

HUSKIES STRONGLY ATTACK BRITISH EAST OF MONCHY

BRITISH FORCES COMPELLED TO YIELD SOME GROUND

Fall Back From Some of Their Advanced Posts in Northern France—French Parties Penetrate Lines of Enemy.

London, June 18.—The British have fallen back from some of their advanced posts in Northern France, according to an official statement issued by the war office this morning. The main new positions are still held.

The statement follows:

"Early this morning the enemy delivered a strong local attack, under cover of a heavy bombardment, upon the positions captured by us on the morning of June 14, east of Monchy Le Preux. After severe fighting our troops were compelled to fall back from certain advanced positions, which had been established by us in front of our main new position which we still hold on Infantry Hill.

"There was considerable activity on both sides during the night north of the Scarpe. Hostile artillery activity continues in the neighborhood of Monchy Le Preux.

HOW BOYS ARE TREATED BY FARMERS OF N. B.

Are They Overworked Day and Night or Are They Imposing on Hard Working Industrious Folks?

A week or so ago The Standard published a letter from G. L. Pickett, telling of the experience of a boy from St. John who went to work with a farmer up the line. In reply to that letter The Standard has received a lengthy letter from Burfield Burlock of Anagance.

Upon further enquiry into the matter by The Standard Gordon Pickett stated that some of the statements contained in that letter are not correct. He adds that Mr. Burlock had three boys working for him before Gordon went. This had been used to taking out and harnessing their own horse and driving around the city but had never harnessed a team and it was a little different. He stated that he cleaned out the stable after fifteen cows and three horses and he brought home clothing that certainly indicated that he had been engaged on work of this nature. He had three pairs of socks with mud to the tops, and a pair of overalls pretty well marked up, which shows that he was not sitting down all the time. He adds that it was not to be expected that a city boy unaccustomed to this sort of work, with no previous experience, should be started to work harrowing with a pair of horses.

Mr. Pickett states that Mrs. W. E. Emerson of West St. John, having been told by her boy up to Mr. Burlock's house the same day he left there and young Emerson did not arrive until the following Friday. He stayed one night and returned on Saturday.

"If Mr. Burlock had sent me home with a letter saying I was no good and had no strength I would have felt much better. But it is ridiculous to say I had a cough. I have been going to school ever since I returned to the city and had never coughed since I landed in St. John.

Mr. Burlock's letter follows:

Anagance, N. B., June 14th, 1917.

To the Standard:

In your June 9th number I noticed a letter from G. L. Pickett warning mothers to be more careful in sending their boys to help the farmers. I would humbly ask space in your columns to warn the farmers to be more careful in taking city boys in their homes they do not know, if they do not want misrepresentations told and the honest humble farmer imposed upon. We farmers thought when we gave the flower of our manhood from our homes and farms to defend our country and the school boys decided to help the farmers to feed the soldier boys, they and their parents meant it; but to our sorrow we find it not so. We deny ourselves luxuries that we may have to help our bleeding, suffering boys, and the city lad of sixteen or seventeen goes from our humble table where he has garnished his food full and well with the tolling farmer's wife's golden butter and her own hand-picked berries, well kept through the winter months, and calls the food monotonous, when the boy has not done enough work in a whole day to pay for his breakfast. The farmer and his wife arise at five o'clock, the wife milking five and six cows, feeding calves, chickens, etc., then hastening to get an humble meal for the city boy and her husband. The boy has only taken in three pails of water and has but started to clean the stables from three horses and has to leave it to his mother to do. The farmer then, after he has eaten hearty of good wholesome food starts to walk slowly down a grassy lane some few rods to start the farmer's cow to pasture. While the farmer and wife have to hasten around and do all other chores as best they can as the milk must be at the factory or to the city. The boy returns at pleasure, the farmer starts him at the cleaning stables once again—a job that a ten year old country boy would do in fifteen minutes. In about an hour's time the farmer sees the boy coming slowly across the yard. Now he tries to get one other little job out of him. He wishes him to earn his dinner at least as a farmer never eats the bread of idleness. So, for an hour he tries him at driving the steady old team on the harrow, telling him to go straight across the field to be harrowed. (Of

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, June 17, via London, June 18.—The official statement issued by the war office today says: "In the region of Lysietz, southward of Stanislaw, our scouts, forcing their way through the enemy's wire, penetrated behind his advanced posts and dispersed the occupants. Our aviators bombed several important points behind the enemy's lines."

