And the still larger Convent of the Doccia, higher up the hill, which was founded by the Davanzati family, and rebuilt by Michael Angelo, is to be restored. Thus there will be six large monasteries on the Fiesole hill.

STARTLING revelations have been made concerning the management of the Shepherd's Fold, New York, and Rev. Mr. Cowley, an Episcopalian minister, who had charge, is said to have been cruel and incompetent, and possessed of a violent temper. Mrs. Sarah Skinner, who succeeded Cowley in charge, made affidavit that she found the institution in a very bad condition, and totally unfit for use. The younger children gave unmistakable indication of having been kept in a condition of terror.

In France, Canada, the United States and other places, active steps have been taken to send relief to the suffering people of Ireland. The action (or, rather, the inaction) of the British government is simply shameful. On the 15th it was rumored that at a Cabinet Council the matter would probably be brought up. We trust the next election will place in power men whose procrastination in a time like the present is not only shameful but criminal. We rather think the public opinion of other countries will ere long shake up the old Circumlocution office in Downing street to a sense of its duty.

The late Archbishop of Tyre and suffragan Bishop of Liege, was in early life a dashing colonel in the army and received an old decoration from the great Napoleon. He was engaged to be married to the heiress of one of the great families of France, but death prevented the nuptials. The young man then retired from the army and entered a religious life. When visiting Paris in 1856 for the first time since his return from the Russian campaign, the late Napoleon handed him a cross of grand officer which was afterwards exchanged for the grand cordon. As priest and bishop he was an exemplary man.

WE ARE sorry to see our excellent contemporary the True Witness taking the Ottawa Herald to task so severely. Surely it can find some better subject to write about. The late Cardinal Wiseman was once rebuked by some Protestant writer for not replying to charges preferred against the church. He replied that he did not feel in duty bound to take notice of every chimney sweep who wished to parade his ignorance of Catholic dogma. Let the Herald man alone, friend. His worst enemy is himself. Whenever a fly attacks you, brush him off quietly. It is a very provoking insect, at times, but the best thing is to brush it away gently and dispassionately.

A SNOOKING case illustrative of the effects of opium is given in the Stonington, Conn., family of Paul Greene, wife and daughter, the parents 70 years of age, the daughter about 35. They have been sent back, paupers, from Hopkinton, R. I., to Stonington, where they formerly lived among the best people in the town. The daughter was accomplished in music, the father a leader in the Baptist church, and the family was respected. But the mother began the use of laudanum to deaden pain, and kept up the habit, and the husband and father also became a slave to it, and then the daughter and they parted with money, house and furniture to obtain the noxious drug which has ruined them.

THE New York Sun has been asked whether it would sooner see the United States under the rule of the Roman Catholic Church or have General Grant Emperor. The editor, unhesitatingly, prefers the former alternative, and adds: "If by any means, the Catholic Church should get such power, we might be sure that the form of republican government, to establish which our fathers made such great sacrifices, would still exist for our posterity, with the chance of regaining the fullest measure of political and civil liberty by peaceful agitation alone. But let the empire, with Grant as Emperor, once be established among us, and there is an end of freedom, an annihilation of all free institutions. To restore them again would cost more blood and treasure than can well be estimated.

IN the course of an impassioned discourse, His Grace the Archbishop of Cashel recently spoke as follows: "There never existed, and does not exist this moment on the face of the globe, a more faithful, virtuous, God-fearing, sorely-trying, and devoted people than ours. How priests and bishops should love and labor for them. They are our pride, our crown, our glory. United in every interest of earth and heaven, sprung from the same stock, fed from the same fountain-head of faith, linked indissolubly together by the same bonds, for weal or woe, poor in each other's poverty, rich in each other's wealth, partners of old in the sanguinary penalties of our Irish origin, as we are now sharers in the advancing light of freedom and civilization, who will dare attempt to separate the Irish priesthood from the Irish people—the pastor from the flock?"

