THE BOBCAYGEON SAGE thinks Ontario will gain very little from the development of the Northwest-indeed he thinks that this province is being bled for the benefit of the new provinces. The enormous taxation paid by Ontario and spent in Manitoba and the rest of the northwest will never come back. Farm lands in Ontario are being rendered less valuable because we are spending our money in the Northwest and hereby tempting our people to leave their homes here and seek new ones up there. Every farmer who leaves Ontario makes the burden for those remaining greater. But is not Ontario sentiment and Ontario ideas predominating in the new country, and will not that new country be of great value to us some day? It may or it may not; let us hope it

The Catholic world would have experienced a shock of indignation had it been told in 1870 that the practical outcome of the papal guarantees would be the conversion of a palace into a prison, from which voluntary exile would offer the sole means of escape. Such, however, seems to be at present he hard predicament in which Leo XIII, is placed. The unseemly demonstrations of enmity and vindictiveness which took place in the streets of Rome when the remains of Pius IX. were borne from their temporary to their permanent sepulchre, have been followed by such flagrant exhibitions of

THE CHARACTER OF CHRIST.

The annual sermon of the Methodist misonary society was preached in the Me-opolitan church last night by the Rev. George Douglas, president of the general conference. His text was Isaiah xlii., 1-4 money under false pretences at Rushville.

He had resorted to the crime in order to keep his engagement of marriage, and he thought that course was better, he explained, than to render himself liable to a suit for breach of promise. He was a gensupport and exponent of religion. Speaking of the tenderness of Christ, he said that suit for breach of promise. He was a gentleman, he hoped, and knew how to treat a lady. Still, the judge sent him to a penitentiary for six months.

A number of Kansas retail merchants have signed an agreement to buy no goods through drummers. "In some respects the system is a convenience," they say in a circular sent to Chicago and St. Louis firms; "but your agents occupy too much of our time, and are too little disposed to take no for an answer. We find that they quench the quivering hope of the penitent.

DR. LORD ON HILDEBRAND. Dr. Lord delivered the first of a series o through travellers in Ontario, but there seems to be nothing to complain about the system here.

Dr. Lord derivered the inst of a series of historical lectures in Shaftesbury hall last night, his subject being "Hildebrand; the Papal Power." The lecture opened with a boldly drawn sketch of the state of sopapal title, Gregory the Seventh, was destined to play the part of a reformer of these evils. He was a man peculiarly fitted by energy and courage for such a task. Moreover, he was perfectly unscrupulous about the means he employed, holding that they were justified by the great end he had in eforms for which he strove were the reestablishment of celibacy among the priests, which had been openly infringed, and the abclition of simony.

In this work of reform he soon found nimself opposed to the then emperor of Germany, and the account of the struggle between the two great potentates formed one of the finest portions of the lecture. Cursed with the terrible curse of excommunication, shunned by his own subjects as an unholy being, the emperor succumber and rendered to Hildebrand the most abject homage. This course the lecturer himself strongly condemed, holding that no threat should have induced him to sell his empireto the papal power.

Centenarians in America must look to their laurels. French papers report that there is now living at Luzy, in the department of the Saone-et-Loire, an old woman who born April 21, 1766, is now in her hundred

It was well understood, however, that the pope would often be constrained to leave his circumscribed dominions, whether to visit the most famous basilica of St.

Mrs. Garfield is comparatively well in health, but is deeply grieving over her loss. When the president left Mentor for Washington he leased the farm to Mrs. Garfield's brother for four years. Mrs. Garfield now of course, feels herself a guest there and though a welcome one, prefers to make a home of her own in Cleveland.

SIR,—So long as the Irish agitators in their demand exceeded not the bounds of reason, our sympathies were with them; but immediately they set themselves up as the virtuel rulers of their country and bid defiance to the British government in face of the fact that all was being done by the latter to ameliorate their condition that of the fact that all was being done by the latter to ameliorate their condition that could reasonably be expected; our sympathies were withdrawn. One cannot help feeling, as he traces back a few hundred years of Irish history, or rather English history, that the height of an Irishman's ambition is to be imprisoned for rebelling against the authority of the British government. This gives him a name which ever afterwards serves as a pass-word among his followed by such flagrant exhibitions of popular hostility toward his successor as the Italian government would not suffer to be offered to the official representatives of the weakest state in Europe. The indignities to which the pontiff has been subjected culminated on the Sunday before last, when he was constrained to steal privily through the streets to his throne in St. Peter's, in order to bestow his benediction on a great company of pilgrims assembled in the church. That he could not venture to perform this duty without humiliating precautions was de-> has labored beyond his strength endeavoring to legislate measurers of a consiliatory nature, but the unreasonableness of the agitators render abortive for the time being the working of those beneficial measures. As it was in the past, so we find it to-day, the greatest ememies of Ireland are not found among British statesmen, but among her own people, who obstruct legislation in the house of commons, simply for the sake of causing annoyance, and unwisely agitate and stir up discontent at home; collect and and stir up discontent at home; collect and squander the hard earned money of those whom they pretend to feel so much interest in, and for whose welfare they propose to be willing to die. They do their country enough to ask themselves this simple question, What should I do if I was in his place? We should then have but little of

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING "Brown's Household Panacea," has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago, and any kind of a pain or ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25cents a bottle and takes old ones for new ones.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers ! Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING pilgrims assembled in the church. That he could not venture to perform this duty without humiliating precautions was demonstrated by the fact that on the same day the pilgrims were insulted and assaulted by the crowd, who yelled "Death to the Pope!" and "Down with the Vatican!" It is not surprising that Leo XIII. under the stress of such painful circumstances, should have pointed out how gravely his dignity and security were impaired, and should have asked Catholics to pray for his liberty and midependence.

From these facts it is evident that the pepe's withdrawal from Rome is an important and pressing question in his court. The principal difficulty is to settle on a suitable asylum hither to retire. The island of Malta has been suggested but there are considerable difficulties in the way. A Spanish city has also been named, and it is even reported that Bismarck has health to the unreasonableness of the latter that the peaper and the course open to him, unless he showed the white feather and allowed 5,000,000 the monstrated by the fact that on the same day the pilgrims were insulted and assaulted by the fact that on the pope !" and "Down with the Vatican!"
