ENGLAND'S ROYAL HOME

HIS MAJESTY'S PRIVATE APARTMENTS AT WINDSOR CASTLE.

Where Foreign Potentates are Entertained—Queen Alexandra's Treasure House—Famous "Long Corridor"—Unique Collection of Rare China—Enviied by French Royalists—Drawing Rooms at the Castle.

The private apartments which are occupied by Their Majesties King Edward and Queen Alexandra when the court is in residence at Windsor Castle are separate and distinct from what are known as the state apartments, which the public is permitted to see on frequent occasions. The private apartments, says O. Ashton, writing in The Woman at Home, lie beyond the state reception-rooms adjoining the Waterloo chamber and are entered by a massive oak door which is converted into what is probably the most magnificent china closet in the world; it contains in electrically-lighted cabinets at either side of the marble walls some hundred sets of Sevres, Worcester and Chelsea china, each set having a long and interesting history of its own and each absolutely perfect.

Rare China.
The china closet opens on to the long corridor which runs the whole length of the private apartments, and the plan of its arrangement was mainly devised by Queen Alexandra. The long corridor is a treasure house of inexhaustible interest. Picture a corridor some 400 yards long, lined on either side with pictures, cabinets, chairs, tables, clocks, ornaments of silver and gold and every article the product of an artist famous all the world over, and replete with historical interest. Queen Alexandra spent several months planning how these treasures should be placed, and when the work of arranging these was finally begun a daily report of its progress was submitted to her. In this corridor Queen Alexandra sometimes entertains at afternoon tea a few guests who have the privilege of being on terms of intimacy with Her Majesty.

On the right of the long corridor lie the three rooms chiefly used by Queen Alexandra. These are known as the white, the green and the crimson drawing-rooms, from the coloring that is generally observed in each. The white drawing-room is, perhaps, the most stately and magnificent of the three, and is used mainly when Their Majesties are entertaining a large party of guests at dinner. When foreign royalties are being entertained at Windsor Castle, it is in the white drawing-room that the "visit" Her Majesty. During the visit of a European sovereign to Windsor, the ordinary routine life of the court is considerably altered. The state apartments, which, at ordinary times, are never used, are occupied on these occasions by the royal visitors, who are "visited" there by the King and Queen; in their turn the royal "visit" King Edward and Queen Alexandra, and it is on these occasions that the white drawing-room is chiefly used.

Best Liked.
The crimson and green drawing-rooms are the Queen's favorite apartments. From the former a lovely view is obtained, and it is Her Majesty's favorite room at Windsor. Though the crimson drawing-room is, of course, of considerable size and very beautifully furnished, it has, perhaps, a more homely appearance than the others, and contains more of Her Majesty's personal possessions than any other room in Windsor Castle. It was in this room that the Princesses Patricia and Victoria of Connaught took their first dancing lesson, in the presence of the Queen, and it is here that Her Majesty entertains her guests in the evenings when the party at Windsor is a small one. The green drawing-room is also used a great deal by Her Majesty, but it is more stately in appearance than the crimson drawing-room. It is upholstered throughout with green damask silk, and contains several beautiful cabinets filled with Sevres china. These were originally intended to be placed in the china closet, but the collection took up more room than it was anticipated it would, and the remaining portion of it was therefore placed in the green drawing-room. The great object of interest, however, in this apartment is the model of the figure of Louis XV., by Girardon, which stood in the Place Vendome in Paris. It is the only model in existence of that wonderful piece of work, and is at once the despair and envy of French royalists who come to stay at Windsor Castle.

Smallest in the World.

Mr. J. Beale, who lives in Kent, has reared a pony which he claims is the smallest in the world. It is only 18 inches high.

A Large Sponge.
A record sponge, ten feet in circumference and two feet thick, was found.

Keep Your Lamp Bright

There are many houses that are not lighted by gas nor electricity, and the proper care of lamps becomes an important matter. Many a lamp gives a dull feeble light, or has been set aside for dangerous, because the burners had not been kept clean, and the dust has accumulated in the small air tubes at the side of the wick. The remedy is so simple that there is no need for the condition of affairs.

The lamps should be filled daily and the chimneys brightly polished. Remove the wicks from the burners once a week, put them in water containing enough pearline to make a good suds, and boil them half an hour or more. This will remove all the oil and leave them bright and clean. Polish with dry flannel.

Use none but the best oil and keep the lamp full to insure good light. Keep the reflector (if it has one) brightly polished. Do not cut the wick, but turn it just above the tube and rub off the charred portion with a match.

New lamp chimneys are toughened and made more durable by putting them in water and heating gradually until it is boiling hot. When they have boiled five minutes set them off the stove and allow them to cool in the water.

To keep Salt dry

"To prevent salt in saltcellars from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them up put in ten to twelve pieces of rice, says Woman's Home Companion for September. "This will not come through the holes in the cover of the saltcellars, but will break the lumps of salt and gather the moisture, thus the salt is always dry and fine."
