

GILBERT PARKER TO LEAVE COAST; A FILM SUCCESS

Famous Novelist "Made Good" at Writing Plots for Screen

TIP ON BATH HOUSE

Belleville Not the Only Place
Where Beach is Cause of Worry

By W. S. MacDiarmid.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1, 1921.—Sir Gilbert Parker will leave California on September 10th for England. He is leaving with the knowledge that he has triumphed as a playwright in the Silent Drama. This week crowds are attending the beautiful California theatre where his first big play, "A Wise Fool," is delighting theatregoers. The play is based on his successful novel, "The Money Master," James Kirkwood, in the role of Jean Jacques, is a happy choice. He plays the part with great power and expression. Other well known stars in the cast are Ann Forrest, as Dolores; Alice Hollister and Truly Shattuck. The Examiner has the following to say of Sir Gilbert:

"Teach facts. But don't advocate. That's the way to sum up Sir Gilbert's conception of the purpose of any tale printed or screened. The facts he would teach are of life 'as is.' The privilege of explaining these facts belongs to the reader by divine right. Creeds seeking to show what might be or what should be are banished into the outer waste basket."

Which merely proves that the British novelist like any other has ideas of his own. Maybe he will take some new ones with him when he returns to London.

Asked if his future novels would be affected by his newly acquired knowledge of screen requisites he said:

"I wouldn't allow the films to influence me in the slightest."

Now there's a stumper. Sir Gilbert does not run true to form. Most of the literary geniuses return from a few weeks' floating on the filmic seas with pronounced tendencies towards bringing up their children to be more respectful to the movie art.

About Those Baths. In recent editions of The Ontario considerable space is devoted to the question of public baths and what to do with the $5,000 left by the late Henry Corby. If history is to be relied upon there is a terrific warning to the natives of the city by the bay. Look at what happened in Rome when the natives quit work and took to bathing. They got so much in the habit of taking off their clothes that they didn't feel comfortable with them on.

The present short skirted styles for women evidently started in Rome instead of Paris. Like ex-Alderman Robinson the writer would advise everyone in the old home town to read Quo Vadis before building public baths. When men begin to patronize the public bath and use perfume its curfew and thumbs down. In the old days the head of Zwick's Island used to be the popular resort for the natives of the sterner sex. There the male September Morn poses were first introduced. The costumes were not as brilliant as seen on the beaches nowadays. They were not visible to the naked eye. The building of the pump house took away the popular resort as the engineer said the swimmers riled the water at the intake pipe and filled the pumps full of sand and gravel. The Quinte was large enough, however, to accommodate the swimmers and if anyone in those days had suggested a bathing house he would have had to engage Guss Porter to defend him.

Use Bath Houses. In Los Angeles there is the Pacific Ocean from Venice to San Pedro to swim in, a distance of fifteen miles yet in the city there are scores of baths, public and private. Sometimes the ocean is so rough that the life guards won't allow the boldest swimmer out and then the public baths are used. They are made of cement. It would be easy for Belleville to build one or two as the cement is manufactured there. The pools are about 100 yards long and the water tapers off from 3 feet to 8 feet in depth with a rope in the centre to divide the danger zone. Children and grown folks have a splendid time at the parks with these plunges as they are called. The bathing suits rent from 15c to 25c and in this way the plunges are self supporting. There would be no expense to the tax payer so there would be no excuse to raise the rent. In this way a plunge could be furnished for the east and the west side. The only problem would be to get the natives to pay for a bathing suit. The members of the west side would never be held up for 15c a bathing suit, not unless they have greatly changed in the last 20 years. It's not that the west side boys were tight wads, 15c was a lot of money to have all at once.

Have the Last Word. The newspapers of Los Angeles have been having a lot of fun during the past week printing the details of a row that has happened at one of the exclusive society plunges. The male members of the club posted up a notice that the female members should take a soap bath before entering the plunge. They said the female of the species came decked with a two-piece bathing suit and three coats of rouge, paint and powder, and if the men came late they had to jump into water that left red stripes all over them. The females did not like that and they came back with the charge that the men did not go in the pool at all, but just rubbed at the figures and shapes of the ladies. The men have not replied to this and at present the women have the last word as usual. It is a serious thing this question of public baths. No one wants to see the top of the mountain at Trenton blow off and burn up the city. Why do the comedians make fun of the old Saturday night baths, but they do.

BRITAIN FEARS CHOLERA PERIL PORTS WATCHED

Steps in Old Land Being Taken to Prevent Entry of Plague

CURZON HELPS HOOVER
Tremendous Efforts to be Made
Jointly by Allies to Fight
Famine

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Britain is taking the greatest possible precaution against the introduction of cholera from Russia. The Ministry of Health has posted specialists at all ports, and all immigrants are being closely examined.

Special bacteriological laboratories have been established in the ports of London and Liverpool, and medical officers have been instructed to detain all cases which show the least suspicion. If one should slip through the local medical officers are armed with the amplest power to take all measures necessary for his arrest to prevent the spread of infection.

