SEPARATION ALLOWANCES FOR SOLDIERS WHO MARRY AFTER ENLISTMENT
The Dominion government has passed an order-in-council by which the wives of soldiers who marry after enlistment, under certain regulations, may receive the separation allowance. A time limit of twenty days from the time of joining is placed on the marriage, but the consent of the commanding officer of the regiment must be secured in advance to qualify for the allowance.
Church Parades.
The visit of the soldiers of the 26th Battalion and the Army Service Corps to the North End yesterday brought out large crowds of people to witness their marching and to attend the services. One detachment of the 26th went to St. Paul's where Rev. E. B. Hooper preached, while the others went to St. Luke's where a sermon was given by Rev. R. P. McKim, and to St. Peter's, where Rev. Charles McCormick, C. S. S. R., was the speaker. After the mass he also officiated at the presentation of scapulars to each of the men. Included among those at St. Peter's were some members of the Army Service Corps, while the main body of that unit attended St. Matthews where Rev. J. J. McCaskill gave a timely sermon.

His Lordship will also address them at Holy Communion tomorrow morning at 10.30 o'clock. At 2.30 p. m. tomorrow there will be roll call and Bishop Richardson will deliver his annual charge to the clergy of the diocese. In Trinity tomorrow night Bishop Farthing will preach at a public service.

GREAT WORK OF THE RED CROSS
Annual Meeting of The Canadian Society
ROYAL DUKE PRESENT
Statements by President and Central Council Tell of Effective Operations—The Finances For The Year

In the presence of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, patron of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and distinguished citizens from all parts of the Dominion, the annual meeting of the society was held in Toronto on Friday Jan. 29. A large audience applauded with enthusiasm when eminent speakers told of what the society was accomplishing for the relief of suffering and misery in the war and for the general comfort of the brave soldiers of Canada. Not since the inception of the society in 1896 has its meeting drawn together so large a number of men of Canada. Everyone present seemed to realize the solemnity of the occasion and the flag of the allies which hung on the platform from vividly before all the terrible struggle in which the great nations of the world are engaged.

His Royal Highness entered the building from the platform entrance to the strains of the national anthem. He was accompanied by Colonel G. Sterling Byson, president and founder of the society; Noel Marshall, chairman of the executive committee; Colonel Mason, honorary treasurer; T. Harcourt Vernon, general secretary; His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Hendrie, Mayor Charles Bishop, V. O. Archbishop McNeil, Doctor Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, President Hendrie, Hon. G. Lucas, Hon. W. H. Hanna, Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Bishop of Saskatchewan, Colonel Sweeney, Colonel A. E. Gooderham, Major-General Lessor, Rev. Dr. Chown, Rev. T. Crawford Brown, and many others.
Among the ladies present were Lady Borden, Mrs. Plumpré, superintendent of supplies; Mrs. Hendrie, Mrs. Harcourt, Mrs. Byson, Mrs. P. G. Lucas, Hon. W. H. Hanna, Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Bishop of Saskatchewan, Colonel Sweeney, Colonel A. E. Gooderham, Major-General Lessor, Rev. Dr. Chown, Rev. T. Crawford Brown, and many others.

The Duke of Connaught spoke of the pleasure which it gave him to be present. He had followed with deep interest the progress of the work of the whole of Canada had responded to the appeals of the society. It afforded him the fullest satisfaction to know that the many reports testifying to the excellent administration, careful supervision and high standard of the work of the society were being done by the society.
"It is due to them," he said, "that we have the excellent hospitals at the front and on Salisbury Plain. It is the merit of the Canadian army medical corps that has conducted to the common good of anybody who has had anything to do with any large institution will recognize the splendid enthusiasm of several purpose in administration. I had a letter from my sister, Princess Christian, the other day, 'she is one of the oldest members that I know of in the society and in it she says: 'I would like Canadian soldiers to know how grateful I am for having them so generously support me in getting up the ambulance train which I have started.'"

