OUR REMEMBRANCE LAW COURTS.

The provisions of the Act of 1887 extending the powers of the Consumers' Gas Company are in the main favorable to the consumer. Where the Act is deficient in failing to provide effective machinery for carrying out its intention, the machinery provided consists of the law courts, which are run by the legal profession and the judges. It would be difficult to devise a more cumbersome and ineffective system for carrying out the provisions of the Act than these same law courts. They move too slowly. There is too much etiquette about them. They are too technical. As a debating society they may have their good points, but these are outweighed when considered from a business point of view. It seems impossible to get the simplest issue squarely before them.

THE REUNION OF CHRISTENDOM.

Pope Leo would be delighted to witness the reunion of Christendom. So would most of the Christian denominations. The only objector to Leo's proposal is that it contemplates the surrender of all the other religious bodies to Catholicism. It is a case of the union of the lion and the lamb. HOW TO MEET THE GAS COMPANY.

There are two ways of proceeding against the Consumers' Gas Co. One is to continue the litigation that has been set in motion to carry the case to the Privy Council. This is a slow and uncertain process, but it should be proceeded with in any event. The other course is for the city to make an effort to take over the business works of its own. The city is by no means helpless in this respect. If an advertisement is inserted in the technical journals to the effect that the city of Toronto is prepared to treat with another gas company we will obtain propositions from reliable firms that will surprise the public. Such an advertisement would elicit the fact that half
