

Infants, whose prattle will die on their lips, who become cross and fretful, seemingly without a cause, may with safety be given part of a Pill as a restorative in several of their little ailments.

Dyspepsia can be cured. It is not a hopeless condition of things. The faulty state of the stomach can be rectified. It can be taught once more to assimilate food. First, by a proper choice of food, by not overloading the tired and overtaxed stomach, by quiet and regular habits of life; and secondly, by taking some carefully prepared medicine, that will help tone up the wearied and overtaxed system, restoring matters to their normal condition. Dr. Wilson paid special attention to these needs in his preparation of the Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

Waterbrash can be cured. It is the result of food taken into a weak or foul stomach, which is unable to act the part of nature. The food ferments, owing to the stomach's unnatural heat, and sending up a bitter liquid into the throat, is a disgusting inconvenience. Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills are the proper remedy.

Heartburn can be cured, being nothing more than the sensation produced in the stomach by the latter gas or liquid mentioned. The acidity is removed and the stomach strengthened by a dose or doses—according to the short or long standing of the trouble—of Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

Flatulence can be cured, being nothing but a continuance of wind and gas, accompanying the ill-digested food from the stomach into the bowels, where it produces pain and irritation in its course. Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills are a safe remedy for its cure.

Biliousness can be cured, whether present in the shape of local headache, nausea at the sight of food, actual vomiting, pain in the right side,—owing to an inactive state of the liver,—or in any other of its numerous forms. The healthy bile can be made to flow freely from the torpid, congested gland and a due admixture of it be given to the food. But how? By proper exercise, the laying aside of injudicious habits and proper doses of a stimulating medicine, such as is Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

Costiveness can be cured, by the bile properly mixing with the food, and forcing the latter along the intestines. The best means to effect such a cure, without doubt, is by a wholesome specific, and of which there can be no better than the Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills of Dr. Wilson.

Diarrhea can be cured, because it is really due to a similar cause as costiveness; the one trouble usually alternating with the other, in persons subject to Dyspepsia. A judicious use of Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills, will effect a rapid amelioration of this and all the above distressing diseases.

New strength, in all its vigor, is one of the first results of taking these Pills.

Enjoyment of life, so that however humble, one feels that he would not willingly change places with a king, is another result.

Easy digestion, giving palatability to the food taken, and a relishing zest to all that is eaten, is also a result.

Sound sleep, without which it is impossible to be healthy, or to enjoy waking life, is another result.

Good appetite, such as only a healthy person knows, or a sound mind in a sound body understands, is also a result.

Whoever desires these, and is sickly, should listen to the voice of reason, and reflect on what is here said concerning the great efficacy of Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

No one wishes to be sickly, but many are deterred from visiting a medical man, because of the lengthy bills that doctors sometimes pile up. To those who are without abundant means, this magnificent specific is recommended. Nothing will suit the pocket of the man of small fortune who desires to recover his wonted health, so well as Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

One sure proof of the value of Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills is their largely increased sale of late years.

Another sure proof is the immense reputation that these pills have built up for themselves in a comparatively short period as compared with many other medicines on the market in the Dominion. Take them all in all, no other specific for the diseases mentioned can equal Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

This is because they cure. Those who try them never forget this fact, and usually recommend them right and left to their neighbors.

Hundreds of testimonials from highly respectable persons in all parts of Canada go to prove this assertion, which is not made at haphazard or with a view to deceive, but as a statement of simple fact.

Letters expressing grateful thanks are constantly being received by the proprietors of these Pills who are consequently urged on their course in making them more widely known than ever, in the hope that they will prove of yet greater benefit to suffering humanity.

This is the live end of a remarkable century. The steamboat, the locomotive, the electric telegraph, the telephone, and the electric light, have all been perfected since the first day of the year 1800 dawned. In nothing has progress been more rapid, perhaps, than Medical Science.

The old era of cupping and bleeding has for ever passed away. Those days of barbaric practice have gone for ever. Even pharmaceutical science has become more and more simple, until the civilized nations look more to-day, in their general ailments to general well-known preparations such as Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills rather than to the nauseating nostrums of the pharmacist.

This is a century of inventions, but no greater benefit was ever evolved from the brain of a successful scientist, than that achieved by Dr. Wilson, when he discovered and perfected his now far famed Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

This is a century of utilitarianism. People will not take up things that do not pay. But no one can afford to be without Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

Unprincipled dealers have been known to recommend cheaper specifics, when asked for this magnificent medicine. Fortunately such unprincipled people are rare, and Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills are now obtainable in almost every city, town, village and corners throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

Purchasers should insist on getting what they ask for, and not be put off with articles made up to imitate the invaluable Pills of Dr. Wilson.

To thus insist, is a duty not only to themselves at the moment, but to those who follow. Although no actual harm might come in their own case from the purchase of an inferior article, the next comer's health might, perhaps, be for ever ruined through taking what he supposed to be Dr. Wilson's invaluable Anti-Bilious and Preserving Pills.

In all cases where an inferior article is attempted to be palmed off, the proprietors would feel obliged if the injured party would communicate with them, addressing the complaint to J. W. BRAYLEY, Wholesale Druggist, 481 ST. PAUL STREET, MONTREAL.