An immense map showing the spread of the plague day by day is on view at the Ministry of Health.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The greatest relief movement in the history of the civilized world is scheduled to begin in September, when an army of workers and millions of tons of supplies will invade Russia by way of Odessa and Riga under the joint direction of Herbert Hoover and Lord Curzon. They will co-operate with the Soviet Government.

This paramount fact, which involves recognition of the Soviet Government by the entire world, became a practical certainty following the appointment of a commission by the Supreme Council. The Commission was ordered to "sit day and night and reach a decision this week as to ways and means to succor Russia, considering only the humanitarian, and not the political, viewpoint."

The international organization will work on the following broad lines:

Great deposits will be established to which millions of tons of grain and all supplies will be rushed.

All railways will be reconstructed and put into the work of carrying relief.

Factories will be opened to provide work in congested areas.

A chain of hospitals will be established.

It is indicated that the work will probably last for at least two years, employing at least 20,000 workers and costing the world, as a minimum figure, ten billion dollars.

Lord Curzon outlined the three points on which the relief will be based. Co-operation of the Soviet Government is absolutely essential, owing to its control of transportation.

Premier Briand, who had previously urged recognition of Kerensky and the overthrow of the Soviets, appeared to be convinced in favor of the new plan.

The Soviets must agree to co-operate in order that the international relief organization may have supreme authority in its field.

The third necessary step will be the enlistment and mobilization of thousands of experienced workers. Former Premier Bonomi, of Italy, suggested that the matter of relief for starving Russia be left to the present organizations, but this was unanimously rejected. Lloyd George declared:

"This matter is the biggest of its kind in history. Neither the Red Cross nor Hoover, alone, is capable of handling it. The world must combine, or the cholera which sweeps Europe will cost more than the war."

Rebekah Lodge Goes on a Picnic

Yesterday, Wednesday, the members of Quintana Rebekah Lodge with their friends held their annual picnic at Rednersville, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowsome having very kindly invited them to their summer home on the shore of Bay of Quinte.

About two o'clock, automobiles of every description left the Lodge Room with a crowd of about 150. On arriving at Rednersville the first of the program was a baseball match between the ladies and the men. Charlie Hanna filled the position of umpire, but by his decisions it looks as if he is thinking of running for member of Parliament and wants the ladies' vote, as most of them were disputed. The ladies eventually won by the score of 21 to 17. A series of races were then run off and the performance of some of the competitors caused much laughter. The most important part of the program then took place, namely, supper, which was held on the splendid lawn in front of the house, after which an open air concert was held. Miss Lilian Richmond, of Toronto, holding the audience by her wonderful elocution numbers. Miss Richmond gave in all some eight numbers which were all greatly applauded. Mr. G. Cornish also recited and through the thoughtfulness of Mr. Rowsome the Rednersville Brass Band were present and a band concert was much enjoyed. Before leaving, expressions of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Rowsome were carried by hearty cheers. The arrangements were made by a committee of which Mrs. E. Truvey was chairman, and Mrs. F. Andrews secretary.

AYLMER'S FIRE LOSS $1,250,000; RELIEF PROMPT

Homes of 750 Are Swept Away
in Big Blaze Late Wednesday

ONLY ONE LIFE IS LOST
Farm Buildings Two Miles Away From Town Also Catch Fire

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Aylmer, Quebec, a picturesque little town of seven thousand inhabitants on Lake Deschene, which was swept by fire yesterday, is a scene of grief and desolation today with 750 persons homeless and their belongings destroyed.

D. R. Lortie, aged 68, is dead and property damage is estimated at $1,250,000. Most of the principal buildings of the town are destroyed. The fire spread with such rapidity most of the sufferers had barely time to escape with their lives. Mr. Lortie was trying to save his house with a hose from the roof when the building fell in, and he was burned to death.

Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, this morning ordered a large number of tents and mattresses to the scene.

The fire began with dramatic suddenness, leaped from dwelling to dwelling, urged on by the stiff breeze that came from across Lake Deschene, and within ninety minutes had laid waste the town. The flames carried everything before them and, as each gust of wind blew, fresh flames burst out and soon the heart of Aylmer was a seething furnace.

The heat was terrific and the wind carried it far beyond the limits of the town. An idea of the fury of the fire can be gauged from the fact that two farms respectively two and three miles from the place of origin of the fire were burned, and that the woods and brush five and a half miles away caught on fire. Crops were scorched, trees razed and the whole countryside for miles seared by the heat of the blaze.

The one fatality so far known is the death of D. G. Lortie, aged 68, proprietor of a general store. His blackened remains were discovered beneath the ruins of his store on the corner of Court and Notre Dame streets. It is said that he went in to save some of the harness and other goods in the store when drums of coal oil burst into flames and enveloped him. He leaves a large family.

Truckload after truckload of bread, milk, butter, cheese, hams and fruit arrived shortly after five and the provisions were stored away in the town hall under the care of the police.
