SOCIETY TATTOOS TO TRICK AGE!

Debutantes Want To Be Assured of "Beauty" Through Life

NOT ONLY THE BUTTERFLY, BUT THE SHAPELY LIPS AND YOUTHFUL CHEEKS ARE OBJECTS OF THE TATTOOER'S ART.

(By George Bitt.)
Chicago.—Beauty, instead of being painted on daily, is being indelibly tattooed on the faces of society. Cupid bow lips and pink cheeks are becoming the products of the tattooer's needle rather than the debutante's compact. For tattooing among society is "the thing" nowadays. It is youth's endeavor to battle unconqueringly. Authority for this innovation is Dr. Henry J. Schireson, surgeon who straightened Fannie Brice's nose and who specializes in cosmetics. "No more rouge and lipstick for the debutante," says he. "Down to old age her cheeks will have the flush of beauty." Modern society tattooing runs the gamut from life-like inconspicuous and lips to black birthmark patches on the face and bluish butterflys on arms, necks and shoulders.

Butterflies are the style at present. Next year perhaps there will be a demand for snakes or cupids. The marks are as permanent as the cruder figures on sailors' arms, notwithstanding their delicate tracery and beautiful coloring. The girl so adorned must keep her design, unless she undergo a skin grafting operation to remove it. "Wherever it is practiced," explains Dr. Schireson, "tattooing represents the same primitive craving to attract attention and be admired and desired. It is inspired by the same psychological urge, whether in the sailor, the Polynesian native or the civilized woman."

gingham, mull, voile, satine, heavy crepe in the price is all, and I have seen rows and rows of samples of these fabrics, back from the sundry, looking as fresh as the day they were bought.

Curiously, department store managers say they have to talk themselves hoarse to convince women that this is so—even with the manufacturer's guarantee staring them in the face. So prevalent have been the cheap dyes that the woman shopper is absolutely convinced no such thing as permanent color exists. When she finds out differently, woe to the manufacturer of goods that fade! He won't have a leg to stand on.

But New York women, lacking Miss Astor's forceful individuality and the social prestige to back it up, have continued in ankle-length frocks. The new full, circular-skirted models will just stop short of sweeping the floor, and they will stop for the sole purpose of revealing in all their chubbiness the colonial pumps that go with this type of dress.

One of the new scarfs is made of crepe de chine sewn together in blocks each block a varying shade of one color, running from palest flesh-pink in the middle to deep crimson at the ends, for instance.

The spring scarfs have no fringe. Embroidered ones and some with curious designs produced by sewing little patches of imitation ermine and other furs against a contrasting background are the smartest.

Fast colors are coming back, now that dye factories are returning to their legitimate business after having been commandeered for war purposes, and it should cheer the housewife's heart to find that she can have a heart stain stuff, and various silk-and-wool wares.

DECLARES FARMERS
NEED WATERWAYS
Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Scoring the Dominion Government in denying co-operation to the St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme as short-sighted and against the interests of the whole country, J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, today declared that settlement of the Canadian middle west depended largely upon the project which would give farmers a cheap water route for their exportable grain surplus.

A CALAIS MARKET
BUILDING BURNED
St. Stephen, Jan. 28.—(Special).—Fire practically destroyed the building and contents of Morrarty & Mowatt's meat market at the Calais end of the International Bridge, this morning. The fire started from the chimney. The loss is about $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

The Luray Caverns of Virginia have been estimated to be more than 7,000,000 years old.

LUNCHEON DISHES

These are the days when hearty luncheon dishes with a good "hot" peppery taste are most relished. The platter of thinly sliced meat, cool salad and water-like bread and butter that is so quickly and easily prepared for the hot weather luncheon is not for January days.

No busy housekeeper likes to spend much time over the preparation of the noon meal if a dinner is to be prepared for the evening. She feels as if she is tired to sink and cook store if two hot cooked meals must be prepared and served.

These luncheon dishes are quickly and easily prepared. Tomato soup aids in their preparation and at the same time uses to advantage this delectable bit of left-over that might otherwise go "begging."

Tomato Cheese

Two cups chopped cheese, 1 cup milk, 1 cup tomato soup, 8 triangles

Put about one teaspoon of butter in a smooth sauce pan, add cheese and melt, stirring constantly. Slowly add milk, stirring until well blended. Stir in soup and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Season with salt and pepper, add one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce if liked. Pour over hot toast and serve.

Tomato Macaroni

One cup broken macaroni, 1 cup tomato soup, 1-2 cup chopped cheese, salt and pepper, pinch of mustard. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and blanch under cold water. Drain and put in a buttered baking dish. Pour over tomato soup, cover with finely chopped cheese and bake in a hot oven until the cheese is melted and slightly browned. It will take about 15 minutes.