When we read telegraphic despatches now-a-days, it is always advisable to wait for a time before believing the greater part of the silly gossip rushed over the wires at midnight to help make up a budget of news for the breakfast table. Some one who perhaps is desirous of propping up in every possible way the bad land laws of Ireland, contrived to get up a rumor that the Pope had reprimanded Cardinal McCloskey for giving Parnell a kindly reception. The telegram from New York says that a Rome dispatch contains this intelligence. Most likely it is simply a dispatch from the New York Herald editorial room to the New York Herald composing room. This and nothing more. A second message comes that Cardinal McCloskey knows nothing about the matter. We would not be surprised were it now hinted that the Pope transmitted his sentiments direct to the young fox-hunter who owns the New York Herald.

A FARMER who lives near Hartford, Conn., boasts that he has had three good wives. His neighbors tell a story of his penuriousness concerning each of them. It is averred that he ordered off his farm a sister of No. 1, because she ate too many eggs. No. 3 had been his servant girl and refused to work longer at low wages. On the way to the depot he said, "Will you stay if I will marry you?" "Yes," she answered, and he is said to have chuckled over his cheap bargain, as she was a hard worker. No. 3 was a widow and dressmaker who owed considerable money. By the State law the husband is responsible for his wife's debts contracted before marriage; so, to avoid paying these the widower, however, as soon as he was engaged, kept the news quiet till he had bought up all claims against his intended at 20 cts. on the dollar. But how comes it the man had so many wives? Is this state of affairs winked at by the authorities? And in New England, too!

LORD LONGFORD, in a letter to the Daily Express, suggests a short and simple method of relieving the distress, without appealing to any person for charity or demanding the intervention of the Government. The remedy he recommends is temperance. His Lordship is very kind and very wise. We all know that there is a good deal of drinking done in Ireland, and it would be much better were the people more temperate. But they are no worse—nor even as bad—in this respect as their neighbors in England and Scotland. Within the past few years the temperance cause has made great progress in Ireland. Fatal abstinence will bring a great many blessings and comforts to the people, but it will not usher in abundant harvests, nor will it soften the hearts of grinding landlords, nor will it effect a reform in the land laws, nor will it have any influence on the crowbar brigade in the heartless work of tumbling whole families out of house and home.

LAST week the Rev. Henry T. Hunter, of the Seventh Presbyterian church, New York, refused to permit his church to be used for a Masonic funeral of one of his church members. It is passing strange to witness how readily some ministers will fall into line with the Catholic church in matters wherein she has time and again been accused of intolerance and bitterly denounced. This clergyman raised his hands in the pulpit and exclaimed "there shall never be a Masonic show in this church as long as I am pastor of it." A Methodist minister was found willing to perform the required ceremonies. This is another forcible illustration of the fact that the religion of our separated brethren can be made to suit all tastes and all dispositions. How different the position of the Church of Christ. When it speaks, through its divinely-ordained priests, it is useless looking about for a vulnerable point. All is order and compactness. The church of God has spoken, and that must be the end of the matter. Years ago a venerable and saintly dignitary of the Catholic church, in a city in Ontario, raised his voice and commanded that the body of one who had brought on his death through intoxication should not receive Christian burial in consecrated ground. Every influence was brought to bear to alter the decree. At last threats were made use of, but all to no purpose. It was useless looking about for another priest in that or any other city, or in any other country. The Church of God is one and the same, and her teachers pronounce the one and the same doctrine, in every corner of the earth.

THE Duke of Hamilton in the following note adds his testimony to that of the Duchess of Marlborough as to the real distress in Donegal: "I perceive in the Times of the 18th inst., a letter from the Duchess of Marlborough on the subject of the present distress in Ireland. An intimate local acquaintance with the county of Donegal enables me thoroughly to endorse her Grace's statements so far as it relates to that country. The distress among the poorer classes in the western districts of Donegal is already intense, and unless some relief outside local sources is afforded the consequence may be deplorable. The cause of this destitution is the want of fuel, the almost total destruction of the potato crop, and the stoppage of credit by which in previous years advances of meal have been obtained. I may add for the charitably-inclined that it would be difficult to find a more patient and well-disposed population than that among which this suffering exists.