"I am here to tell you," concluded His Royal Highness, "how much I appreciate the splendid enthusiasm of the Canadian people in supporting the great work of the Red Cross Society."
"It is a long time since we have met in time of war," said Colonel Byson, in his presidential address, "and I hope it will be a long time before we meet again in time of war." After informing the meeting of the manner in which the organization, when war was declared, began the accumulation of money and stores to be used in its work of caring for the sick and wounded, he said: "We regard ourselves as trustees for the people that nothing may be wasted and the wishes of the donors may be carried out."

commissioner, and announced that the society was now making a special effort to provide more motor ambulances for the Canadian contingents. No fewer than twenty-eight of these had already been provided by the people of Canada.
One weakness at present, he thought, was the need for consulting physicians and surgeons. This need could be met as some prominent Montreal and Toronto doctors had offered their services. He acknowledged the society's debt to the organizations which had contributed the funds and declared that all the money would be administered in a careful and systematic manner.
"We are not going to be led astray," concluded Colonel Byson, "by any wild appeals or sensational reports, but we are adopting a system of making careful enquiries before we take action and the people of Canada may rest assured that whatever we do will be done after due thought and consideration and through investigation. I thank you for what you have done for the sick and wounded. It is our duty to see that the men at the front receive what is their every assistance from the Canadian people." (Cheers.)

The report of Colonel Mason showed total receipts of $278,170.24. The balance from last year was $480,449. From Women's Institutes alone $20,128.58 was received and from the Red Cross branches $168,135.05. The disbursements are: British Red Cross Society for hospital train coach, $9,284; British society for general purposes, $78,776.85; Cleveland hospital, $8,900; Canadian Commissioner in London for purchase of motor ambulance and equipment, $24,676.97; Hospital and service supplies, $82,040.60; ambulance and equipment, $7,088.10. A balance of $102,968.28 remains.

A glowing tribute was paid to Colonel Byson and Noel Marshall by Sir John Gibson, K. C. M. G., formerly Lieutenant-governor of Ontario.
Great Things Done
The following are the main points in the president's address:—"In presenting the report of the Canadian Red Cross Society for the year 1914 the reader will be impressed with the active work of the society and with its great extent. He will observe that not only have we supported the hospitals at Quebec, Valcartier and Toronto exhibition grounds, but we have sent very large quantities of stores to England for distribution to the Canadian hospitals, there and through the British Red Cross Society, to the hospitals at the front.
"Will also be observed that we have contributed eight motor ambulances for the Canadian contingent of which one was supplied by the Dr. Brooke, Que., and one by the southern Alberta branch. We desire to increase the number of ambulances for the contingent up to twelve and we would be pleased if any of the branches would contribute the remaining four.
"We have also given to the British Red Cross Society twelve motor ambulances which are now in operation and have proved to be of good service. A novel feature is a traveling field kitchen. This kitchen which is driven by motor power, moves in rear of the fighting line and is capable of supplying with hot soup, hot coffee and bread 500 men a day. The importance of giving to men who have recently been wounded, some nourishing food is obvious. This kitchen will be of great service to the contingent.
"Her Royal Highness Princess Christian is organizing a hospital train of the same pattern consisting of several coaches, a dispensary, operating room and a kitchen, besides quarters for nurses, orderlies and doctors, in charge of the train. This train will carry 800 men and is the second of the kind which has been organized for service in France and will be ready and in running order by the end of January.
"The Canadian Society was only too glad to contribute the cost of one coach, $8,900.
"The Red Cross Society," concludes Col. Byson, "appeals to the minds and hearts of the people of Canada and we would be lacking in our duty did we not use prudent and wise measures to effect the object they have in their minds, namely, the relief of distress suffering from the war."
The report of the central council, which was presented by Noel Marshall, was, in part, as follows:—"The policy outlined in last year's report of the central council, namely, to enlarge the organization of the society throughout Canada and create new provincial and local branches, has been the chief aim and endeavor of the executive during the year.
The declaration of war gave a great impetus to the movement and aroused a widespread interest in the society's work. There are now seven provincial and 180 local branches to which warrants have been sent on completion of organization and most of them are doing excellent work.
The executive, through the central council, appeals to the officers of the numerous branches, both provincial and local, to conform to the rules and instructions already established under the authority of act of parliament for the support of the Canadian Red Cross Society and to refrain from individual action which is calculated to impair the efficiency of the society's work. The council considers it also advisable to impress upon all branches that the scope of the society's operations is strictly restricted to the amelioration of the sick and suffering soldiers, either from wounds or disease, and is in no way connected with the supply of material comforts of the men in health, which is primarily the duty of the state supplemented by other existing patriotic organizations. The strict observance of this duty to the sick and wounded only ensures the success of the society's work and for the wearers of the Red Cross emblem that immunity from hostile attack which alone renders their beneficent work possible on behalf of those, without distinction of friend or foe, requiring their help.
After speaking of the valuable work performed by Mrs. Plumpré, the superintendent of supplies, the report concludes:—"The council desires to express its gratitude and appreciation of the earnest work performed by the several branches of the society and the cordial co-operation of the national committee for patriotic service and all the societies associated under that body."
Premier Hearst, in moving a vote of thanks to the officials of the society, paid a tribute to the women of Canada but had never felt so proud of them as today. They had not only given their sons and husbands to fight for the freedom of the empire but were themselves giving up their time to work ungrudgingly for the future welfare of the nation.
Doctor Falconer expressed his deep sense of gratitude to H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught and to the duchess who had decided to remain in Canada during this period of stress and trial. By their example they had helped the people of Canada to do their duty. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem and the rendering of an outburst of cheering for the Duke of Connaught.

