

The good people of Ontario, who during the past few months have been delighted with the addresses of Rev. John McDougall, our intrepid and devoted missionary among the North-West Indians, will be glad to learn that we have just issued a book from his graphic pen, entitled

FOREST, . . . LAKE & PRAIRIE.

TWENTY YEARS OF FRONTIER
LIFE IN WESTERN CAN-ADA, 1842-62.

BY J. E. LAUGHLIN.

MR. MCDUGALL gives us in the 267 pages of this book a narrative of the first twenty years of his life, all spent on the mission fields of the Methodist Church. Born in 1842, in the then frontier village of Owen Sound, at 17 our author moved with his father, the noble, heroic George McDougall, to the North-West.

Full of thrilling interest is his description of the journey to Norway House. When they landed at Fort Garry, en route, he writes: "I climbed the banks and saw the walls and bastions of the fort, and looked out northward on the plain, and saw one house. Where that house stood now stands the city of Winnipeg." The succeeding chapters are alive with stories of adventure by flood and field, and will be eagerly devoured by the boys.

The illustrations—the work of a clever young Toronto artist—add greatly to the interest.

This most interesting and attractive book gives a very full and readable history of the struggle between England and France for the supremacy on the North American Continent, in which the old fortress of Louisbourg played an important part. Full justice is done both in the illustrations and the letter-press to the magnificent scenery of this too little known part of the Dominion.
