MILLIONS OF PEOPLE AGONY

Physicians Cornered!

I suppose there is not in the whole of the Province a more common ailment than that of Rheumatism. It is a disease which attacks the joints of the body, and is characterized by a severe pain, which is often accompanied by a swelling of the affected part. It is a disease which is often attended with a great deal of suffering, and which is often the result of a cold or a wet exposure.

RHEUMATISM!

Hereafter there has been a considerable discovery of a medicine which cures Rheumatism, Gout, and all the other ailments which are caused by the same cause. It is a medicine which is called "Diamond Rheumatic Cure," and which is sold by Mr. Isaacs's Dispensary.

NOTES AND NEWS.

UNITED STATES.

A Williamsburgh woman has an official jaw. Did she wear the other one?

When a Conductor wants to disparage another he says: "When you thoroughly prospered him, you'll find no business in the Washington youth."

"The song of the Washington youth," "I want to be a lobby man and in the lobby stand, with brass upon my forehead and greasy curls in my hair."

"Speaking of lobbies," said Judge Lord, of Boston, "when we see a crowd at the Charleston Navy Yard, we infer that there is to be a war, but an objection."

"France out some more parakeets!"

Wm. H. McNeil, an ex-out of a table in Kansas City, and another woman's grace "Mr. McNeil split his curls with a comb."

A man at Tiffin, Ohio, fell and broke his arm, but he refused two offers of assistance because the men were strangers to him and there was no one around to witness the accident.

Vermont clergymen are never permitted to kiss the ladies they have just married. The dear creatures put up their hands with a vengeance, and they do. "I've seen you fellows do it."

A many story is told of two Vermont farmers who are not grangers. They invited their wives to join and report before they would consent themselves. Now, when they will, they consent; but black-bills greet every application. Meanwhile the wives go regularly and transparently with their husbands, and the men stay at home and tend the babies.

GENERAL.

Wine improves with age, but kisses don't.

These stormy Sunday evenings are wearing the cool lines of families with interesting daughters.

Kathleen is doubtless home ere this, and getting tired up under the cross questioning of her admirers.

The want of the age is some other method of freezing a novel's hero than with lightning-bolts.

"She died for me," said a young husband when he beheld her dark locks gradually returning to their original red.

A young man charged with being long was asked if he took it from his father. "I think not," was the reply. "Father's got all the business he ever had."

All the same, he has a good deal of the rules of Pussell or of light make, as if constructed for women's use. Those old ancients knew their little business.

We should dearly like to see the chap who predicted that this was going to be a mild winter, sitting on the fence in a new chair, and listening to the mocking bird.

The editor of the Brockville Recorder is conducting the building of a charity bell in this village. It is estimated that the trouble some people will take to get chance to squeeze all the girls.

The Minister of Finance has announced that it was possible Major General Smyth would recommend that instead of annual drill being performed in camp in future it should be done at headquarters, as camp drill involved a great deal of unnecessary expense.

The gentle youth who guides the goose quill for the Orangeville Advertiser says our ears are the envy of all the males that have ears, and he carries them - Toronto.

Plymouth Times.

From the N. Y. Sun.

The trial reveals a singular process to giving and receiving prominent endorsements among certain prominent actors in the scandal. Mr. Tilton wears that Mr. Beecher kissed him, and that he endorsed it, even after he knew that Mr. Beecher had committed adultery with his wife. Mr. Tilton says that the kiss of Mr. Beecher directly upon his confession of guilt and threat of self murder. Mr. Beecher is represented on several occasions as saying his hand increasingly upon Mr. Tilton's shoulder; and from a question put to Mrs. Moulton by Mr. Beecher's counsel, it seems that an attempt will be made to show that not only Mrs. Moulton, but also Mr. Moulton and Mr. Tilton were in the habit of kissing Victoria Woodhull. On reading of these things the profane reader is reminded of the popular quotation:

"Love does kissing Kate,
Love does, he will kiss any;
Love does, he will kiss any,
Love does, he will kiss any."

This sort of universal oscillation and fondling would seem to be a usual and customary observance in the ritual of Plymouth congregation, though it does not yet appear that anybody has kissed Henry C. Bowen or Brother Shearman. Apart from the alleged kissing of Mrs. Tilton by Mr. Beecher, which is in dispute in the case, it appears by an abundance of unquestioned testimony that the great pastor is wont frequently to relieve his gushing feelings by these expressive demonstrations; and his example, at least in this respect, would naturally be imitated by the generality of his devoted flock.

Perhaps here is the secret of the astonishing popularity of Plymouth church. The kissing all around, practiced by the pastor in practice as well as in precept, must be highly gratifying to many of the members, especially the old middle; while the younger people may learn to give up the sinful dancing of the round dances for the superior bliss of pious kissing. The pews in the church have always sold at high prices, but very likely the universal publicity which these peculiar facts have now attained, may render the competition at the next annual vendue more productive than ever.
