Westerner" is another Harold Lloyd comedy which the Capitol theatre includes in this week's program. Harold Lloyd is at his best in this picture, a story of real wild west life, with bucking bronchos, dime novel cow boys and pistols galore.

A Pathe Review, showing interesting scenes of rice growing in Madagascar, completes an excellent bill. The Capitol "singing ushers" rendered a most pleasing popular selection yesterday, and the Capitol theatre orchestra provided a gratifying and appropriate score for the feature picture.

THE MAJESTIC
"Charley's Aunt."
Reaching the middle of the week without any relaxing of popular interest, "Charley's Aunt," that dear old comedy from the pen of Brandon Thomas, is playing to capacity houses at the Majestic theatre. In the hands of the Majestic Players the play loses nothing of its fun-making properties. The company is seen to advantage and in a new role. This is the first farce in which they have appeared in London this season. Whatever doubt the management may have felt at the time when it was decided to put on the time-honored comedy, has now been entirely dispelled. Every seat in the house has been taken every night, and the matinees have been as well attended. The company fits in easily with the hilarious mood of the play, and the energetic fun is maintained throughout. Londoners have rationalized this play so well that no one in future can justly accuse them of a lack of humor.

THE GRAND THEATRE
Blackstone.
Each night the great Blackstone has something new for the audience which attend his performances at the Grand Theatre. Last night was "spook night," and it was indeed a mystified group of volunteers from the audience who assisted at his remarkable table-moving scene, which followed the regular performance. Blackstone has issued a challenge to the people of London. He guarantees to get out of any box made for him, and to appear in his own box and tie him inside. Blackstone assured the audience last night that he would certainly get out.

The audience was also made that on Saturday afternoon Blackstone would give four dozen rabbits to the children, conjuring up these rabbits from the air.

The program presented is an excellent one this year as ever. Blackstone comes with many new and amazing feats of magic, which he has dressed in such a way as to satisfy the eye for beauty as well as the mind which delights in mysteries.

Among the spectacular numbers which "Blackstone" has in his repertoire, a variety of beautiful costumes are displayed by models which appear upon the stage as if from out of thin air. The closing number, all "Oriental Nights," is amazing in its cleverness and beauty. Here the magician makes a live horse disappear before the eyes of the audience.

LOEW'S THEATRE
"Tomorrow's Love."
"Tomorrow's Love," the feature picture, and "Nine o'clock," the concluding vaudeville act, are easily the leading lights of the bill at Loew's theatre for the last half of the week. The picture is a Paramount domestic comedy-drama, in which Agnes Ayres and Pat O'Malley co-star. It is adapted from the story, "Interlocutory," by Charles Brackett, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Raymond Hatton and Ruby Lafayette also contribute to the success of the picture.

"Nine o'clock" is something new in vaudeville, and is therefore a refreshing change for the audience. The teacher in the act is distinctly not hard to look at, while the men pupils sing well and are fun to watch.

Other vaudeville acts are: Nelson's Katland, novelty act; offering, in which cats and mice play together, and Lloyd and Ford, jokers and singers. The latter pair found it very difficult to get more than a laugh or two out of the audience. Their best gag was that "they are calling them flappers any more, but bungalows, because they are painted in front, shingled on top and nothing in the attic."

"Tomorrow's Love" is a picture that offers still another angle of the first-year marriage theme, and holds up trial divorce for criticism with an 80-year-old grandmother playing the role of the peacemaker. It is a merry mix-up of a young wife who divorces her husband and then decides she can't live without him.

"Saturday Morning" is the title of an intriguing Hal Roach comedy by "Our Gang."

The bill includes a Ford-Canada picture, "An Angler's Paradise," "Topics of the Day," and "Aesop's Fables."

New Vigilance Board Will Meet This Afternoon To Pick Chairman.

LEWIS SPEAKS
Educational Campaign Would Embrace Schools and Business Houses.

A city fire prevention committee, which will work in co-operation with the provincial fire chief, was appointed last night at a special meeting in the city hall. Representatives from the service clubs, women's clubs, and public bodies were present, and took an active discussion in the subject of fire prevention, on which Provincial Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis of Toronto spoke at length.