By using Windsor Table Salt it's made in Canada

RECENT DEATHS
Many will learn with regret of the death of Alice Mildred Daley, daughter of Annie and the late David A. Daley, who died yesterday at the home of her mother, 86 Adelaide street after a long illness. She was 24 years of age and leaves to mourn, besides her mother, two sisters, Marjorie and Annie, and seven brothers, Walter S., William R., Sydney S., David S., and Kenneth S., of this city, Arthur A., of No. 5 Canadian Army Service Corps and Hollis C., with the first Canadian contingent at Salisbury Plain.
John F. Downey, almost a life-long resident of Kestevenville, Kings county, died on Jan. 30 at his home there. He had been ill only a day and the suddenness of his death was a shock to the entire community. He leaves no family. His wife died several years ago. The funeral will take place on Tuesday.

George A. Perry died recently at the home of his brother-in-law, Alexander Wilson of Glasville.
Mrs. Charlotte Ross, widow of Frederick Ross, died in Peel recently at the age of seventy-two. She leaves four sons, Dr. D. W. Marrysville, Edward and Wallace in the west, and Russell of Peel, Alberta. Mrs. Harrison Ridout and Mrs. Wilnot Ridout are daughters.

Hesekiah Baker of Victoria Corner, died recently in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He leaves his wife, three sons, A. G. Baker, Hartland; Carey and Theophilus of Victoria Corner and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Albright and Mrs. Herbert Oliver of Victoria Corner.

HAD DYSPEPSIA
So Bad Could Not Take a Drink of Water Without Suffering.

Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure. You eat too much. Drink too much. Use too much tobacco. You make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of a short time before dyspepsia follows.

Miss Sarah McRae, Newfield, Ont., writes: "I write to say that I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters, and have found it the best remedy I have ever used for dyspepsia. Two years ago, I had stomach trouble so bad that I could not even take a drink of water without suffering. I took six bottles of B.B.B., and have been entirely cured, and can now eat anything without any bad after effects."
Burdock Blood Bitters is an old and well tried remedy but on account of the many substitutes we would ask you to make sure that our name appears on both the label and wrapper as this preparation is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
