

LICE AFFECTING THE DOMESTIC FOWL.

nized by its light yellow color and extreme activity on the birds. It has been recorded in America also from the pigeon and is said by some to attack horses if such are in close proximity to lousy birds. The writer has never seen horses so attacked.

MENOPON BISERIATUM.
(Piaget.)

This species is about .08 to .09 inches in length. The female has the body elongate and loosely jointed, the head short and the legs long. The abdomen tapers abruptly but slightly at the pos-