This committee, which will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the city hall to select a chairman and receive final instructions from the deputy marshal, consists of Ray Lawson, Mrs. Floyd Weiss, George Moll, Police Chief Birrell, Fire Chief Aitken, John Colbert, School Inspector Wheable, Mrs. A. T. Edwards, Frank Gray, R. J. Fuller, Edwin Smith and Harry Hayman.

Mr. Lewis, outlining his plan to encourage fire prevention in London, proposed that a questionnaire be given to every child in the public schools and colleges in the city which would be filled in by the parents and the child. These questionnaires would be returned to the department of the provincial fire chief, which would form the basis on which an accurate study of the fire hazard situation in London might be made.

Societies and bodies represented at the meeting included: Mothers' clubs of the city, local council of women, chamber of commerce, Women's Canadian club, University of Western Ontario, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions' club, Canadian club, ministerial alliance, public utilities commission, board of education, trustees of the city, boy scouts, Women's Labor party, the Labor Party of Canada and various city officials.

DEATH OF WINDSOR MAN LAID TO ODORLESS GAS

Wife and Three Children Are Recovering—Discount Poison Theory.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Windsor, Jan. 29.—Gas and not poison was the cause of the death of Jean Campeau and the serious illness of his family in Tecumseh Wednesday. This is the theory which is generally accepted here today.

Mrs. Campeau and the three children in hospital here, all of whom are recovering, discount the poison theory. Mrs. Campeau said today that there was nothing eaten by the family that could possibly have caused poisoning, and that some of the children ate food different from that consumed by the parents.

When the body of Mr. Campeau was first discovered there was no smell of gas in the house. It is considered certain now, however, that burned gas was responsible. This is almost a sure sign.

SEARCHER FINDS MAN DEAD ON CABIN FLOOR

Police Will Investigate Death of J. Wright, Whitefish.

Port Arthur, Jan. 29.—Not having heard from him for a couple of weeks, Mrs. Kate Bowerman, of Port Arthur, a few days ago sent Louis Swanson to the home maintained by her father, J. Wright, six miles from Whitefish, about 40 miles from here, where the man, aged 80, had been taking out pulpwood. Swanson returned reporting that he had reached the cabin and looking through the window saw the body of Mr. Wright lying on the floor; dressed but with his boots off. The door was open and a bench overturned and things generally upset.

There was half a dozen chickens, which are said to have been on the place, were missing.

Swanson did not attempt to enter the cabin, the door of which was locked.

Coroner Boyd and provincial police will make an investigation.

HERRIOT GIVEN CONFIDENCE VOTE

French Premier Secures Largest Vote of Career Following Security Speech.

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, Jan. 29.—Premier Herriot, adroitly walking the parliamentary slackwire, has succeeded in bringing the gulf separating the political conceptions of the right and left groups in the chamber, which he had widened by his security speech yesterday. Solidly behind him except for the communists, parliament today placed the seal of its approval on his foreign policy by the largest vote of confidence he has ever received.

Although his elimination of party lines was a big success for the premier, ministerial circles are under no illusions as to the duration of the reunion thus achieved; they know that it applies only to questions relating to France's security and will be broken as soon as matters of internal politics are again broached.

Nevertheless, the friends and opponents of the government feel that M. Herriot scored a personal success. The Socialists, who had decided to abstain from voting on the posting of the premier's address, went into caucus in the afternoon and M. Herriot was invited to make a statement to them. Socialist members attending this caucus said that the premier spoke to them with hitherto unknown severity and told them he was ready to relinquish the leadership in French affairs, but that his resignation would mean the end of their political influence in national matters.

CANADIAN ASBESTOS FIRMS MAY MERGE

Milling and Mining Interests To Join, Is Report.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Jan. 29.—Conferences held today between representatives of the asbestos corporations of Canada Limited, and Dillon, Read & Co., bankers, foreshadow a merger of most of the asbestos mining and milling companies of the Dominion, according to a New York paper. The paper says that a merger which may ultimately involve companies with total assets of $30,000,000 or $40,000,000 came into sight today.

At the offices of the bankers it was explained that while such a merger might be the ultimate outcome of the conferences now proceeding, negotiations were in such a tentative stage that it was not yet known what companies would be involved. The object of the movement would be stabilization of the Canadian asbestos industry, it was said.