THE Chicago Advocate says: The Roman Catholic question has broken out in the Chicago public library board. The Romanist member has been trying to liberalize the library by getting the board to subscribe for Roman publications. He succeeded so far that while the library subscribes for fourteen Roman periodicals, it only buys one journal each representing the Congregationalist, Evangelical, Lutheran, Methodist and Presbyterian; and none at all of any other. And how many others are there, friend? Surely you would not want the board to have a journal representing all. Where would you find room for them and whence would come the money to pay for them? The Advocate man evidently feels annoyed at the presence of Catholic literature in the library. It is not the quantity but the quality, against which his heart rises up in revolt. To make up a charge he would wish to have the organs of the Tankers, Jumpers, Spiritualists, Free Lovers, Free Thinkers, Free Masons, Mormons, etc., to the end of a very long chapter, placed in the library.

The pastor and trustees of the Seventh Presbyterian Church, New York, a few days ago refused to bury from their edifice the body of a man who had been a Freemason, although he had been a regular attendant upon the services of that church. We must be allowed to express our profound surprise at the apparent indifference with which this action has been received by non-Catholic organs. They commented upon the Coppers case—which is precisely similar in principle—with immense effusion, and denounced the Catholic Church for refusing to permit Coppers' body to be buried in consecrated ground, with a gusto equalled only by their lack of logic and common sense. And yet here we have the remains of a good Presbyterian knocking, as it were, at the door of a Methodist Church, for the religious rites denied them at home, because the taint of a secret order was upon them, and no fuss arises among the ordinary alert Boomerangs who are on the lookout for cases of "Papal despotism, injustice and oppression." What's the matter with the machine? Does it make such tremendous odds, then, whose ox is gored?—Brooklyn Review.

GODERICH. GRAND CONCERT IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The most brilliant and successful effort ever made in music in the Catholic Church here was made on Sunday last. This is no mean praise, for distinguished professors of both music and singing, from the United States and Canada, have exhibited their best pieces here at times. Miss Annie A. Doyle, of Goderich, presided at the organ. The Mass sung was St. Clair's Mass in G. In addition to the usual members of the choir, were Mr. De La Hunt, of London, Mr. De La Hunt, of Stratford, Mr. Early, of Toronto, and Mr. Robinson, of Goderich. Mr. Dromgole is well known to the people of at least the western portion of Ontario, and it is generally conceded that, as a tenor singer, he has no superior in the province. Mr. De La Hunt's voice is a rich baritone of rare culture. He sings with very great taste, and will undoubtedly become very popular. He is but lately a resident of Canada. Mr. Early does not claim to be a professional singer but he has a pleasing voice. Mr. Robinson, as a bass, ex- hibited very great power; he is always popular. Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Lizzie Doyle and Mr. Ferguson never appeared to better advantage, each sustaining the parts assigned to them most ably.—Goderich Star.

LOCAL NEWS.

TIED OF LIFE.—The Glencoe Transcript says that on Sunday evening last Maggie McKinnon, of Exfrid, attempted suicide by taking a teaspoonful of Paris green. Dr. McIntyre was sent for, but before he arrived the poison had been vomited. The dose proved too great for the object sought.

RUN OVER.—Wednesday afternoon as a little daughter of Mr. Alex. Stewart was going home from school she met with an accident, which it is feared, will result fatally. She was riding on a hand sled, drawn by a little boy, and when on the street crossing she fell off, and before she could get out of the way a baker's cart, which was close upon her, ran over her, the wheel passing over her head.

OBITUARY.—Mr. Timothy Collins, who for a number of years was an employee of P. Smith & Co., of this city, died on the 14th inst. Deceased was well known and highly esteemed, for his quiet, unassuming disposition and many admirable qualities. A very large concourse of friends accompanied the remains to the cemetery, among whom we noticed Hon. John Carling, M. P., and other prominent citizens.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.—The first meeting of the new Board of Separate School Trustees was held in the School House, Clarence street, on Wednesday evening last. The Rev. M. J. Tierman was re-elected Chairman, and Mr. James Reid, Treasurer, and Mr. S. R. Brown, Secretary. The following members were appointed the School Management Committee: For St. Peter's School, Messrs. Teid, O'Byrne and Dr. Phelan; for St. Mary's School, Messrs. Glynn, Simple and Crumnie. Messrs. Gibbons and Cruickshanks were appointed Auditors.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Sunday evening a young man named Alex. McLennan, living on Central Avenue, met with a serious accident which it was thought would end fatally. He was engaged at his work at McCarty's foundry at the polishing stone, when the heavy belt which drives the machinery broke and struck him on the forehead, inflicting a fearful gash. He was picked up and conveyed home, where he was found to be suffering from contusion of the brain. We are happy to state that he is now in a fair way to recovery.

