

Russell v. the Queen, 104-107.

Rykert, Mr.; certain charges against him referred to committee of privileges and elections, 200.

SADLER, JAMES; expelled, 196, n.

Sale of Spirituous Liquors. See License Acts.

Saturday; house does not generally meet on, 291; committees may meet, 507, 508; house sometimes sits on, at close of session, 291.

Schedules to bills, 583; when considered in committee of the whole, 618.

Seal. See Great Seal.

Second reading; of bills, 602 et seq.; of resolutions, 448, 559, 560.

Seigniorial Tenure; established, 4, 5; abolished, 34.

SENATE; its constitution, 61, 62; present organization, 139; qualifications of senators, 140; renewal of declaration of property qualification, Ib.; addition to number, 142; vacancies, 142, 143; questions of qualifications and vacancies, how determined, Ib.; introduction of new senators, 143; members must not be interested in certain contracts, 177; attendance, 190; indemnity, 191; places, 201; speaker, how appointed, 202; his functions, 203; clerk, 204; clerk assistant, Ib., 205; gentleman usher of the black rod, Ib.; serjeant-at-arms, Ib.; chaplain, 206; committee of contingencies, Ib.; accounts, Ib.; audited, 207; minutes of proceedings, Ib.; journal, Ib.; reading room, 230; admission to galleries, 223, 224; official reports, 227; privileges, immunities and powers, 234 et seq.; rules, orders, and usages, 259, 260, 263; revision of the same, 261; use of the French language, 267; proceedings at opening of parliament, 270 et seq.; after an appointment of new speaker, 271; the mace, Ib.; proceedings on the election of Commons' speaker, 278; consideration of speech, 272, 273; prorogation, 286; days and hours of meeting, 291; adjournment over holidays, Ib.; long adjournments, 292; decease of members, 293; adjournment during pleasure, 297; quorum, 298; prayers, 299; order of business; 301; urgency given to government measures, 313, n.; presentation of petitions, 315; form of same, 318, 319; money petitions, 323; reflections on house, 326; orders and addresses for papers, 330, 334; papers refused, 337, et seq.; printing, 343; addresses to queen or governor-general, 351, joint addresses, 352-354; of congratulation, 354-356; on retirement of governor-general, Ib.; messages from governor-general, 360; respecting pecuniary aid, 362; notices of motion, 366; questions of privilege, 375 et seq.; questions put by members, 381-383; amendments, 385 et seq.; dilatory motions, adjournment of house or debate, 394; previous question, 398; revival of question in same session, 400 et seq.; deportment of senators whilst speaking or in their places, 405; their precedence in debate, 407; rules limiting debate, 416, et seq.; manner of addressing other senators, 425; rules for the preservation of order, 427 et seq.; words taken down, 434-437; taking a division, 446 et seq.; may enter a protest against action of majority, 454; senators having a direct interest in a question do not vote thereon, 458, 459; messages to house by clerks, 460; requesting attendance of a member of either house as a witness, 461, 462; leave given to senators or officers to attend committees of the Commons, Ib.; conference with the Commons, 463-465; joint committee on library and printing,

SENATE—continued.