

December
Fourth
1922.

Dr. Norman Kerr,
25 East Washington Street,
Chicago, Ill.

My dear Dr. Kerr:-

Your note of December 2nd enclosing telegram for me reminds me of a duty which I must discharge at once. The contents of the telegram were 'phoned to me from your office to the hotel and I was able to attend to it while in Chicago.

When I went to the office of the Blackstone on Friday night to pay my bill I found that it had already been taken care of by instructions from you. Let me thank you most sincerely for this courtesy. In the hurry of getting away on Friday night I am afraid I did not convey to you as warmly as I would like my thanks for all your kindness while in Chicago, for the opportunity of meeting so many McGill men and women, and also for the privilege of taking part in that most enjoyable function held in the University Club. Mr. Johnson was most kind and attentive.

Please give my kindest regards to all the members and say to them I hope if any of them come to Montreal they will come and see me.

With all good wishes, I am,

Yours faithfully,

Principal.