DIED IN THE WITNESS BOX. TERRIBLY SUDDEN DEATH OF THE VETERAN COL. DYDE

While Givlag Evidence in his Son's Behalf

in the Court of Queen's Bench.

THE WIDESPREAD REGRET OCCA. SIONED THEREBY.

The Court of Queen's Hench re-assembled as usual this morning, in order to proceed with the trial of John A. Dyde, who, as has been already reported, is on his trial for forgery. The first witness called by Mr. Kerr, Q.C., who appears for the prisoner, was the venerable Col. Dyde, the father of the accused, who has been present in court during the trial, looking as hale as his years would permit, but, as was natural, sorely tried by the ordeal his son was nassing through. The Court of Queen's Bench re-assembled as passing through, Colonel Dyde entered the witness box and was proceeding to explain the business relations, of a business character, existing between his son and Eckeradorff. An advertisement had been and Eckeradorii. An advertisement had been inserted in a paper for a partner and Eckers-dorff had replied. A certain sum was men-tioned as being involved, and as Eckersdorff was not known and could give no local re-ferences, it was decided to refer to Mr. Munder-loh, the German consul. Col. Dyde had proceeded so far, the last jurymen fors to their ites, and the contest, and in fact, all those who were tree, made a move-ment towards the old officer, for whom general sympathy has been felt during the two days of the trial. Dr. Mount, who was in Court, on examining the body, pronounced life

The sad event, it may be imagined, caused a worthy exhibition of teeling. The callousness bred by a constant and hide bound attendance on the routine proceedings of the courts was melted, and as the news spread the musty chamber in which the sad event had occurred was rapidly crowded by the shocked friends of was rapidly crowded by the snocked infinite of the decased. Previous to this Mr. Justice Ramsay, who was visibly affected, had risen and left the bench. The body of the deceased was then removed to the grand jury room. On the court resuming in half an hour, Mr. Justice Ramsay said that the event which had occurred prevented for the moment any further proceed ings, and that a juryman had been made so ill by what had occurred that it was absolutely necessary that a tranquilizing interval should elapse before proceeding. He would therefore suspend the court until two o'clock.

HIS LIFE.

The late Colonel Dyde was the son of Robert Dyde, Esq, merchant, of London, England, and was born about the 23rd of May, 1796. He received his early education in Devonshire, and emigrated when quite a boy to Canada, where he finished his education at the Montreal College. He has been connected with the Canadian militis longer than any man living in Mont-real to-day, and served during the whole Ameri-can war. He also took a prominent part as field officer in the rebellion of 1837-38, and for up made of the preserves and for up wards of ten years was colonel commandant of the active prigade of Montreal, consisting the active brigade of Montreal, consisting of seven battalions, together with cavalry and artillery. He was the first Lieutenant-Colonel of the First Prince of Wales Rifles, was Brig-adier of the 2nd Brigade during the Fenian raids, and in 1844, during the Maine difficulty, raised the Light Infantry regiment of militia, mustering 500 strong. He has been a Justice of the Pesce for the last thirty-eight years, and is an Honorary A.D.C. to Her Majesty. In the year 1822 he married Miss Eliza Henri-etts, daughter of William Johnson Holt (an officer taken prisoner with Burgoyne at Sara-toga). The venerable veteran was honored by remember the grand ovation tendered him a few years ago on the occasion of the 85th anniversary of his birth. As can readily be imagined the wider that the intelligence of his death was spread the wider became the re-gret at his untimely end. It had frequently been hinted that the trial of his son on such a charge would have a telling effect on him, and it was even suspected that should the son be convicted his death would probably follow, but no one had looked for such an occurrence as was witnessed in the Court House this morning. The suddenness of the event, and the remark able character of the victim, will not soon be forgotten by those who were present at the trial s morning, and the unfortunate son, now standing his trial, and who was naturally greatly affected, enjoys the sympathies of his numerous friends. An inquest was not deemed necessary, and the body was this afternoon removed from the Court House to the late residence of the deceased. Arrangements will probably be made with the relatives of the deceased to accord him a military funeral, which will probably take place on Monday next.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT. THE ISISH QUESTION.