OBITUARY.

On Tuesday, the 13th inst., Miss Teresa O'Dwyer, of McGillivray, breathed her last. The deceased was a most accomplished young lady, and had won, by her amiable disposition, a host of friends. Her funeral was attended by a large number of her sorrowing relations and friends. High Mass was sung by Rev. Father Kelly, the pastor, Rev. Father Molphy, of Stratford, and Rev. Father O'Keefe, of Limerick, acting as deacon and sub-deacon. The deceased was a niece of the late Father O'Dwyer, of London. R. I. P.

DUBLIN.

OPENING OF KIDD'S OPERA HOUSE.

From Our Special Correspondent.
Many of your readers may not be aware that we have, in this Ontario of ours, a veritable "Dublin," but such is actually the case: a beautiful little town situated on the E. & L.H. Railway, and on the evening of Friday, the 9th of January, this little town was the scene of the most exciting event, the opening of the most enterprising gentleman, Joseph Kidd, Esq., who, by his indomitable energy and industry, has made the town of Dublin a very important commercial centre in the county of Huron.

Mr. Kidd is an Irishman of very warm feeling and great generosity, and his thoughts often dwelling on the sufferings which his countrymen in Ireland are enduring at the present time, he conceived the idea of holding a grand concert, the proceeds of which, he announced, would be at once despatched to his native land to swell the large contributions which are being every day sent from this continent. The concert was under the direction of the popular and talented organist of St. Anne's choir, Searforth, Miss Annie Downey, and I must say that her merits, as a pianist, were never better displayed than on this occasion.

The performers were invited from different parts of the Province, and the programme, although very lengthy, was listened to by the most appreciative audience I ever witnessed, encores being more the rule than the exception. The ladies who took part were Miss Maggie Foster, the Misses Walsh and Miss Downie, of Searforth; the Misses Weimer and Miss Dillon, of Stratford. The gentlemen were Messrs. J. F. Egan, of Hamilton, De La Hunt, of Stratford, Dr. Phelan, of London, Clime, of Stratford, and Mr. Early, of Toronto, and Mr. Robinson, of Goderich. Mr. Dromgole is well known to the people of at least the western portion of Ontario, and it is generally conceded that, as a tenor singer, he has no superior in the province. Mr. De La Hunt's voice is a rich baritone of rare culture. He sings with very great taste, and will undoubtedly become very popular. He is but lately a resident of Canada. Mr. Early does not claim to be a professional singer but he has a pleasing voice. Mr. Robinson, as a bass, exhibited very great power; he is always popular. Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Lizzie Doyle and Mr. Ferguson never appeared to better advantage, each sustaining the parts assigned to them most ably.—Goderich Star.

Where all did so well it is unnecessary to particularize, suffice it to say that all acquitted themselves with such effect that they left upon the minds of the audience the impression that they had listened to one of the best conducted and most talented concert ever rendered in a public hall in this city, town or village in Canada. Too much cannot be said of Mr. Kidd's enterprise in furnishing the residents of Dublin with such a beautiful hall, and all I can wish is that it may be often filled to its utmost capacity with the lovers of music, drama and literature, and that Mr. Kidd may long live to enjoy the comforts and ease which his life-long industry has so justly won for him.

Immediately after the concert the performers, with many of Mr. Kidd's friends and admirers, met, by invitation of that gentleman, at his beautiful residence, to the number of about fifty, where they were royally entertained by their host—able host, first and foremost, and not until all sat appeared to welcome the scenes of another day did they separate, all satisfied with the manner in which they had spent the opening night of Kidd's Opera House, in Dublin.

Yours truly,
A LOVER OF MUSIC.

THE DISTRESS IN IRELAND.

LETTER FROM HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP CRINNON.

