THE CAREER OF A SPY

The German spy and agitator, Dr. Pugen, has been arrested on the frontier of Afghanistan. All the recent disorders in Persia—which have cost the Persian people so dear—were the work of the celebrated doctor. Pugen began his career as a commercial agent in Ceylon; then he went to Madras where he exhibited a violent thirst for information, not altogether in keeping with the routine of a business man. Disturbances among the natives in certain towns were very carefully investigated by the British authorities, and revealed Dr. Pugen's activities as an agitator. He then unexpectedly left India on the steamer Sapho. For some time he travelled extensively, visiting France and Sweden, and roaming over Russia more than once from the German frontier to the Pacific Ocean. He took up his abode, at one time or another, in Mukden, Shanghai, Peking, in Japan and Saigon. His passion for travelling took Pugen a few times to Canada, the U. S. A., Australia, and the Argentine.

On the eve of the Russo-Japanese War he displayed an unusually energetic activity in Northern China, and on the outbreak of the present war he also acted under the direction of the German Minister in Peking. Through him he received instructions to transfer himself to Persia, where he achieved the results with which we are acquainted organizing a rebellion which has only just now been suppressed. Then feeling that his work in Persia was at an end, and that his life was in danger, Pugen decided to get into Afghanistan, where the previous efforts of German agitators to arouse an anti-British movement had so far been a complete failure.

Dr. Pugen as we now know, organized caravans of pilgrims going from Persia to Ganges, the sacred river. On their way they were to distribute proclamations and buy over the allegiance of influential individuals. These caravans were to make their way into India through Afghanistan and through Baluchistan but the loyalty of the Emir of Aguanistan and the tightly-drawn frontier guards of British troops between them brought the plan to nothing.—From the Novoye Vremya (Petrograd.)

FALL PAINTING

The fall of the year is a good time for people to paint their houses, and for two reasons. First, because it is a time when men are not so busy with regular farm work as they are in the spring, and second, because in the cooler weather paint takes the proper length of time to dry. It is also a well-recognized fact nowadays that a house well painted in the fall will withstand the destructive effects of winter snow and ice much better than the house which has not been recently painted. And so it is that each year in Canada as well as in the United States, there is an increasing interest in fall as well as spring painting. More of it is being done, particularly in the country districts.

We were interested this week to see the fine stock of house paints being shown by Crowe & Magee, the local agents of Brandram-Henderson, Limited who make the famous Brandram's B. B. Genuine White Lead and B-H "English Paint. We were interested to hear that the latter product is guaranteed to contain 70% of pure white lead and 30% of pure zinc, thus combining in the proper proportions the two pigments which assure the most serviceable paint. The consumption of this paint in Canada has increased enormously in recent years.

It may be news to some of our readers to learn that the Brandram firm has been in business in England since the latter part of the eighteenth century. The Brandram's were well known throughout the world for nearly a century before Canada had made any progress as a manufacturing country, and very early they established a Canadian connection. It was, in a great measure, from this connection that the necessity arose from the great lead works in Montreal operated by Brandram-Henderson, Limited. It is there that the supply of B. B. Genuine White Lead for Canada is now coroded and it is there also that the B-H "English" Paint is made. Any of our readers who will call at the local agents for B-H "English" Paint will be given full information regarding prices and also an estimate of the quantity required for each yard of surface he may wish to paint.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system. To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

ARROW POINTS

No power can hold the present.

There is something honorable in being useful.

Not all who sing about heaven are seeking heaven.

Why mistake a friend's warnings for a foe's woundings?

More than one Christian would bear a little more christianizing.

O to be truly saved
By God Almighty's grace;
For not one guilty soul can stand Before Jehovah's face.