LONDON, March 4 -In the House of Lords this afternoon, the Earl of Kimberley, Secretary for India, gave notice that he would submit a motion for the appointment of a committee to enquire into the administration of government in India.

LONDON, March 4 .-- On the meeting of the House of Commons this afternoon Mr. Holmes, Conservative. offered the motion of which he had given notice. It was to the effect that "the house, before voting on the Irish estimates, wishes to know what policy the Government has agreed upon to restore and the land question and the question of the future government of Ireland. These subjects were inextricably associated. The Government was really entitled to three months' time for the preparation of Irish measures. Mr. Gladstone characterized Mr. Holmes attack as one of the foeblest ever made upon the executive branch of the Government. The introduction of the motion was really tanta-mount to justifying coercion to which the Col. Dyde had proceeded so far, the last words he ever uttered in life being those which referred to the German consulate, when he suddenly stopped, drew up the stalwart and venerable form so familiar to the oldest of our community, and fell back, in his fall striking the wall behind the witness box. Several of the jurymen rose to their feet, and the counsel, and in fact all those who were tree, made a move-Government would be no party. If the late Government had proposed coercion the mere preaching order and delighted that the league was meading its manners.

CHURCHILL AND GLADSTONE.

Lord Churchill justified the motion on the ground that there was danger that Mr. Gladstone would iull the country to torpor. He said he was unable to conceal the fact that he once hoped the Tories might co-operate with the Parnellites on the land and education questions. There was no reason why the Parnellites, on finding Parliament op-posed to repeal, should not join either the Liberals or the Conservatives. He now found that he omitted from his calculations the fact that Mr. Gladstone was will-ing to repeal the union. He chal-lenged any member of the Government to deny that the policy proposed was repeal. Receiving no reply he continued, saying there were two executives in Ireland, the National League being the stronger. A motion to adjourn the debate was rejected by a vote of 364 to 160 Lord Hartington and Sir Henry 364 to 160. Lord Hartington and Sir Henry James supported the Government. Sir Michael Hicks Beach remarked that in view of the silence of the Ministers, the Conservatives were satisfied with the result of the protest that had been made and would not call for a division. Mr. Holmes' motion was withdrawn. The Parnellites admit that Mr. Gladstone's speech was a very brilliant one, and they express themselves as highly satisfied with it. LONDON, March 4.- The Parnellites have decided to array themselves against the Tories in their attempt to force the Government to show their hand on their policy during the debate which is expected to begin to night on the civil service estimates. The Conservatives have arranged to have Mr. Holmes, the Conservative member for Dublin University and lately attorney-general for Ireland, inter rupt the Government's proposition to go into committee on the civil service estimates by an amendment declaring that the House etta, daughter of William Johnson Holt (an officer taken prisoner with Burgoyne at Sara-toga). The venerable veteran was honored by Her Majesty the Queen in 1875 with the title of C. M. G. In private life he was regarded as a man of sterling character and affaoility, and won for himself a large circle of friends On the field he was recognized as an officer of great ability, thoroughly versed in all matters regarding military affairs and ever ready to offer his services to the State. Of late years, however, owing to his extreme age (nearly nowever, res however, owing to his extreme age (nearly tions. Mr. Parnell has, however, resolved to 90 years), he has been living a retired go to Mr. Gladstone's rescue. The Irish life and many of our citizens will easily leaders are satisfied that in view of the Fremier's promise to state his Irish policy after the 22nd of March, at which date he expected to be through with the Government's financial business, he is entitled to be protected from disturbance on that issue until after the expiration of the time asked for. Accordingly, the Parnellites this afternoon resolved to oppose in a body Mr. Holmes amendment. This will undoubtedly give the Government all the votes necessary to defeat the amendment.

the vicinity of the accident. Mr. Irwin, commercial traveller, of Toronto, was fatally injured. Although a number of other passengers were very seriously hurt, Irwin's case is the only one reported as likely to prove fatal. When the cars went through the bridge conductor Morris, who was in charge of the train, was caught between two broken timbers and firmly held as the cars fell on the ice of the river. The car in which he was seated at the time of the accident was one of those which was subs quently burned. The passengers and train hands were unable to extricate him from his train hands were unable to extricate him from his perilous position until the flames of the burning car had actually reached his body and he was in great dauger of being roasted alive. The con-ductor's book and receipts in his coat pocket were burned. One of the passengers heard him say: "My Gol, am I to be left here to be burned to death." Stronuous and successful efforts were then made to release him from his terrible position, Mrs. Crawford, of l'eterboro, and several other ladies were badly hurt. One of these was a young married woman who was in an interesting condition, and it is feared the shock she received may lead to serious results. The brakesman of the trans was injured about the chest, but not fatally.

