TURN HAS COME IN
U. S. TRADE BALANCE,
FINANCIER DECLARES

Believes Exports to Europe Must Diminish.

AND IMPORTS INCREASE
Such a Condition To Be Hoped For Rather Than Deplored.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 23.—The United States faces the problem of extending by next summer approximately two billion dollars in international credits to the war-torn countries of Europe. Dwight W. Morrow, of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., declared in an address on "The Problem of International Credits" before the International trade conference here tonight. He said that the people of this country would have "to produce and save" to aid in this big financial plan.

European countries were not coming to the United States seeking charity, Mr. Morrow said, but they were asking us, in our strength, to co-operate with them in their strength to rebuild and restore their productive capacity. In explaining that the export balance between this country and Europe vitally affects the problem of international credits, Mr. Morrow said that the excess of merchandise exports from the United States over imports from July 1, 1914, to July 1, 1919, amounted to approximately $14,200,000,000. He asserted that this export balance was settled by the payment of $940,000,000 in gold imports, $945,000,000 loaned by the United States Government, $2,575,000,000 loaned by private enterprises of this country, and the remainder "apparently settled by invisible items."

Demand Still Big.
During the first seven months of this year the excess exports totalled $2,675,000,000, Mr. Morrow said. He explained that this "indicated that the demand upon America by a world endeavoring to put itself back on a peace footing is fully as great as the demand the war itself made."

"I believe, however, the turn has come," he continued. "I believe that the exports by the United States to Europe must gradually diminish and the imports into this country from Europe must gradually increase. Neither of these results should be deplored."

At this time, when we are complaining of the high cost of living, we should welcome an increase in our imports of those things that Europe can make for us better than we can make them for ourselves."

In closing, Mr. Morrow asserted that if the United States were to extend $2,000,000,000 in credit to Europe in a single year the people "must produce and save." He also said that private enterprise and individuals who had money to lend must "find people in Europe to whom they are willing to lend it."