Rice With Sausage Sauce

Two cups hot steamed rice, 1 cup tomato soup, 1 cup milk, 1 cup chopped grated cheese, 1 tablespoon flour. Drop rice by spoonfuls onto a large, hot platter. Heat soup and milk. Stir in flour mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold milk. Add sausage and cook until thick. Pour over rice and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

The use of tomato soup makes it unnecessary to add soda to the mixture before adding the milk. If canned, strained tomatoes are used soda must be added to prevent curdling the milk.

The use of soup in these recipes also adds a piquancy to the dish, the seasoning of the soup itself lending much to flavoring of the whole.

Scalloped Corn With Tomato Soup

One cup canned corn, 1 cup tomato soup, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 1-4 teaspoon onion pepper, 1 canned pimiento (if at hand).

Put a layer of crumbs in a buttered baking dish. Add corn and soup mixed and seasoned and a few shreds of pimiento. Add another layer of crumbs and continue layer for layer of crumbs and vegetables until all is used. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a quick oven for 25 minutes.

OLD DIXIELAND

The spirit of the old south hovered over the capital in Washington when a statue of General Robert E. Lee was unveiled in the rotunda. Eleanor Hall—For 1861, that is—was one of the Washington girls participating in the ceremonies.

PHILANTHROPIST

Mrs. Lillian Boutin of Seattle, once an adopted baby herself, is going to adopt a baby soon. A Yakima, Wash., family, hard hit by economic misfortune, are giving away their unborn child. And Mrs. Boutin seems to be the one who'll get it.

GET AUTO CAMPS IN SHAPE.

Unless the Vancouver City Council begins to appreciate the magnitude of the potential tourist traffic for 1924 and starts preparing for it, Vancouver will not be able to "cash in" on that traffic as she should.

Last year 71,000 cars registered in the Portland auto camps. Some 50 per cent. of these were from California. More than 60,000 cars crossed over the border at Blaine. With the pavement completed along Pacific avenue all the way down to and past Los Angeles, the traffic for 1924 can only be calculated with an optimistic pencil. It is doubtful if the City Council has the slightest idea what it is going to be up against in taking care of tourist traffic this year. The present publicity campaign will inevitably reap a rich harvest.

The first crying need is a little money to put the Hastings park camp in some kind of proper shape. Money spent on such purposes is invested in a business that cannot fail to yield big returns for years to come.

OLSON, ROBBIE'S ASSISTANT.

Ivan Olson, who has been with the Brooklyn club for nine years and has been reported headed for the minors every winter, will remain with the Dodgers as assistant manager. Uncle Robbie has decided to give this deserved position to Olson and stop the chatter about Ivan heading for the coast and way stations. Olson will be listed a sane active, for he will be used both as utility infielder and pinch hitter.

Spank Your Children, But When They Rise To Flapper Age Just Let 'Em Flap, Advises Home Economics Expert

Boston, Mass.—With a slap in the face and a pat on the back, modern advanced thought stands both berated and approved in the mind of one of America's most influential women leaders—Dr. Alice F. Blood of this city.

"Don't you worry about the flapper," she cries. "The American flapper can take care of herself. Don't forget we've had the flapper with us long enough now for one generation to grow up and marry. They're making good wives and good mothers. They know what men are like and they don't spend their time weeping around the house because the Lord didn't make men like movie heroes."

"The flapper should be allowed to kick up her heels. Spirit is the great asset in the world. When the flapper settles down she's a lot wiser, more entertaining, more companionable wife than the one with a Holler-Tan-Thou look on her face and a disposition that would sour cream worse than a dill pickle."

She Knows 'Em.

Dr. Blood speaks not only from observation, but from actual experience with flappers and modern housewives. She's president of the American Home Economics Association, leading 5,000 women of every state and heads the department of home economics in Simmons College, here. Her whole doctrine, combining both radical and reactionary ideas, springs from an inherent desire for the application of common sense.

"For heaven's sake," she cries, "why don't you folks use common sense?"

home management, and a lot more plain common sense. You can't live on romantic love and highbrow theory any more than you can live on a diet of chocolate marshmallows and French pastry.

Separate Jobs.

"A wife has no more right to ask her husband to wash the dishes," Dr. Blood goes on, "than he has to ask her to do his work."

"And for making good American citizens out of children, there's nothing beats the good old-fashioned spanking. If the father doesn't spank in the home, the world is going to do the spanking later—and the world spansk harder than any parent ever spanked in the world."

"You can't have a successful home without discipline any more than you can have a successful army without discipline."