UGLY ENOUGH TO STOP A CYCLONE.

Senator Ingalls of Kansas is ugly, a point upon which he is extremely sensitive, and he tries to counteract his natural misfortune in this respect by affecting an elegance of attire that is positively dudish. The other day he was just entering the Senate chamber with his colleague, when the latter was called to one side, and Senator Ingalis dropped into the chair usually occupied by the doorkeeper, but which was at that moment vacant. A moment later there strode down the corridor a big Westerner with the prairie mud clinging to his heels and an application tor office in his pocket. With a glance of withering contempt he came up to the supposed door keeper, and, sticking out his card, said :

"Here, you dude, trot out Senator Ingalls t"

Ingalls was half dazed at the suddenness of the situation, and, jumping to his feet, asked :

" Do you know Ingalls ?"

"No, I don't," was the reply, "but you won't have any trouble in picking him out, for he's so ugly that his photograph will stop a cyclone on sight."

The Senator almost fainted at this shot, but he had nerve enough left to ask : "Is he any uglier than I am ?"

Wild West gazed for a moment into the distorted features of the Senator, and then replied : "Well, if I thought he had a worse lookin mug than you have, I'd wait until dark to come near him."

This was enough, and Ingalls slipped out, leaving his constituent denouncing doorkeepers in general.

HEALY S OPINION.

In an interview to-day, Mr. Healy (Nationalist) said it was evident that Mr. Gladstone was determined to fulfil his pledges on the lines of his Midlothian manifesto, even if he should be compelled to throw overboard Mr. Chamberlain and the other members of the Cabinet. Mr. Gladstone's speech contained no definite indication of his modus operandi, but the Parnellites would be per-fectly satisfied with the result of the division.

THE FRENCH CHAMBER DECIDES NOT TO EXPEL THE PRINCES.

PARIS, March 4 .- Amid great excitement the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon rejected a motion for the immediate expulsion of the French Princes from France. The vote against the measure was 345 to 176 in favor. The motion had been favored by an almost unanimous vote at a conference of the party of the Extreme Left; was fostered by M. Clemenceau, and by him advocated with great eloquence in the debate. M. de Freycinet led the opposition to the measure. His argument was a cogent statement of the reasons why such an extreme expedient was unnecessary at the present time. The proposed expulsions, calmly declared M. de Freyoinet, are needless after the recent electoral victories gained by the Republic. France is in the midst of a commercial and industrial crisis. The depression in trade will not be remedied by the expulsion of the princes. Let us grapple with more pressing questions. France requires a calm just now. It was in vain that M. Clemenceau, after this, hotly maintained that the princes were conspiring against the Republic and that the Republic should expel them as a legitimate means of defence. The House simply overmeans of defence. The House simply over-whelmed him with its adverse majority of 169. The debate was then continued on the other motions before the Chamber concerning the princes. M. Rivet's proposal to leave to the Government the initiative of the expulsion of the princes was rejected by a their determination to do their duty by the voie of 333 to 188. An order of the day fishermen in case nothing comes of the nego-expressing confidence in the capacity of the tiations between the United States and Government to deal with the question was adopted by a vote of 353 to 112.

DUBLIN, March 4.—A deputation of Presby-terians to-day presented to the Earl of Aber-deen, the Lord Lieutenant, an address of wel-come on behalf of the General Assembly. The address assures the Government of the unwaver-ing loyalty of the assembly, and insists that the maintenance of the union in its fullest integrity is essential to the peace of Ireland. It declares that half a million of 1rish Presbyterians will oppose to the utmost any attempt to sever the union. Lord Aberdeen replied briefly, saying he hoped that at no distant date an era of peace would be inaugurated in Ireland.
