IS IMPROVING. Word was received today by Rev. A. J. McDougall that Rev. Dr. W. Meshan, who was operated on in Boston a week ago yesterday, was improving. BY LAW CASE. Frank Collins appeared this morning to answer the charge of having repairs made on the building to the firm of T. Collins & Company without a permit. He pleaded not guilty and the case was postponed until Friday. LOCAL BASEBALL. Portland added another to its string of victories last night on the Queen square diamond, when they defeated the Carleton team 4-1 in six innings of good play. Portland won the game in the last inning by scoring three runs. The second inning Mather potted out a long hit on which he made the circuit scoring Carleton's only run of the game. Cummings and Gallagher for Portland and Perry and Mitchell for Carleton did the battering work. Tomorrow night St. Rose's and St. George's hook up in the final game of the league series. St. Rose's must win to clinch the series. If they lose they will be tied with Portland with seven wins and two defeats.

Tells Interesting Story of Sinking of the German Fleet. Gordon B. Jackson dominion secretary of the Navy League and Commodore Lewin, maritime representative of the same body, who are in the city on official business have had wide and varied experience and have very interesting stories to tell. Commodore Lewin saw service in the navy and was at the battle of Heligoland. After that engagement he was appointed assistant King's harbormaster at Scapa Flow, and later was given the appointment of King's harbormaster. He held that position at the time the German fleet was scuttled. His description of the scene is as follows: "Just at the hour of noon the fleet was observed to be in an unusually quiet state. The German war-ensign was run to the masthead of all the vessels and a great deal of activity was noticed. Preparations for an emergency had been made and the British sailors went to their allotted stations. Immediately the German ships began to take on an unusual appearance. Some began to sink by the bow and some by the stern, others listed to starboard and some listed to port. The destroyers were in pairs and headed toward one another in curious formation. The most majestic sight of all was the battle cruiser Hindenburg, which did not list but sank slowly to the bottom in an upright position. The forward firing tower could be seen above the water. Badly, the latest German was vessel, refused to sink, owing to the perfect construction of the water tight compartments. By the time Scapa Flow presented a most unusual appearance, with ships going down everywhere, and beached by the British boats. About twenty-five vessels were saved in this way, the others met a well deserved fate and were all adrift on rafts and they were brought ashore and lined up in rows. Many humorous incidents occurred, among them being the case of a sailor who was all alone on a raft hanging tightly to a bundle of clothes. He was frantically waving a white flag, while a number of British stokers bombarded him with lumps of coal. They appeared to have a highly organized and up to date fleet. The quarters of the officers were elaborate, but the crew's quarters were cramped. The guns and engines were of the best. A curious thing was that of a good many cat-o-nine tails were found on board. Some of them appeared to have been used a good deal. There was no shortage of provisions. The captured officers, including Admiral Von Reuter, and the crews, were turned over to the soldiers for safe keeping. Commodore Lewin had full charge of the salvaging operations afterwards. Some of the largest moorings in the world were used in bringing the vessels to the surface. Mr. Jackson has traveled all over Canada. He is a graduate of McGill in law, but at the opening of hostilities he joined the navy as an ordinary seaman and served on a minesweeper. He afterwards obtained a commission and finally was appointed commander of the Royal Naval Barracks, having charge of all Canadians in the navy. He has travelled all over Canada in the interest of the navy league, and has addressed more than 100 Rotary clubs. He addressed the German congregations at Salt Lake on Easter Sunday in their tabernacle. Mr. Jackson and Commodore Lewin have expressed their appreciation to Thomas Nagle, of Nagle & Wigmore, for a trip around the harbor yesterday afternoon.

ASK INCREASE IN CAPITAL STOCK. Hearing of N. B. Telephone Company Application Before Public Utilities—No Decision Yet. At a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission this morning hearing was given the application of the New Brunswick Telephone Co. for permission to increase its capital stock by $886,000. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C. appeared for the company, produced an affidavit of publication and called on O. J. Fraser, general superintendent of the company to show why the increase in stock was necessary. Mr. Fraser said that of a depreciation fund of $638,664.40 only $112,200 was on hand. The deficit was $526,464.40 and this was depleted by $192,899.52. It was necessary, he said, to have $170,000 capital to carry customers for two months due to the measured service order which made it impossible to collect rentals and tolls in advance as formerly. Mr. Fraser was closely questioned by the chairman and other commissioners and after further argument by Mr. Baxter the chairman announced that the decision would be considered and a decision rendered later. All the commissioners were present. Senators W. Daniel and S. R. Midram also were in attendance.

POLLUTION OF CITY'S WATER

Only One Case of Disregard of City's Action Reported—Board of Health to Take Matter Up. Commissioner Jones has had notices posted up around the shores of Spruce and Lodge Lakes on the western side of the harbor and around the catchment area of Loch Lomond and Lake Latimer forbidding fishing, boating and any other form of encroachment upon the frontage of these lakes. The commissioner is pleased to report that his efforts to prevent pollution of the city's water supply have been generally approved and with only one exception has there been any disposition shown to disregard his instructions. The exceptional case is that of a west side citizen, who not only took the liberty of venturing upon Spruce Lake in a boat to fish, but afterwards, when remonstrated with for doing so, defied the order of David McDermott, the caretaker. The matter has been reported to the board of health, and until the return of Chairman Kelly, who will meet of the city until the last of the present week, the question of what further action may be taken remains in abeyance.