"There were fusillades on the western Roumanian and Caucasian fronts."

French Statement.

Paris, June 18.—"Intermittent cannonading occurred at various points on the front last night," says today's official statement. "Our reconnoitering parties penetrated the enemy lines near Leintrey and southwest of Senones, bringing back prisoners."

course he couldn't harness the team as he said in his letter to me asking for work. He put the collar on upside down and asks what you say to them to start them. The farmer stays by to try to teach the boy, but he will not be taught and is soon going over the field at his pleasure (or rather at the pleasure of the old team). So the farmer decided it was of no use trying to teach him; so, that afternoon starts him at a very simple job, ranking stove wood. This job is done worse. The team works and the boy sits and basks in the sunshine almost all the time. Comes in to tea when the farmer comes at five o'clock. After tea the good wife tries to teach him to milk a cow (as the farmer had repeatedly tried and failed) and feed the calves, but sees it is useless. So the next day they ask him to do nothing and let him please himself and found he did about as much. He did rank some wood late in the evening and some few chores he ought to have done in the day time. Then goes home and says he worked from five a.m. to nine p.m. Also commented on his sleeping room. Do the city boys expect the guest chamber when they come to our farms to work? The farmer decides that THIS city boy is making more work than he is doing in return. (But we know all city boys are not like this one). So he pays him his wages and tells him to go home and as he was going to the station takes him along, the wife giving him a lunch. The boy could sit for hours on the wood pile so thought a few hours at the station would be no worse. But it seems to have touched his ire. These are the facts in answer to what I read in your paper on June 9th issue. Thanking you for space in your valued columns, I remain yours for truth and honor.

REVERENCE.

There is something which has been passing through my mind, and I am going to ask my readers what they think about it. It is true that familiarity breeds contempt to all right minded people, or is it not to the merely superficial that the repetition of something noble and grand brings only weariness? Take the National Anthem for instance. Because we hear it every day we go to a theatre, should it lose its glorious meaning? Men today are fighting and dying for the principles which many people in St. John will not even stand still to respect. Surely to see even soldiers walk out during the playing of God Save the King while civilians who have not even donned the King's uniform (perhaps for some good reason) follow suit and women put on gloves and coats is shocking. It is thoughtless. The thoughtlessness that does not take into account the "send him victorious" and "God save us all" is not manifested by the people who are the backbone of the Empire.

Even after three years of war the churches which have intercessory services, are not allowed to wear a Zepplin or two to slaughter our little children before we realize that the nation is at war? The poles we should show the outward sign of respect to our National Anthem if we really care.

I trust we are done forever with the degradation of our flag as a table cover, a sofa pillow or as an ornament for clothing.

The glorious flag of Empire which has been wrapped about the heroes who have given life and all it meant at the call of duty should be too sacred a symbol not to be treated with veneration, awe and respect.

Truly I know that these things are not all, and that the outward sign does not mean the inward grace, but at least it stands for something, and respect for the flag is a sign of respect for the man or the woman who manifest the outward sign.

At least mothers, sisters and wives can teach that veneration. Let the teachers in the schools manifest the outward sign of pride for the scholars to see the example in the theatre. Men's clubs could make it a pledge to stand at attention to God Save the King as several young women's societies have already done. A little leave is a wonderful thing and the force of example is very powerful. Let our city, "the city of the Loyalists," be noted not only for the number of our men who have enlisted but for the devotion to King and country of those who have to stand at home. We will not insult the person or thing we really love. Am I right?

Showery June.

"There are twelve months in year, but only one June. June is like an express train; it stands on a siding and see it a Hills Carman.

But on this June! I don't see anybody is going to weep at its passing.

"What is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, there come poe days." Plugs and an express train; it stands on a siding and see it a Hills Carman.

June has ten days left to us to its reputation of the roses and sunshine. Here's hoping it isn't raining rain to me, "It's raining daffodils."

What strong imaginations poets have. It is very wet rain, I feel this wintry misty melody. I wish I had a poetical mind, but I need an umbrella.