The Bishop of Hamilton has forwarded the following letter to Mr. C. Magill, the Treasurer of the Hamilton Branch of the Irish Relief Fund. The letter speaks for itself:

BISHOP'S PALACE,
Hamilton, Jan. 15, 1880.

DEAR SIR,—I send you the enclosed cheque for fifty dollars ($50) as my donation for the distressed in Ireland. It is very humiliating for Irishmen to see their country coming so frequently before the world as a mendicant for alms, when even the worst year the country produces more than double the quantity of provisions that the people could consume. This sad condition arises from the unjust law which now exists between landlord and tenant. An exorbitant rent is exacted from the people and spent in a foreign land by the great majority of landlords, who have no sympathy for their tenants. We are told that the rights of property are sacred. Yes; but the preservation of a nation is still more sacred, and the Government for the aggrandizement of a few does not do its duty. Let us hope that this severe trial will produce some salutary remedy for this long-standing evil. I remain, dear sir, yours faithfully,
P. F. CRINNON,
Bishop of Hamilton.

THE LONDON STAMMERING INSTITUTE.—A few days ago we paid a visit to the above named institute, and found it in a most flourishing condition. We saw speech sufferers of all ages, and from all parts of the country, some of them from a great distance, and they all seemed highly pleased with the success of the treatment. Too much can scarcely be said in favor of the principal, Prof. Sutherland, whose many years of untiring study of the nature and cause of impediments in speech has enabled him to perfect a mode of treatment for the permanent cure of this terrible affliction. To say that the London Stammering Institute is a source of much good is but to speak the truth. It is more. It is a blessing, which can only be appreciated by those who have suffered the torture of being unable to express their thoughts, and have been exposed to the jeers and ridicule of the thoughtless. We are free to confess that we were slow to believe that stammering could be cured in a short time, if indeed it could be cured at all, but the many remarkable cures made in our city during the past year, known to us by the matter beyond the shadow of a doubt, and we can but wish Prof. Sutherland and his good work a hearty God speed.

Among the most remarkable productions of this age and country is Hall's Hair Renewer. Its success unparalleled. It is sought after by rich and poor, high and low, young and old. Inhabitants of foreign lands—the people of Australia, of Europe, and of South America, find means to get it at whatever cost. It is because it works like magic. It restores the hair to its youthful color and beauty, and robs approaching age of one of its disagreeable accompaniments. If you are getting bald, try it. Try it if you are getting gray, or if you have any disease of the scalp. Try it if you wish a good hair dressing. It will not disappoint you. —Munich (Ind.) News.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE.—This work is before us, and those who send five cents to JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y., for it will be disappointed. Instead of getting a cheap thing, as the price would seem to indicate, they will receive a very handsome work of one hundred pages, and perhaps 500 illustrations—not cheap, but elegant illustrations, on the very best of calendared paper, and as a set off to the whole, an elegant Colored Plate, that we would judge cost twice the price of the book. Address—JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y.

THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS.—Those who suffer from complaints of these organs cannot do better than communicate with J. W. Stone, of Ingersoll, who is sole agent in Ontario for the Indian Blood Syrup. This has effected the most remarkable cures also in cases of dyspepsia. Small bottles 60c. Large bottles $1.15. Send for circulars and list of testimonials.

The Ailsa Craig salve, prepared by the old Irish lady, and about which the Rev. T. Atkinson can be consulted, is said to be curing sores of from 6 to 21 years' standing and which for a long time were regarded as perfectly hopeless cases. King's evil and

MITCHELL.

PRESENTATION TO THE ORGANIST.

On Friday evening Miss Prindleville, organist of the Catholic church in Mitchell, was the recipient of a beautiful gold neck chain and locket, accompanied by an address, from the members of the church and choir. She was about to leave home to complete her education at Loretto Convent, Guelph, and her church friends thought this mark of recognition for past service well deserved. Under her charge the choir made great progress, and though living two miles in the country, neither hail, rain or cold ever prevented the lady from being in her place at every service since she assumed charge of the organ. The address was read by Mr. Michael Broderick, and the presentation made by Miss Mary King, each of whom discharged their parts well. Miss Prindleville made a suitable and pleasing reply, thanking the donors for their kindness.
