"If Mr. McEvoy saw the September entries on Friday in this book, you could not contradict him?" realized that it was face to face with the first real reverse of the enquiry.

The damage was not to the charges which threaten exposures in the Ross government. It was the personal character of R. R. Gamey that suffered, or rather seemed to suffer, for so far the suspicions have not been converted into facts, and the member for Manitoulin is still to be heard from. What gave the developments their sensational feature was the absence of Mr. Gamey from the court-room.

"No."

Was It to Conceal Source?

A further development raised the suspicion that Mr. Gamey, in an effort to conceal the source of the $900, went to the Ontario Bank, secured the deposit slip and made out a new one. The bank noticed the change, and a messenger and the receiving teiler, apparently, had a lively chase, looking for the original deposit slip. They did not find it.

"Did you write a slip, or a deposit slip or a deposit slip on Saturday?" Mr. Crossin was asked.

"No."

OLD SONGS SUNG WITH VIGOR MEMBER FOR MANITOULIN IS MISSING.

At midnight Mrs. R. R. Gamey was interviewed by a World man at 274 Palmerston Ave.: "I do not know where my husband is," she said: "he left Sat urday afternoon to see a man, saying he would return Tuesday evening. I do not know what man he went to see or where." Mrs. Gamey said she was not disturbed by the rumors about her husband.

The absence of R. R. Gamey is provoking the wildest excitement all over Ontario. He has not been seen in Toronto since 4.30 Saturday afternoon, when he left the Walker House with a grip saying he was going out of town to spend Sunday. He left a grip with his friend W. R. Smyth, M.L.A., saying he would return Monday. His friends received the impression that he had gone to Oshawa, where his wife has relations. A World correspondent was rushed there at midnight. John Gamey, father of the member for Manitoulin, was found there; he was visiting his daughter, Mrs. White. R. R. Gamey is not there, and has not been there. The old gentleman was in Toronto Friday to see his son; at that time, he said, R. R. Gamey was stopping with his wife at 274 Palmerston Ave. Mrs. R. R. Gamey was going to North Bay Saturday afternoon, but the father said her sixteen-year old son was going with his mother and that if R. R. Gamey had any trip in view at that time he did not know of it.

The Gamey counsel admit their annoyance over his absence. They say they cannot understand it, but express confidence that he will be present when the case opens to-day. They say they do not know where he is, tho the developments in the case yesterday make his presence imperative. A delegation of friends from Manitoulin were in the World office last night loud in their protestations of confidence. The World received enquiries from Ottawa, Montreal and many other points by phone last night, indicating the general excitement. Considering the extras published by the afternoon papers and the general nature of the alarm, Mr. Gamey's absence is consided extraordinary, but everything indicates that he will appear for the trial to-day. In any event, the investigation will go on.

What Counsel Thought.

His counsel seemed to think that he was absent from the city. Mr. Stratton's counsel by their knowing smiles apparently thought it probable that he was absent from the country.

"Do you know where he is?" asked E. F. B. Johnston.

"I have not the least idea," responded Edward Crossin, who was under cross-examination at the time.

"Have you seen him?", enquired the Chancellor.

"I have not seen him, My Lord, nor had the least idonnamed the The public will not, however, allow its suspicions of Mr. Gamey's bona fides Inspectors to Be Changed Around as Chancellor."

"No. My Lord."
These enquiries for R. R. Gamey and the rather dismal responses followed a sensitional revelation to the effect that the leaf in Mr. Crossin's cash book covering transactions of Sept. 10 and 11, were missing.

Point That Caused Trouble.
The transactions in question covered the deposit of $900 in the Ontario Bank by Mr. Gamey on the same day he deposited in the Traders' Bank the Sixon was prepared to put in Sixon which the brile phoney obtained by Frank S. Sullivan and himself. It was evidently the Sixon which the following had secured more than $1500, and that he failed to mention anything about the $900, which he deposited on the Sixon which the Sixon which the filed to mention anything about the $900, which he deposited on the Sixon which the same day.
